

Red Chinese Caused Deaths Of Millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A press in some areas, but said study published today by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee estimates Chinese Communism has cost at least 34 million lives and possibly as many as 63 million in the past 50 years.

The author of the study, Richard L. Walker, director of the Institute of International Studies at the University of South Carolina, said: "A reasonable estimate would be that the figure approaches 50 million Chinese."

The study, titled "The Human Cost of Communism in China," was ordered printed by the subcommittee July 27, after announcement of President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Peking in what Nixon has called a journey for peace.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., subcommittee chairman, said in an introduction to the study its publication "comes at a particularly opportune moment."

Alliance of Convenience
He said "there is nothing new historically about accommodations or alliances of convenience between basically hostile powers," adding that in certain situations "such arrangements are not only desirable but well-nigh unavoidable."

"But if we are to have relations with Red China," Eastland said, "let us do so with our eyes open."

He described Walker as "widely recognized as one of this country's foremost China scholars" and said he was requested by the subcommittee last fall, on the initiative of the late Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., to prepare the study.

Eastland said the great merit of the study was that "while it does not deny the Communists credit for certain important economic and social accomplishments, it paints the picture whole by assessing and bringing to life the terrible human cost at which these accomplishments were achieved."

Mainland Rule
Walker's study begins with the founding of the Chinese Communist Party in 1921 and traces its rise to rule mainland China under Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai.

Walker said the Communists have made remarkable progress in some areas, but said this has been accompanied by mass executions, purges, slave labor and terror.

"The cost of progress achieved under Communist rule is too high for the conscience of the world to absolve its perpetrators," he said. "In terms of human life and human suffering and in terms of destruction of moral and cultural values this cost cannot be condoned by any rationalization."

"The high Chinese Communist Party leaders who sit down at convivial banquets with visiting Americans may be guilty of as great crimes against humanity and their own people as were Hitler and Stalin and their followers," he said.

Any Act

"In the case of Chou and Mao," Walker said, "their commitment to their Communist faith has been one of more than a half century, and in its name they have not hesitated to commit any act."

"For some strange reason," Eastland said, "most of the newspapermen who have traveled to China for the American press in the wake of Peking's invitation to the American Ping Pong team felt called upon to paint Communist China in the most positive hues and to ignore the massive evidence of inhumanity and aggression that has characterized Communist rule in China."

Walker said "the direct cost in human lives" of the Chinese Communist movement is difficult to measure but he drew on various sources in and out of China in offering estimates of the possible toll.

Times Estimate

For example, he cited a New York Times editorial of June 2, 1959 in reporting "estimates that the first decade of the People's Republic of China had brought the extermination of 30 million people."

Moscow Radio, which he at one point calls "obviously not the most reliable of sources," nevertheless is quoted as charging that "in the course of 10 years, more than 25 million people in China were exterminated."

Walker said in the study "it is probable that the Chinese forced labor camps have exacted a higher toll in human life than the mass executions."

Londonderry Center Of New Irish Rioting

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Religious rioting raged through Londonderry early today as Protestants celebrated a victory over Roman Catholics three centuries ago, but Belfast had its quietest night since Catholic republicans turned the city into a battleground on Monday.

Five more persons were killed in Belfast Wednesday before British soldiers restored an uneasy peace, shattered only by a 90-minute gun battle between troops and snipers at dawn today. The killings Wednesday raised the toll to 24 in Northern Ireland this week.

Hundreds of others have been injured, an estimated 7,000 persons have fled from their homes, and hundreds of buildings have been destroyed by fire in the violence triggered by the internment of more than 300 persons suspected of belonging to the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The commander of the 12,500 British troops in the province, Lt. Gen. Sir Harry Tuzo, said the situation appeared to be "going in our favor now and in the proper direction."

He predicted that the violence would continue until the weekend and possibly longer, "but things will begin to improve soon, of that I am certain." The IRA, spearhead of the republican fight, was reported running short of arms and ammunition.

In Londonderry, the province's second city, Catholic fury exploded during the night as Protestants lit bonfires to commemorate the Aug. 12 anniversary of the breaking of the Catholic siege of Londonderry in 1689. The date also marks the arrival of British troops to combat communal warfare in the province two years ago.

More than 400 Catholic women and children marched out of the Bogside enclave to protest the internment of suspected terrorists, chanting: "If you shoot a British soldier clap your hands."

When they dispersed, Catholic men took to the streets with bombs, bottles and a scattering of automatic rifles. The army estimated 500 gasoline bombs were thrown, and at least 12 shots cracked from sniper posts in the Bogside in less than five minutes.

One casualty was reported. A British newsman was seized by a mob and smashed against a car. He got a gash over an eye and had to have several stitches.

The undeclared armistice in Belfast was broken just before dawn when British troops moved into the Falls Road area, a republican enclave, to remove barricades thrown across the streets by rioters. Snipers opened up, and the soldiers dived for cover and returned the fire.

One woman was wounded in the crossfire. After 90 minutes of continuous shooting, the area fell quiet again and army bulldozers removed the barricades.

Officials in the Irish Republic to the south estimate that 5,000 Catholic refugees have crossed the frontier since the violence began, severely taxing relief facilities.

Women, children and babies are arriving "by the hundreds every hour," said an Irish army officer. One refugee camp, designed to hold 100 people, held 1,600 Wednesday night.

Black GIs Frustrated In Far East

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's civil-rights chief says he found some black servicemen in the Far East so frustrated they cried and suffered "verbal paralysis" in trying to tell him their troubles.

In a report not yet distributed publicly, Frank Render told Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird: "The frustrations of these men is so great and their pent-up fury so high that many of them have exceeding difficulty expressing themselves civilian officials and military officers "who failed to produce satisfactory results" in dealing with racial discrimination.

Render's trip to the Far East came more than three months later and his report sounded as though many of the problems he had found in Europe still had not been cured by the new Pentagon antidiscrimination orders.

Serious Disorders

At one point, Render's report spoke of "situations pregnant with the potential for serious racial disorders."

After his visit, there were several black-white incidents in South Korea, including an alleged grenade murder attempt by three black soldiers.

The Pentagon civil-rights chief listed a number of improvements in the Pacific area, including command leadership in establishing human-relations and race-relations councils, emergence of "affirmative and constructive leadership" from black and white enlisted men, and creation of interracial "brotherhood" organizations.

But Render also said: "We received numerous complaints from black and other minority-group personnel alleging that the promotion system functioned in a discriminatory manner."

Mennial Tasks

"Other blacks complained that they were given the menial and dirty tasks and the duty roster oftentimes being rigged in a manner unfavorable to them."

"Many minority-group military personnel spoke of the maladministration of the system of military justice . . .

"Many of the affirmative policies and programs developed at the higher echelons were not being transmitted down the chain of command to the lowest trooper . . .

"We found that blacks and whites were moving farther and farther away from each other, resegregating through accelerated racial polarization. This occurred on the base and also in the communities off the base. There were black bars and clubs and white bars and clubs."

"All too frequently the American military men in uniform had again succeeded in exporting American racism to foreign soils."

First to Face Charges

Marine POW Cleared of Enemy Aid

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — "I felt I had always acted the right way; now I'll get my honorable discharge," Marine Sgt. Jon M. Sweeney said after he was found innocent of running away in the presence of the enemy in Vietnam and communicating with his Communist captors after being taken prisoner.

"I feel total relief," the 21-year-old West Babylon, N.Y., Leatherneck told newsmen after military judge Capt. B. Raymond Perkins' decision Wednesday ending Sweeney's week-long court-martial.

"I'm going to try to help others understand the POW situation," said Sweeney who spent 18 months in North Vietnamese prisons. "POWs are being used as a political football."

Sweeney, the first American POW to face such charges, was accused by the government of running away and deserting his unit during Operation Dewey Canyon in Quang Tri Province on Feb. 19, 1969, and with communicating with the enemy during his imprisonment.

Charge Dismissed
The desertion charge was dismissed last Monday. Perkins' decision Wednesday came after Sweeney had spent virtually all day on the witness stand.

Sweeney maintained throughout the proceedings that his unit had left him behind and that he had not run away.

He testified that he was found by two Viet Cong scouts and was taken north along the Ho Chi Minh trail on a truck loaded with wounded North Vietnamese soldiers.

Sweeney said he tried to escape but was dragged back into the truck, bound hand and foot, and was placed on the floor of the vehicle. The wounded troops sat on him, he said.

Imprisoned in North Vietnam, he said, he was interrogated an average six hours a day. He said he was beaten continually while under questioning.

Sweeney, who will be 22 on Friday, said he was forced to sign antiwar statements and make propaganda tape recordings which were broadcast over Radio Hanoi. He said a North Vietnamese army officer held a pistol at his head at each of these sessions.

Testimony by three psychiatrists and Sweeney, a slight man who stands about 5 feet 7 inches, indicated he was placed in a 6-by-3-foot cell by the North Vietnamese and became "grossly depressed," tried to hang himself and had night

Permanent Station Possible

Spacemen Favor More Moon Missions

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 15 astronaut David R. Scott said today he believes permanent science stations should be set up on the moon and he called for restoration of two canceled moon missions.

"I believe we should explore the moon to a far greater extent than we are now," Scott said. "I think we should have a whole base of scientists up there, and I think we should have a rover (moon car) that would carry a half dozen men."

Scott made the comments during the first news conference since he and his crewmates, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden, completed their 12-day expedition to the moon.

Scott said that the canceled Apollo 18 and Apollo 19 moon landings should be restored "right now."

The astronauts said that during their time on the surface, in and orbit of the moon they saw scores of places they felt could be of scientific importance.

Scientific Data
"Any place you go there's just a wealth of material, new and unusual scientific data," said Scott.

"I think the moon is indeed a fascinating place," he added. "I hesitate to use the word barren and desolate. To the three of us the moon was dynamic, beautiful and it has character."

Scott and Irwin had high praise for the Rover, the first car on the moon.

"That little system exceeded our expectations," said Irwin, as he narrated a film he took as the little car moved across the lunar surface. "The ride is very bouncy. It's a combination of a small rowboat on a rough sea and a bucking bronco." Scott and Irwin showed photographs they took of layering in the lunar mountains and hills, and in the wall of Hadley Rille, a deep canyon.

Much Organization

"We saw organization which we never expected to see," said Irwin, referring to the layering. The spacemen ended their lunar expedition last Saturday, splashing down in the Pacific Ocean after a voyage of more than 1.2 million miles.

Scott and Irwin spent 19 hours exploring the surface of the moon and collecting 175 to 185 pounds of lunar samples, including what they believe to be a bit of the moon's original crust.

They used the first car on the moon to explore more than 17 miles of the lunar surface, visiting the foothills of mountains, scores of craters and driving along a mile-wide, 1,200-foot-deep canyon called Hadley Rille.

While his crewmates were on the moon, Worden spent three days in orbit alone. He operated a $17 million cluster of science instruments and cameras which mapped the lunar features and gathered data on the chemical composition of about 20 per cent of the moon.

Since their return here Sunday, the astronauts have spent long hours debriefing on their mission. Experts have quizzed the spacemen about every detail of the trip. The debriefings are expected to continue for two weeks.

While the astronauts talked, scientists in the Lunar Receiving Laboratory unpacked about half of the moon rocks. The piece of the moon's crust, bag 196, is expected to be unveiled on Friday.

Gastronomic Feats to be Dropped

No Limit to Stupid Things

LONDON (AP) — The Guinness Book of Records may drop screwball gastronomic feats because challengers might harm themselves.

The November edition of the reference book which sells about 1.5 million copies a year may be the last to record such feats as drinking beer upside down, swallowing live goldfish and eating baked beans at a furious pace.

The bean eating record, by the way, is held by eight British boys who consumed 40 pounds in 30 minutes.

Recent editions of the book have included with the gastronomic records the caution: "From a medical point of view record attempts must be regarded as extremely inadvisable."

David Hoy of Guinness Superlatives, which puts out the work said, "Some of the records have got to dangerous extremes and we don't want any of our readers injuring themselves. Someone did injure himself recently trying to break the record for drinking beer while standing on one's head."

He said the pruning of the gastronomic department would probably be accompanied by a trimming in car-crashing listings. The record for this is held by 46 Austrians who squeezed into a minicar, but Hoy said 120 people once tried to cram into a Volkswagen beetle.

World Gastronomic records come under 24 headings in the book. They include a man who drank 3½ pints of beer while upside down and another who swallowed 210 live goldfish at one sitting.

Then there was the Welshman who last month downed 62 pints of beer in one hour. He managed it by a "temporary consumption" method, vomiting at certain intervals. "There is no limit to the stupid things some people will do," said Hoy.

Your Money's Worth

Aides Ease Shortage Of Doctors, Cut Costs

BY SYLVIA PORTER
Let's say you or your daughter would like to become a nurse. Are you — or is she — aware of the new specialties now emerging in the nursing profession?

As just one instance, in New York City nurses are being trained as anesthetists or "gas girls" capable of administering anesthetics in uncomplicated surgery not requiring the services of a full M.D. anesthesiologist.

Or let's say you or your child would like to be a dentist. If so, perhaps you should consider becoming a dental auxiliary. Such auxiliaries are now being trained at New York State University's Stony Brook Dental College in a two-year course to take over a large share of today's simple, uncomplicated dentist's duties, including much of the teeth cleaning and filling — at a fraction of the traditional cost to you, the patient.

Porter

Or let's say you or your son or daughter are determined to become a physician. If you are especially strong on math and engineering, you might want to consider becoming a biomedical engineer as an alternative. Your job would involve the design and development of medical instruments and prosthetic devices — ranging from electronic heart pacemakers to the application of laser technology in medicine. Typical earnings of today's full-fledged biomedical engineer with a Ph. D. degree are $20,000 to $25,000.

Costs Skyrocketing
It's scarcely news to any of you that costs of health services of every kind have been skyrocketing — but just to remind you again of the brutal burden: The average cost of spending a single day in a semi-private hospital room in the U.S. is up to $80. The minimum wage for hospital employees in New York City is now $130, nearly double the $76 minimum as recently as 1967. Also in New York, a newly licensed practical nurse earns an average of $139 a week and an RN earns an average starting salary of $207. Nationally, a beginning hospital pharmacist now earns an average of $224, according to a recent, unpublished survey by the American Hospital Association in Chicago. The key force behind our soaring medical costs has been the persistent shortage of professionals in all areas — physicians, dentists, nurses. Despite relatively huge infusions of public funds into medical and nursing schools, the professions have so far shown themselves incapable of solving the basic problem.

Yet, doctors themselves report that 20 per cent of the tasks they perform today actually could be properly and more than adequately taken over by physicians' assistants, according to a recent study by the Tri-State-Regional Medical Program (New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island), headed by Dr. Leona Baumgartner at Harvard University, and the New Hampshire Medical Society.

Stretch Productivity
The physician's assistant — capable of performing a wide range of duties ranging from taking patient histories to handling specific, straightforward diagnostic and therapeutic procedures — could stretch the productivity of the typical physician by as much as 50 per cent. And this is merely one category of the new health professionals being trained under 100 or more programs at universities across the country today.

What has become unmistakably clear — at last — is that we must redesign professional health jobs as far as feasible so that new types and classes of professionals can be trained to enter all areas of health care.

What is obviously of urgent importance is that these new professionals be able to assume part of the tasks bogging down our traditional health professionals — with their 10 to 12 or more years of post-high school education.

And what is simple to grasp is the dollars-and-cents meaning to us, the patients, of these innovative health professional training programs. We just don't need highly skilled doctors or nurses to help us with elementary health problems. We don't need to have a full-fledged professional take our uncomplicated medical histories or give us a routine blood pressure test. A semi-professional earning $10,000 to $20,000 a year could take over in many areas from a professional earning $25,000 to $50,000 — could give us the care we need and slash our health costs in the process.

To Your Good Health

Noise Does Agitate Fetus, Writer Claims

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M. D.
I try to offer information that will help readers. It works both ways. I get a lot of helpful letters from readers, some of them doctors, some not.

A short while ago a reader said her daughter-in-law, seven months pregnant, was nervous and sick to her stomach because her husband and his friends insisted on playing rock music (with the usual amplifiers) in the house. Could it affect the baby?

I said I didn't know, but couldn't see how — although I still see no reason why one wouldn't be justified in disabling the amplifiers.

Anyway, the following letter came to me:

"Dear Doctor: This is apparently a relatively new field of investigation. I am only a layman but have done considerable reading in preparation for a bulletin on sound pollution. In the 1969 Britannica Yearbook of Science, the noted Rene Dubos writes that recent investigations indicate that supposedly tolerable noise levels can cause ear damage in animals and that sounds not loud enough to awaken sleeping persons nevertheless affect their brain waves. Most disturbing in this regard is the recent discovery that the heart of the fetus can be accelerated by noises to which the mother appears to have become tolerant.

"From 'The Fight for Quiet,' by Theodore Berland, the comment is made that a great many outside noises come through to the unborn baby quite clearly: auto crashes, sonic booms, music. In the seventh month of pregnancy the fetus' body responds to noise by changes in his little heart's fast rate of beat.

"Berland goes on to relate that in the 1920s a German investigator reported a number of cases of expectant mothers who complained that they could not go to symphony concerts because of the greatly intensified activity of the babies they were carrying. Another reported a case of an expectant mother who found that the applause of the audience caused such extreme fetal activity that it was painful.

"Response to noise is in the form of violent kicking and moving, and there is also an increase in heart rate. Berland says it may climb from 130 to 150 or even 170.

"So it is quite possible that the daughter-in-law had very good reason for feeling 'sick to her stomach.'" — M. W. K.

Of course healthy babies have been born in the midst of air raids and other such hideous times — but there must be a lot we have yet to learn about noise.

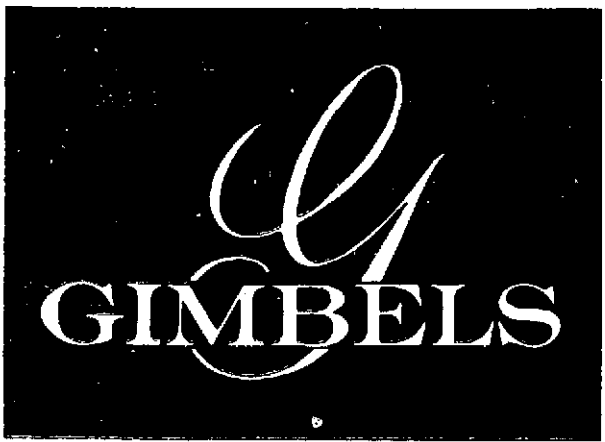

But meantime, shouldn't good manners take care of rock music that bothers a pregnant wife? And will the racket continue when the baby needs his nap?

Dear Doctor: I have polyps in the colon, and sometimes see blood. I eat a bland diet. Write something to help me. — H.E.F.

If the polyps are bleeding, then I'd urge that you report it to your doctor. He may consider it wise to remove them because, in the colon, polyps sometimes cause no particular trouble, but then again can be malignant, which is about as serious as you can get.

Note to Mrs. J. R.: I don't know why some men are so stubborn about not going to a doctor when lumps or other symptoms develop, but suspect that many of them are just chicken. Fact is, of course, that the lumps may be harmless fatty tumors, and other symptoms may be equally innocuous. If anybody ever tells me a sure-fire way to get these people out of their funk, I'll surely print it.

State Gets COG Plan

Metro Agency Urged

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Fox Valley Council of Governments delegates Wednesday stuck to their preference for a four-county metropolitan planning agency in endorsing a six-point program being forwarded today to the governor's aide attempting to mediate the planning stalemate.

The proposal, prepared by the staff as base data for the mediation attempt, calls for a four-county metropolitan agency, including Winnebago, Calumet, Fond du Lac and Outagamie counties.

General in nature, it also emphasizes the dominance of local elected officials on the agency's governing board.

Only Menasha Mayor James Adams dissented. He expressed fear that adoption would put COG into a corner on the planning issue and urged more study and consideration by the councils and boards of COG's municipalities.

More a Judge? Lawrence Michaels, COG executive director, responded to concerns that the mediator probably would be closer to a judge than a mediator.

Byron Murken, Oshkosh Common Council president, said the proposals would be considered suggestions by the mediator. He also noted that they were general and carried two vital considerations — the county membership of a new agency and the COG preference to use its enabling statute which he said was more flexible than that of Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Northeastern and COG have been in a running battle since the indications came that planning jurisdictions must be changed to satisfy new federal and state requirements. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey was forced into the mediation attempt as federal dissatisfaction grew over the stalemate on meeting the new requirements.

The mediator, W. Jeffrey Smoller, recently met with COG and Northeastern officials and requested the base data and positions so he could begin working toward a compromise, he said today.

Up to Counties Smoller said the proposals wouldn't necessarily put the agencies in a corner. "We don't propose to impose any kind of settlement on the counties," he said, noting that the eventual decision on a new agency or agencies must be made by the counties.

However, he added that the full weight of the governor's office would be used to bring a compromise which probably wouldn't leave either agency completely happy.

"If consensus can't be reached," he said, "some people in the Fox Valley area are going to be losing some federal and state money, and a lot of money."

Smoller said he would study the two agencies' proposals for points of disagreement. He said he couldn't set a deadline for his work but noted that expediency is vital.

Proposals Due Charles Herve, executive director of Northeastern, said today that his staff has prepared its proposals, and they are now being studied by the commission's executive committee. They will be submitted to Smoller "as soon as practicable," he added.

Two veins of concern were expressed Wednesday by delegates over COG's proposal. Besides Adams' warning that the proposals were being acted on too quickly, some village representatives said they felt the one vote per 5,000 population formula in representation would be unfair to them because of their size.

COG officials heard a proposal for lowering the number to 3,500 but then decided to remove any formula and propose only that "the proposed form of representation would include proportional voting."

The COG proposal also recommended as a transition solution that a dual-agency approach be used, with the seven nonmetropolitan counties of Northeastern continuing as a separate planning jurisdiction until new regional agencies are formed.

Serious Point This has been a serious point of disagreement since Northeastern is fiercely opposed to being split up. Its two metropolitan counties are Outagamie and Winnebago.

Other recommendations are that entire counties be the minimum jurisdictional lines, the districts coincide with the administrative districts for state services, and the remaining four counties in the Lake Winnebago Administrative District — Green Lake, Marquette, Waushara and Waupaca — be allowed to join the other four if they choose to.

In other business, COG officials voted to change the articles of agreement in COG's bylaws so a member municipality need give only 60 days notice instead of six months for quitting the agency. They also voted that if half the membership chooses to leave the agency, it be automatically disbanded.

Bomb Threat Delays Air Wisconsin Flight

MOSINEE — An Air Wisconsin plane was delayed 1½ hours in its flight to Appleton Wednesday afternoon while police searched for a bomb.

Flight 62, carrying two crewmen and five passengers, four of them Appleton residents, had just departed from Central Wisconsin Airport here when airport officials received notice of the bomb scare.

A Marathon County sheriff's deputy said the bomb threat was telephoned to the Minneapolis airport by an unidentified person. The plane had left Minneapolis about 12:55 p.m., bound for Chicago with stops at Mosinee and Appleton.

The sheriff's department was notified at 2 p.m. County and state police and fire fighting equipment from the airport and return to Central Wisconsin from Mosinee were dispatched.

Two Wisconsin State Patrol bomb experts from the Schofield district headquarters searched the evacuated plane for 45 minutes, finding no bomb. The Beechcraft 99 then continued its flight.

The plane was piloted by Thomas W. Stocker. Co-pilot was James R. Uher, both of 2905-A W. Fourth St., Appleton.

The four Appleton passengers were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Krause, 715 Timmers Lane; Mrs. Florence Sommers, 543 N. Lincoln Ave., and Barbara Nolan, 380 River Drive.

The fifth passenger was a woman from out of state. Mrs. Sommers said neither the pilot nor the co-pilot made any mention of a bomb threat when they informed the passengers they had been advised to return to Central Wisconsin Airport.

One Lane of new pavement is in place on Wisconsin Avenue, between Lynndale and Bluemound drives, as visible in this aerial photo looking northwest across the construction site. Completion of work is expected Oct. 1 on the major artery which brings U.S. 10 traffic into Appleton from the west.

Intensify Antismoking Drive, Educators Told

BY BILL LEACH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Over one million of today's school-age youngsters will die of lung cancer before they are 70, area teachers attending a Cooperative Educational Service Agency No. 8 in-service workshop here were told Wednesday.

And, Dr. L. T. Schaefer, a Neenah gynecologist and obstetrician who is the area medical director for the American Cancer Society, added that smoking is the major cause of that particular type of cancer. Some 75 per cent of lung cancer cases are directly attributable to cigarettes, he said.

He told the teachers that the most effective approach they could follow to inform their students of the hazards of smoking was to give them "factual information and let them make their own decisions."

"Fourth grade is not too early to begin disseminating information on smoking hazards," Schaefer added.

He had plenty of information to disseminate to the teachers at this third session in the Title III-sponsored workshop designed to make educators more fully aware of the problems and consequences of drugs, narcotics, alcohol and tobacco use facing today's young people.

"Time to Quit" "The best tip to give young people about smoking is 'not to start,'" Schaefer said. "And the time to quit is now."

The average smoker, who consumes one pack of cigarettes a day, is 10 times more likely to develop lung cancer than the nonsmoker, he pointed out, adding that that same smoker will live 6½ years less than the nonsmoker.

People usually don't think of cancer as a preventable disease, the doctor said, but lung cancer, due to smoking, is preventable.

American Cancer Society figures show that 64,000 persons in the United States will die this year from lung cancer. Of that number, 53,000 will be men.

Ten years ago, Schaefer said, the lung cancer death figure in this country was only 36,000. It's the only disease in the world that's on a rapid increase, he said.

"That increase parallels the consumption of cigarettes throughout the world," the doctor declared.

Because it is difficult to detect, lung cancer's cure rate is very poor. Early detection is possible in other cancers, Schaefer said, but because lung cancer doesn't lend itself to any type of rapid revelation, public education on the subject is all the more important.

And that's where the teachers come in. "You want to impress the children who are exposed to you," he said. Teach them about the seven danger signals of cancer and give them the facts about smoking's hazards."

"Personal Pollution" Schaefer and Dr. Pearce Meighan, Appleton, showed slides and a movie dealing with the effects of cigarette smoking, particularly in the areas of lung cancer, coronary arterial sclerosis and emphysema. Color slides and excised, cancer-riddled lungs and shots of patients debilitated by emphysema depicted what the doctors had been talking about.

Meighan called smoking "personal pollution" and said smokers had a higher incidence of stomach ulcers and cancer of the urinary bladder than nonsmokers.

Schaefer said the incidence of lip cancer and other smoking-related diseases is increasing among pipe and cigar

Woehler Seeks Data Analyst

Supervisors Charge Broken Promises, 'Assistant Executive'

Amid a charge of broken campaign promises, the Outagamie County Board Tuesday referred to its policy and finance committee, a request for what a veteran supervisor said was an assistant county executive.

Executive Alvin E. Woehler, through the personnel committee, sought the hiring of a systems analyst at an annual salary of $11,568.

The analyst, who would have to be a college graduate, would work under the general supervision of the executive.

Prepare Reports According to a job description attached to the personnel committee's resolution, the analyst would prepare the variety of reports needed by the executive's office and would be responsible for working toward centralized services, equipment and data processing for the county.

The analyst would have to have knowledge of computer concepts and of the operations of accounting machines and electronic data processing equipment.

Seymour Supv. Marvin Babbitt, who supported the hiring, said that what the man really would be, is a programmer who will act as an assistant to the county executive. He said the person would have charge of bookkeeping functions.

Political Opponents The stiffest opposition to the move came from three supervisors who ran against Woehler for county executive this year. They were Charles Wussow, Eugene Kloes and John Schreiter, all of Appleton.

"I don't know if I can buy this," Wussow commented. He said that during the executive campaign Woehler "claimed he was a financial man: an accountant, an auditor, and therefore would not have to hire someone to handle related duties."

"This looks like a financial man," Wussow said of the proposed systems analyst. Wussow saw Woehler's proposal as "a broken campaign promise."

Schreiter thought there must be less costly alternatives to hiring a systems analyst. Kloes felt that had the county leased its data processing equipment, it could have gotten a maintenance and programming package as part of the

WRCC Asks for Views

Suit Against Fox, Wisconsin River Mills Eyed

MADISON — Member groups of the Wisconsin Conservation Council (WRCC) are being asked for their views on a proposal to direct the council to bring a class action lawsuit against all of the paper mills on the Fox River and the Wisconsin River. Council President Vance Van Laanen of Green Bay said today.

Van Laanen said he has had a series of proposals for such action, explained that such litigation would be highly expensive and asked members and member organizations of the council to advise him.

The council leader recalled that he has said earlier that such litigation may be the only means available to "save these rivers" but he said he is not prepared to propose the method until there is evidence of substantial backing.

He said such litigation might involve an expenditure by plaintiffs of $40,000 to $50,000, pointing to the extensive proceedings involved in a similar action several years ago by environmental protection groups that led to the outlawing of the pesticide DDT in the state.

The council consists of individuals and groups, and includes some of the major conservative organizations in the state, as well as civic, sports and economic associations.

Many Organizations The council head explained that the class action is a device of litigation through which a small group or an individual appeals for judicial relief on behalf of a larger and more significant group.

Van Laanen said the plaintiffs would in effect represent "all those citizens of Wisconsin who are entitled to the full use, benefit and enjoyment of the natural resources of Wisconsin, including specifically the Fox and Wisconsin rivers."

The injunctive relief sought, he suggested, would be a court order that the paper and pulp makers must establish and maintain "the current state of the art" in pollution abatement facilities. He explained that such forms of legal action have been used in other recent environmental cases around the country.

The annual meeting of the WRCC membership will be Aug. 27 at Northland College, Ashland. Van Laanen's announcement presumably was intended to bring the idea to the floor for discussion there.

Nominations for WRCC officer and director positions may be filed until Aug. 20, according to Mrs. G. L. McCormick of Waukesha, chairman of the nominating committee. The president's name already has been put in nomination for re-election.

Mills of the Fox and Wisconsin Valley were among the earliest targets of state orders designed to protect the quality of water, and the rules under which they operate have been steadily tightened with respect to the criteria for water quality established by state agencies, currently the State Department of Natural Resources.

Warren Qualifies Pollution Opinion

BY CAROLYN STEWART
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The contentions of 10 Wisconsin paper companies, including several in the Fox River Valley, that public release of production, production capacity and pollution abatement records would harm competition within the industry were all but denied in an opinion released Wednesday by Attn. Gen. Robert Warren.

But the attorney general has authored a bill pending in the legislature that would permit the Department of Natural Resources to keep pollution records confidential if the companies involved file sworn statements and proof of the harm their release would cause. This somewhat clouds the impact of the opinion.

The companies had protested both the release of their own company records and production of similar records in the DNR files during hearings on a pollution order against the Fort Howard Paper Co. of Green Bay last January.

Subpoenas Protested The firms, representing one third of the companies served with subpoenas for their records in connection with the hearing were: Thilmany Pulp and Paper, Bergstrom, Scott, Consolidated Paper, Charming, Wisconsin Tissue Mills, American Can, John Strange Paper, Nicolet, Kimberly-Clark and Gilbert Paper companies. The ten companies proposed the subpoena of the county board, five persons as new commissioners on a reactivated housing authority also been subpoenaed by Fort Howard.

In the opinion requested by the DNR, Warren indicated that the information sought by Fort Howard was information the department had the statutory obligation to demand and the companies had the legal responsibility to produce even though it was allegedly collected from the companies with the promise it would remain confidential.

Because it was required in the formation, Warren said it must be made public with several exceptions.

The exceptions, he said, involve the right of the custodian of the records to set hours when they may be reviewed so as not to interfere with the operation of the department, and the right to determine when the public interest is better served by nondisclosure than by free public access.

The latter exception constitutes the sticky portion of the Warren opinion, particularly when it is considered in connection with the bill he presented to the Senate, and the industry's strong contention at the hearing that the public interest would be harmed if competition in the industry were adversely affected by the release of information.

Presumed Open On the one hand, Warren wrote that the department "must" permit inspection of records it must legally keep, and they should be presumed to be open to the public since few people can afford the legal action to compel the release of information when access is denied.

On the other hand, he stated, several times, the exception that permits the custodian of the records to determine whether disclosure or nondisclosure is in the greater public interest.

The bill Warren presented as part of his package of environmental protection measures would permit the department to keep records of company production and pollution abatement efforts secret if a sworn statement and proof that release of the information would have an adverse effect beyond a reasonable doubt were filed. In such instances the bill provides the company would become a co-defendant with the department in any legal actions brought to get such records opened.

At the time of the committee hearing on the bill, Warren said it was unopposed as a direct result of the questions raised in the Senate, and the industry's strong contention at the hearing that the public interest would be harmed if competition in the industry were adversely affected by the release of information.

Employment Act to Open 200 Jobs in Fox Valley

BY PETER BACH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — An estimated 200 jobs in Winnebago, Outagamie and Fond du Lac counties will become available from President Nixon's $1 billion Emergency Employment Act, a state employment service official said this week.

Jerry Fieber, chief of manpower and training in the employment service office here, said Tuesday that $13,020,000 will be made available to Wisconsin for job salaries.

According to A. P. Engebretson, district manpower director in the Appleton office of the Employment Service, which oversees the Twin-Cities, approximately 150 types of jobs — ranging from laborers, police and firemen, through engineering positions — will be offered to presently unemployed persons qualified to fill them.

Public Service Jobs

These will be public service jobs, and officials in towns, cities, and counties have been asked to submit the number of openings available that need to be filled.

According to Fieber, officials from 13 state counties exceeding 75,000 population and seven cities also have been contacted to attend an informational meeting on Monday and Tuesday at the Regional Manpower office in Chicago.

Although the funds are made available through the Department of Labor, Industry and Human Relations, Fieber said monies will be dispensed by municipal officials throughout community board chairman and the state.

"The openings would have to come from a particular municipality or other unit of government," said Clarence Lotzer, of the Oshkosh employment service office.

Fieber said the highest amount for any one job would be $12,000, for engineering and programmer positions.

6 Pct. Unemployed

Officials said the $1 billion has been channeled into two divisions based on the percentage of unemployed. In municipalities where for three months or more 6 per cent of the working force is unemployed, $750 million has been allocated. In places where the unemployment rate for three consecutive months has been over 4.5 per cent, but under 6 per cent, $250 million allotted.

Engebretson said that "any kind of job normally provided by municipalities" will qualify for reception of funds, if the percentage of unemployment figures apply. A person "has to be unemployed and be hired in addition to what the municipality would normally hire," he said. Top salaries would go to "the professional man who commanded that kind of salary who is now unemployed."

Winnebago County board chairman Orrin King this week received a telegram from the secretary of labor explaining that he has been appointed to administer the public service employment program this year in his county. King said he and Robert Skalmoski, board vice-chairman, will attend the meeting at Chicago Monday.

Unemployment figures for Winnebago County at the end of June showed that 6.8 per cent of the working force were out of work, according to the head office here.

Authorities here said a breakdown of monies to be dispensed in the Twin Cities area and southern part of the county, including Oshkosh, have not been made and will be formulated after the Chicago meetings next week.

Officials said that in smaller Wisconsin counties, towns and municipalities, the governor personally will determine how funds are to be allocated. In those cases, smaller areas could jointly prepare requests for funds.

250 Laid Off Jobs at Large Calumet Firm

NEW HOLSTEIN — Tecumseh Products Co., Calumet County's largest employer, has laid off for an indefinite period about 250 production employees — over 13 per cent of its work force.

James Schmidt, personnel manager, attributed the layoff to effects of the extended economic slump but predicted that the workers should be back on the job by October or November when business is expected to pick up.

The layoff came Friday evening and was the first major one for the four-cycle engine manufacturing firm in four years. There have been layoffs in past summers when production shifts from lawnmower motors to snowblower motors — and some were larger than this, Schmidt said.

However, he blamed the economic slowdown for the size of this layoff. He said he expected no more layoffs this fall.

Tecumseh normally employs about 1,900 persons.

Schmidt said the layoffs were from a cross-section of production personnel. He said it reduced production about 15 per cent.

Sanitary Districts Conflict Annexation Problem for Neenah

NEENAH — The city, with petitions for annexation from members of the newly-formed Town of Neenah sanitary district already filed, is faced with a policy decision on accepting the residences into the city.

According to Wayne Bryan, public works director, the cost of extending sewer service to the four lots will cost about $2,500 per lot because the lines would have to be brought in from the southwest.

Another sewer line lies almost on the properties' boundaries, but it is too shallow to extend down the private road.

"Despite the $2,500 per lot cost, the owners think it will be cheaper than paying the installation assessments with the sanitary district would have to go around or through the lake to serve them," Bryan told the public works committee Wednesday.

"I think we're going to need some policy decisions on the annexation petitions and other areas which are adjacent to the sanitary district," Bryan told the committee.

Some of the areas which will need defining are what to do about city lines which are installed along the boundaries of the sanitary district. A previous decision by the city prohibited town residents from hooking onto city sewers until the property was annexed.

These areas include residences along Green Bay Road, and Cecil Street where the city has sewer lines which could serve the sanitary district, but can't unless the property is annexed.

The theory of the city policy is that if a property owner is going to have the advantage of city sewer, then he can pay for and get all city services by annexing.

The plan commission, aware of the possible hangups, recommended annexing the four properties with the hope that the problems could be worked out.

Sewer Work Hikes Menasha Budget

MENASHA — The capital improvements committee listened to school officials explain the need for $2,150,000 in capital improvements between now and 1973, took copies of a report from Public Works Director Bruno Haas asking for over $300,000 in construction outlays for his department next year and went home to think about it until another meeting next week.

There were some eye-openers in Haas' report, which he said was a "bare bones" capital outlay program for the next three years. For example:

— "The greatest problem facing the city today is its sanitary sewer system," Haas wrote. Specifically, Haas said 75 per cent of the existing sanitary sewer system is "below accepted engineering standards," and will require a costly program of reconstruction and chemical sealing to correct.

Rebuild 15 Miles

"As a preliminary estimate it appeared that approximately 30 miles of the system are in need of attention to a greater or lesser degree," the public works director said. "Of this total, it will be necessary to completely rebuild 15 miles."

None of the cost for such a system would come through special assessments, but will have to be funded entirely with tax dollars. Total cost will be around $1.5 million for the sanitary system reconstruction alone.

Haas' plan now is to spend about $75,000 per year through 1976 on improving the sanitary system, and to increase this to at least $125,000 annually for the following ten years.

— The storm sewer system is hurting almost as much, Haas said. It has "never been designed to adequately serve the entire city," he noted, adding that a combination of problems, including the fact that much of the system "is now obsolete or in need of repair," makes him feel "it is strongly recommended that the storm sewer system be redesigned and reconstructed."

Besides the construction costs, this will require that the city hire additional engineering help or a consulting engineer.

— The street program, while also requiring attention, will have to wait until the sewer work gets well under way. Haas had originally called for $86,000 in street and sidewalk construction in 1972, along with planned sewer work, but this morning said he is planning to move that work back to 1973 and move $55,394 in sanitary sewer construction work from 1973 to 1972.

If he does that, it would bring the total public works capital outlay request for 1972 to just over $309,000. That is more than $100,000 less than what the budget called for this year, but much of last year's work was paid for through assessments. All of the $309,000 would have to go on the tax rolls if it is approved by the common council.

Strike Delays Parking Ramp In Neenah

NEENAH — Completion of the city parking ramp will be delayed an estimated two months because of the carpenter's strike which stopped work on the project from June to August.

Melvin Siewert, architect, told the public works committee Wednesday that completion would be about the end of December. However, he was optimistic that the contractor, Charles G. Ambrosky, Menasha could make up some of the lost time.

"We have had a meeting with the contractors and their subcontractors and the pre-cast erection should be starting in about three weeks. We had expected to be done with it by this time," Siewert explained.

"The contractors have a good crew on it and I'm convinced that they're doing all they can to make up the lost time, but I don't think we'll be able to make up the entire two months," he said.

Health Service Audit Undergoes Scrutiny

OSHKOSH — More scrutiny was focused Wednesday on a controversial state audit of Winnebago County's health programs.

Members of the county's health committee probed the lengthy report, and agreed with its main premise that the county programs are guilty of a certain amount of duplication of effort.

"I think this report is pointing to a county health services coordinator," explained Supv. Raymond Gischia, Neenah. "I think the state wants to see everything directed out of one office or from one individual, someone to put everything in its proper place so there's no waste."

Gischia continued, however, and committee chairman Supv. Carl Steffin, Menasha, and vice-chairman Supv. Virginia Nolan, Oshkosh, concurred that the coordinator would "not be someone who would only delegate authority."

Supv. Robert Johnson, towns of Clayton and Vinland, cited the county's guidance clinic and mental health and mental retardation and planning committees as units that could be satisfactorily united into one body.

"If you're going to wipe out duplication, you're going to have to step on a few toes to do it," Mrs. Nolan cautioned. Some county groups are only eligible for state fund assistance if laymen sit on their committees, she explained.

Because of this funding requirement, she continued, some committees "have gone far afield and there's no coordination. One of the reasons the guidance clinic (move) has been dangling so long is because some of the people (involved in the planning) have no connection with the board."

She added quickly, however, that lay groups throughout the county, and volunteers organizations sponsoring programs such as Meals on Wheels have been vehicles "for a tremendous amount of good." At all costs, care must be taken not to restrict or eliminate beneficial volunteer services here, she said.

She suggested that perhaps a county-based office could be instituted to oversee the governmental health related operations within the county, while a separate office be set up as the center of volunteer service organizations.

Housing Authority Outlined in Calumet

CHILTON — Representatives from Kiel, Hilbert and Chilton learned the powers and duties of a county housing authority Tuesday from Margaret Thorpe, housing service coordinator of Madison.

The information session for city, village and county officials was conducted at the city hall here.

Miss Thorpe said no county project under the federal Housing and Urban Development program has been funded since 1969. Although funds are appropriated, she said none have been released by the administration.

Development of county housing authorities must be done through the county board. The powers and duties conferred and imposed by state statutes on counties and councils are conferred upon county boards, and the powers and duties of specified city officials under those sections are conferred upon county officials performing duties similar to the duties of specified city officials.

The area of operation of a housing authority created in and for a county is all of the county Hilbert, Chilton and Kiel for which it is created, but a county housing authority may not undertake any housing project within the boundaries of any city or village unless a resolution has been adopted by the governing board of the city or village, and by any housing authority which has been created, declaring that there is a need for the county housing authority to exercise its powers within that city or village.

State laws say that county housing authorities are urged to utilize those provisions of the federal housing rules whereby private developers may acquire land, build housing projects according to federal standards and turn them over to such housing authorities for due consideration.

Miss Thorpe said that a county authority can serve people living in unincorporated areas that a local authority cannot. Communities too small to obtain a HUD housing grant alone can obtain one through a county authority and by consolidating the management of several projects under one body, an economy of scale is achieved.

Since the development of the county housing authorities in 1969, 18 counties have organized their housing authorities. Seven of these housing authorities have applied for funds.

Even though cities have applied for funds and still have not received them, they would not lose their place in line if they chose to join a county housing authority. Presently, Hilbert, Chilton and Kiel have made applications for housing for the elderly and are waiting their turn on the totem pole which is getting longer and longer as priorities are set.

Miss Thorpe also told the members present that applications for low income families also boosts the priorities for cities. She said many communities do not approve of this, but authority to exercise its powers felt that they have the wrong misconception of type of families this would include. These would be families living in the rural areas of the communities and not people who can move in from the larger cities to live. However, she felt Calumet County's balance would be 70 per cent for elderly and 30 per cent for low rent housing.

Representatives of the various cities and villages at the meeting Tuesday will take the information back to their councils and village boards. If an authority is developed, final action will have to come from the Calumet County Board of Supervisors.

arrangement, thus eliminating the need to hire an analyst. Kloes also felt the county "doesn't need someone of this caliber as a programmer."

Supv. Norman Austin of Oneida, who also ran for county executive, said Woehler couldn't be expected to handle all of the duties of his office himself. Kimberly Supv. Sylvester Lenz explained that Woehler had never said he wouldn't need help.

The motion to refer the hiring to the policy and finance committee was made by Supv. Paul Huseby of Appleton and was passed on voice vote.

Kaukauna High Faces New Rules

KAUKAUNA — When students enter school halls in a few weeks, besides new books and teachers they will run into a new school district policy that defines what are "acceptable" and "unacceptable" absences.

The new rules, quickly adopted at a Tuesday board of education meeting, sets guidelines for detentions and suspensions, sets the number of absences allowed before parents are notified at four.

It provides that some absences would be unacceptable even with parental okay. But it also grants students acceptable misses when compelled by poor health or by a "family emergency."

Facing pay scales for teacher-aides, the board set aside a recommendation by School Supt. Julian Bichler, and sent the recommendation to the personnel committee.

Bichler had suggested that wages be determined by a set scale, based on jobs but other members wanted to consider a formula based partly on merit. They did, however, grant aides sick leave of four days per year.

Henry Drechsler, director of elementary education, presented to the board a blueprint of the curriculum used in each grade school. The master chart covering each school listed the textbooks used, the publishers, and similar data.

It will be expanded, he said, and mimeographed for their use "to see at a glance what is covered from kindergarten to high school."

The board also read two letters, one from the school district, thanking Marshall Bayoregon for his past service as board president, and another from Dr. Arthur Schoeller, directors of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee reading clinic, who commended the district on its Park School inservice reading program.

In other action the board: — Set Oct. 24 as the day for an open house at Victor Haen Grade School. Hours will be between 1 and 4 p.m.

— Accepted a fuel oil bid of 11.1 cents per gallon from Standard Oil of Kaukauna, for the next school year. It was low bid.

— Delayed decision on a Jean Party in 1971. Tickets are available through county organizations.

Paper Records 'Must' be Open the Fort Howard case. Considering the intent of the bill and the exception provided in Warren's interpretation of present law, it appears that the attorney general has given credence to the paper company claims at the Fort Howard hearing.

Because the hearing agent managed to skirt the question about the open or closed nature of the records during the hearing, in order to conclude the case without a lengthy court battle, the defense of the paper companies' claims was never produced. Even Fort Howard, through its attorney, however conceded that opening production records in so competitive an industry was not desirable, but the company also claimed it was necessary in order to prove the case at hand.

Clearly unsure what the ruling would be, Andrew Damon, the hearing agent in the Fort Howard case, asked for the attorney general's opinion as a guide to future industrial pollution hearing procedures. But at that time he predicted the opinion would be only the first step in a lengthy process that could include petitions through all the state and federal courts.

Although the DNR request for an opinion was based on the problems in the lengthy Fort Howard case, the opinion does not entirely apply to that situation. The records in question had been subpoenaed by the company although they were never actually produced.

Warren, however, said that the department should not honor subpoenas for its records because giving them up for legal proceedings would mean they would be unavailable for others to use during the duration of a case. He recommended the department only permit office inspection and copying of the records.

smokers, many of whom formerly smoked cigarettes but switched within the last 10 years when the cigarette-lung cancer scare gained notoriety.

He added that cigarettes still were the most dangerous and most prevalent of lung cancer causes in the tobacco area.

In answer to a question, Schaefer said smoking low-tar and low-nicotine cigarettes would not necessarily decrease a person's chances of contracting lung cancer. He pointed out that the immense number of harmful chemicals in tars made it difficult to determine which chemicals had been removed by eliminating certain tars.

But in an interview after the speeches, William Bodden, vice president of the Wisconsin division of the American Cancer Society, called smoking low-tar, better-filtered cigarettes a half-way measure for people who can't give up smoking entirely.

All three men stressed that air pollution too was harmful to the lungs. Bodden said that persons who live in large urban areas and are subject to factory fumes and automobile exhausts are asking for a third strike against them when they begin to smoke.

13-Year-Old Picked Up for Driving Car

A 13-year-old Appleton youth was cited for operating a motor vehicle with no valid driver's license Wednesday, after an Appleton police officer spotted him driving down a city street.

The officer was investigating a complaint that a 12-year-old youth was driving an auto on the streets, when he spotted the vehicle.

He stopped the car and found that the 13-year-old was driving. The youth was sitting on a pillow in order to operate the vehicle.

Two other youths, ages 12 and 13, were also in the vehicle. They told the officer that they

National Firm Opens Store

DeKoven Drug Centers, Chicago-based discount drug store chain, officially opened its new store at 100 W. College Ave. today in a grand opening attended by company and community dignitaries.

DeKoven, a family-owned business started in 1907, has 40 stores in the nation, including ones in Janesville and LaCrosse. The firm opened four stores in Ohio about two months ago.

The Appleton store, located in the old Montgomery Wards building, has three levels, including a mezzanine which isn't completed. The remodeling cost over $100,000, Edward DeKoven, president, said.

The store carries full lines of drugs, health and beauty aids, cosmetics, and a pharmacy service.

The grand opening began with a 9 a.m. ceremonial ribbon-cutting. Mayor George Buckley and several aldermen attended.

DeKoven said that the firm planned to open more stores but hadn't finalized plans on them yet.

The Appleton store manager is Walter Erickson, who lived in Appleton once before.

Taycheeda Hindered By Having Isolation Rooms in Residences

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Management of difficult inmates at the state prison for women at Taycheeda in handicapped by the lack of a suitable building for the housing of serious disciplinary cases, the head of the institution told the state board of health and social services, in an annual report Tuesday.

The comment by Lewis L. McCauley, chief of staff at the Wisconsin Home for Women, followed a highly publicized outburst of criticism by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey during an inspection of the institution. The outburst made a month centered around what he called "inhumane disciplinary practices."

The McCauley report was submitted in connection with the regularly scheduled annual visit of the board to the institution. There was no reference in the text to Lucey's comments, and it was apparently written before the governor's visit.

McCauley related that the location of isolation rooms in residence halls causes problems, including a lack of exercise for those confined.

"This means that some of our rules covering the various activities of the inmates must be geared toward the negative rather than the positive because we do not have the facilities to house the non-complying individuals separately," he said.

The institution report said that the racial composition of the institution's population, which averaged about 149 during the last fiscal year, was divided almost evenly between whites and black, and that the average age of inmates was 24.7 years.

The return rate of inmates to the institution has risen lately to about 13 out of 100 paroled or otherwise released. Often seen against other persons constitute the major cause for commitment, including murder, manslaughter, robbery and assault.

Freedom Sewage Treatment Plant Work to Begin Within 45 Days

FREEDOM — Construction of the sanitary district's $885,000 sewerage system and treatment plant is expected to start within 45 days.

Last week, district commissioners reviewed bids for the project and have forwarded them to the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Joseph C. Van Dyke, president of the Green Bay engineering firm which helped develop the system, said state and federal grants will amount to $384,245.

The district will bond for $250,000, and the balance of costs will come from special property assessments. Approval from the agencies should come through in about 30 days, and completion is set for September, 1972.

The Selmer Construction Company of Green Bay submitted the low bid on general contracting, $280,000. Other low bidders were Langstadt, Inc., Appleton, $16,950 for electrical work; Hietaas, Inc., Little Chute, $79,696 for plant piping, heating and ventilation; Joski Construction Company, Appleton, $43,332, lift stations and forcemains, and John P. Vandenberg, Freedom, $1,563 for well construction.

The total price includes purchase of approximately 30 acres of land for the plant and three lift stations required in the system because of varied ground elevations.

The plant will be located on the south edge of Duck Creek, east of State 55, and to the north of the village. It is a conventional activated sludge facility for secondary treatment of sewage.

At the present time, wastes are inadequately treated by private septic tanks and cesspools. Residents started working in June, 1967 on pollution problems after a study and recommendations came from the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

A general public meeting in March 1968 led to the formation of Freedom Sanitary District No. 1. Following petitions and hearings, the town board established the district in May 1968 and appointed Joseph Geenen, president, Vance Garvey, secretary, and Mark Kirkhoff to the commission. They have remained on the board.

Foth & Van Dyke and Associates, Inc. helped the board organize the district, and was retained to draw up plans required for outside grants.

The plant is designed to handle a projected growth of 660 more residents and 900 students, and has the capacity to serve the elementary school outside the district southwest of Freedom, if a need arises.

Garvey said the sewerage system will serve 210 units. The Freedom High School, the St. Nicholas parochial school, and a

About 30,000 lineal feet of sanitary sewers will comprise the collection system. The commission will conduct a public meeting as soon as agency approvals and grants are received. Officials will explain assessments and ordinances at the meeting.

Potato Salad Pie

Hero Sandwiches

Consider the Vegetable

fresh from garden to table, they promote health 'n' good eating

By Lillian Mackesy POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Every home economist has learned to tune in on good nutrition when it comes to foods and menus and one has made the notation that good old Mother Nature has packed her best supply of those necessary vitamins and minerals in fresh vegetables and fruits.

The garden season is at hand, fresh vegetables are on produce counters everywhere. They are stacked in variety at roadside stands after each morning's picking. Truly, now's the time for every homemaker to come to the aid of her family's health and well being.

We all know that we should eat four or more servings of dark green or yellow vegetables, citrus fruit or tomatoes a day. (If we don't know it, we certainly should after all the talk of the basic four of milk — meat — vegetable-fruit and bread-cereal groups. The important thing is to serve vegetables enticingly — as brighteners, the extra touch to a meal that's exciting or as a familiar dish made a new way.

Vegetables go into sandwiches to make them delicious and colorful. Fresh vegetables may be cooked or served raw, beautifully sauced and savory. They may be combined, showing green with red and yellow. They can be seasoned with herbs or grated cheese, chopped hard-cooked eggs or combined with leftover meats, turkey or chicken.

Included today are dishes that will appeal in color, yet will be checkoff of nutrition in the pattern of the "basic four." There's a new way to serve potato salad — in the form of a pie in a bologna crust. There are several recipes for Hero Sandwiches to fulfill the best of luncheon needs. There is a recipe for baked zucchini with a lamb mixture filling. Tomatoes are topped with fresh vegetables and others are served with sauces.

Here they are for good eating!

- VEGETABLE MEDLEY
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
 - 2 medium cloves garlic, minced
 - 1 medium onion, sliced
 - 4 medium zucchini, diced, (about 2 pounds)
 - 10 ounces fresh spinach, torn into pieces
 - 2 teaspoons seasoned salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
 - 2 eggs
 - 25 Buttery round crackers, coarsely crushed

- 20 Bacon flavored thins crackers, coarsely crushed
- 3 tablespoons grated
Parmesan cheese
- 1 (4-ounce) jar pimiento
and pods, drained
- Heat oil; add garlic, onion and diced zucchini, saute until tender-crisp.
- Add spinach and cook until wilted. Remove from heat.
- Beat together salt, basil and eggs, — stir into vegetables. Turn into a 2-quart shallow baking dish. Toss together cracker crumbs and cheese, sprinkle around edges.
- Arrange pimientos, pods in center. Bake in a preheated, 350-degree oven about 20 minutes, or until heated through. Recipe makes six (about 8 ounce) servings.

- VEGETABLE TOPPED BAKED TOMATOES
- 3 large tomatoes
 - Salt
 - 1 1/2 cups cooked, fresh, mixed vegetables
 - 18 Triscuit wafers, coarsely crushed (about 1 cup)
 - 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
 - 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
- Cut tomatoes in half cross-wise. Place cut side up in well greased baking dish. Sprinkle with salt. Bake in a pre-heated, 375 degree oven 15 minutes.
- Meanwhile, toss together remaining ingredients. Pile on tomatoes. Bake about 15 minutes longer, or until done. Makes six 5-ounce servings.

- POTATO SALAD PIE
- 1 envelope (5-servings) instant mashed potato granules
 - 1 cup chopped celery
 - 1/4 cup chopped onion
 - 1/4 cup chopped radishes
 - 1/4 cup chopped sweet pickles

Spinach Salad Recipe From California Chef

There are three differences between a good spinach salad and a great one, says Chef John Crownshield of the Carnelian Room in San Francisco.

He ought to know, because Spinach Salad made his way is one of the most popular specialties of the house. What surprises him, he says, is that this salad is not made more often at home. It's easy to make and spinach is available all the year in several varieties.

The first important step to making a "great" salad, he says, is the choice of leaves. They should be small.

Second, the leaves must be crisp.

Finally, it's the dressing that counts. At least, the method of putting it on the crisp greens is important.

To crisp the spinach — or any greens — Chef Crownshield washes leaves thoroughly in cold water, drains on paper towels, and then shakes away any excess water.

Next, the spinach goes into a glass bowl. A length of stretch-and-seal food wrap then goes over the top of the bowl to tightly seal the crisp leaves. Into the refrigerator goes the bowl with the spinach in it — it stays there for at least two hours before the dressing is added, just before serving time.

Here is the recipe, straight from California:

- FRESH SPINACH SALAD
- 1 pound fresh spinach leaves
 - 2 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
 - 1 Bermuda onion, thinly sliced
 - 6 strips crisp bacon, crumbled
 - 1 clove garlic, pressed or minced
 - 1/2 cup wine or tarragon vinegar

- 3/4 cup olive oil
- Salt and pepper to taste

Wash the spinach leaves thoroughly; drain on paper towels. Put small leaves in glass salad bowl, cover with clear food wrap, stretching it so that the rim of the bowl is sealed tight. Refrigerate for at least two hours.

Then, remove wrap and sprinkle chopped egg and crumbled bacon over the spinach.

Next, pour the vinegar over the salad. Always add the vinegar before the oil so that the vinegar will be absorbed into the leaves.

Stir the crushed garlic into the oil and then pour over spinach, tossing until all leaves are thoroughly coated. Add salt and pepper to taste and serve with a garnish of the thinly sliced onion rings.

Easy Consomme

For tomato consomme, blend 1 can condensed tomato soup and 1 can consomme. Add 1 soup can water. Heat. Serves about four persons.

WINE

On the Table

By William Clifford

Rare old wines make headlines because they cost a fortune. But how do they taste? When do wines grow too old to drink?

This depends on the particular wine. During a recent visit to Bordeaux we were privileged to taste an 1899 Chateau Margaux at the chateau. The proprietor described the wine as a "fantome."

He was right — it had very nearly given up the ghost. But four years earlier we tasted another 1899 in Bordeaux. Chateau Cartemerle, and found it very much alive. As with senior citizens, it depends on the case.

Bordeaux red wines are mature and reliable from 10 to 25 years of age, as a rule. The same holds true for California Cabernet Sauvignon. Red Burgundies reach maturity sooner, generally between 5 and 10 years.

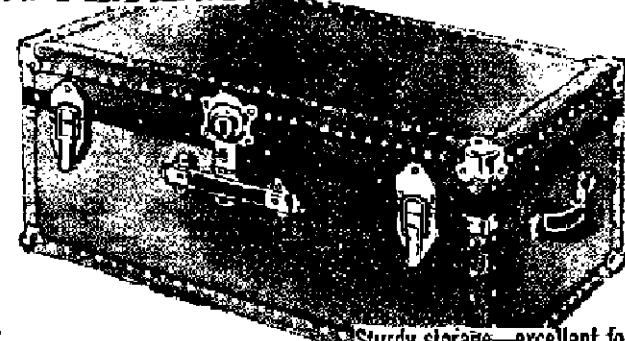

But certain wines mature late and live long, especially when well stored. Two years ago we drank a marvelous Burgundy more than 50 years old, a 1915 Musigny. This year a 1921 Musigny proved undrinkable, even though expertly selected and carefully served at an important banquet. The 1955 Musigny at the same dinner was superb.

Most white wines and all roses are best drunk young. But a recent 22-year-old Chateau Laville Haut Brion 1948 was the finest white Graves we ever tasted. The owner of this chateau also served his 1961 vintage at the same lunch, a wine he considered barely ready to drink.

Subsequently we tasted a 1961 Chablis from the cellar of a professional wine grower. He always drank them that old, he said.

This reminded us that Dr. Konstantin Frank's prize 1962 New York State Riesling is still in excellent condition after 9 years. And a 1953 German Blaufrank in the pink at 18. It all depends on the particular wine.

Slimburgers Designed for Dieters

Those who wrestle with the weighty problem of shedding surplus pounds find warm weather a useful ally. Appetites wane as temperatures soar so it's easier to cut down on food intake.

Also, there's an abundance of cool, mini-calorie vegetables to fill the empty spaces. For the necessary protein in any diet, home economists have developed two lower-in-calories recipes for satisfying, ever-popular hamburgers.

Bikini Burgers, simply and appealingly seasoned with

CALORIE COUNTDOWN

Worcestershire sauce and served on lettuce leaves, have but 220 calories. Good go-alongs are cucumber slices and a small tomato, which add up to about 35 more calories.

Slimburgers, two patties sandwiching a tomato slice and zestily seasoned with prepared yellow mustard, also are 220 calories each. Cabbage slaw with low calorie dressing makes a filling accompaniment.

Incidentally, prepared mustard with only 6 calories per teaspoon is a versatile condiment that adds pep to diet fare. Another tip — when cooking indoors, broil burgers on a rack to drain off the fat.

With either of these recipes, round out the meal with half a cantaloupe and iced tea or a glass of skim milk. These suggested menus provide servings from the Basic Four Food Groups needed daily to maintain peak energy for dieters and non-dieters alike

BIKINI BURGERS

1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup tomato juice
1 tablespoon Instant

Minced Onion

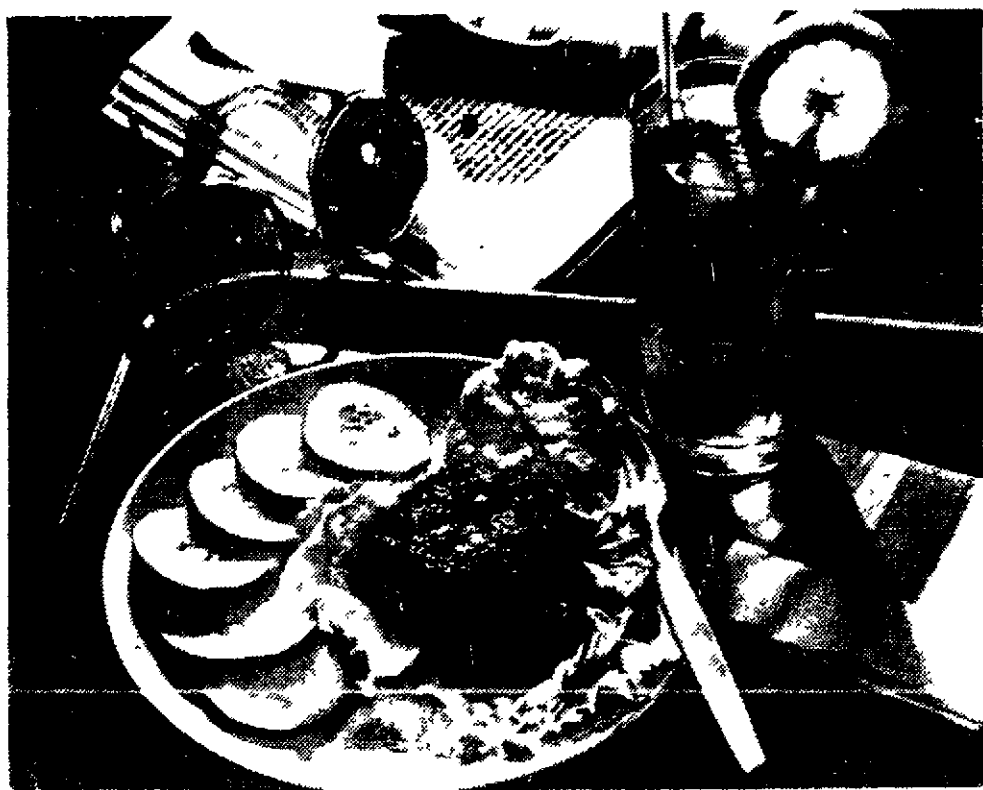

1 pound ground beef
Lettuce
Cucumber slices

Combine Worcestershire sauce, tomato juice, and onion; add half to ground beef and mix thoroughly. Shape into four patties. Grill over hot coals until done, brushing with remaining sauce occasionally. Serve on lettuce, garnish with cucumber slices. Recipe makes four servings

SLIMBURGERS

1 pound ground beef
1 tablespoon Instant Minced Onion
2 tablespoons Prepared Yellow Mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
1 medium-sized tomato, cut in 4 slices

Combine ground beef, onion, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce. Mix well. Shape into eight thin patties. Place tomato slices on four hamburger patties; top with remaining patties. Press edges to seal. Broil or grill until done. Recipe makes four servings.

Choice Was His — Almost

BY ERMA BOMBECK

You know the trouble with some women? They have no imagination. A neighbor was telling me the other day that her little boy, Jody, wanted to bring a bull snake home from his vacation.

"What did you tell him?" I asked. "I couldn't think of a reason why he couldn't," she said helplessly shrugging her shoulders.

"Are you kidding?" I shrieked. "A few years ago, my son captured a small slimy specimen in a Coke bottle and I could think of 10 reasons for leaving him behind. (The snake, not the boy)"

1 Snakes do not know their own minds. They may jump up and down and think they want to leave their Mommys and Daddys for a fun trip, but after two days away from home, it's spit-up time

2 You would get bored with one another. After all, what can a snake do? Can he chase a ball after you throw it? Can he walk to the shopping center with you on a leash? Can he walk into a crowded room and keep it that way?

3 Snakes are a minority group. Face it. Do you want him to feel the pains of discrimination? Wouldn't it break your heart to have his admission refused at Bible School? Or to leave him outside in a Mason jar while you were inside with friends?

4. Snakes are difficult to paper train

5 Snakes adhere to a diet of living things. What happens when he runs out of mice and begins to eye our meter reader?

6 How would we know if he got a headache?

7 How would you explain it to him if someone accidentally hit him with a rake?"

8 You would be forcing on him a mink's existence. How do you know he doesn't want to date and eventually have a family?

"Did he buy it?" asked my neighbor bright-eyed. "I mean did he realize that there were inherent differences between a boy and a snake?"

"Not until I hit him with reasons 9 and 10"

"Which were?"

9 If you put that snake in the car with your mother, she will have a heart attack and drop dead

10 Ask yourself, do want to be a motherless boy roaming through life with a sex-starved, militant, maladjusted snake in a Coke bottle?

"He chose you instead of the snake, right?" she asked

"No, but he's still thinking about it," I said

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One Appleton family had charred hamburgers and a visit from the fire department when a fire started in the oven.

Appleton firemen used exhaust fans to clear the odor of spoiled meat from another residence after the family returned from a vacation to find that the freezer had quit operating.

Accidents like these can happen any day, but many are less likely to occur if safety precautions are taken when using gas or electric appliances.

Last year the fire department made 38 calls which cost area residents over $1,500 in damages. Three fires caused by shorts in stoves cost families over $700.

A dryer fire cost another family $98. Other fires were caused by shorts in appliance wiring, lamp bulbs that burned shades, a toaster that burned a kitchen wall and counter, refrigerators that shorted out.

Over $50,000 The fire department has answered calls like this for many years. In the past five years area residents have spent over $50,000 because of faulty appliances or unsafe operating practices.

The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM) recently printed a new handbook on the safe use of appliances. Individual copies of the booklet are free by writing to AHAM, 20 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

The most important part of any appliance is the instruction book which accompanies it. Now is the time for the owner to learn the correct use of his appliance, not after it breaks down the first time.

Appliance manufacturers suggest that those kept in good repair give better service and safety of operation. Worn cords and loose plugs should be replaced. When disconnecting always grasp the plug, not the cord. Use preventative measures to avoid injuries to children.

Appliance manufacturers continually strive to produce safe products. Design engineering departments, testing laboratories and home economics departments within each company work toward this common goal. Yet the consumer is not safe from accidents unless he is willing to follow safe use of home appliances.

The buyer must be as safety conscious as the manufacturer. To obtain the most efficient service from his appliances the consumer should accept the responsibility of learning correct and safe operating techniques.

Safety Measures
The booklet suggests safety measures for stoves, refrigerators, freezers, room air conditioners, dish-washers, disposers, microwave ovens, dehumidifiers, washers, dryers and portable appliances.

Among the recommendations for stoves are, "turn pot handles away from outer edges, fasten long hair and loose clothing, and do not use water on grease fires."

With hot summer weather still ahead of us, many families will be buying air conditioners. Make sure the window sash and frame are structurally sound before installing the unit. Follow your use and care book carefully.

Almost everyone has a washer or dryer these days and newer models are more complicated than grandmother's ringer washer. As always keep detergent, bleaches, fabric softeners and other laundry products out of reach of children. Never use dry cleaning solutions or flammable or combustible products in washer.

Clean Lint Filter
Dry items washed in water only. Do not dry gasoline rags. Cleaning the lint filter after each load prevents the chance of forgetting to check it when you put the next load in the dryer.

Dishwashers are handy appliances but improper use makes them dangerous. Do not touch the heating element. Place sharp items in the silverware basket with the points down. Turn water off before disconnecting a portable model from the water supply.

The convenience of owning a microwave oven has made that appliance a big seller. Do not use the oven if the door is damaged. Register a microwave oven by sending your name, address, and model and serial numbers to the manufacturer. Repairs, as always, should be done by qualified personnel.

As for portable appliances, keep cords clear of snagging, tripping or jerking. Use extension cords only when the wire is the right size for the appliance. Do not lie on a heating pad. Avoid using portable hair dryers on a bed.

Although these are only a few suggestions, the booklet is a good one to let the whole family read

1946 Was a Record Year For Weddings

As any demographer will tell you, 1946 was a very good year—for weddings. The demographers, as well as a great many non-sociologist types, recall 1946 fondly as the year in which nuptials set a record—and launched the "baby boom."

That was the time when the boys came home from the wars—and the girls sure were glad. Since almost no one had a TV set in those pre-historic days (there were only 7,000 scattered around the country) there was more time for mooning and spooning too. More than four and a half million Americans were wed that year.

As a result of all that rice-throwing, a great many couples are celebrating their silver wedding anniversaries right now in 1971. And as one might surmise, one segment of business to show the effect of this record-setting silver anniversary year is the silverware industry which is doing especially well.

Also expected to be setting records this year is the baby-boom generation of the 1946-47 era—through ownership of life insurance. In 1970, a record 34 per cent of all policies was purchased on those between 15 and 24, reports the Institute of Life Insurance.

There also seems to be enough evidence around to indicate that the 1971 bridal crop will be trying to match nuptial records with the 1946 generation. So far—the first three months of this year—some 406,000 couples made it to the altar. While this does not match the bridal procession of the first quarter of 1946 (527,968 marriage licenses were issued then) as they say at election time, final figures are not yet in. The traditional really big season for weddings runs through September—so who knows, the baby boom generation might topple that 1946 record yet.

Your Problems

Suggestions Help Save Children's Teeth

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a San Francisco dentist who reads your column faithfully. Every day I am appalled by the ignorance and stupidity of parents. It occurred to me that the best way to educate people is to write to Ann Landers. Will you serve as the conveyor belt between thousands of dentists and millions of parents? Here are the basic guidelines:

1. Don't wait until your child has a toothache before you take him to the dentist. He will then associate the dentist with pain and establish an irreversible, life-long fear of dentistry.

2. Don't ignore cavities in baby teeth because "they fall out eventually" and don't matter. They do matter, and should be well cared for to insure the proper alignment of second teeth.

3. Don't use scare words when you talk about the dentist. Expressions such as "needle" and "pull the tooth out" should be avoided. Tell the child the dentist will "put your tooth to sleep" and "wiggle it out".

4. Don't bribe your child to go to the dentist. This raises many questions and makes the child apprehensive.

5. Don't insist on going into the workroom with the child. He will do better if you let him know he is grown up enough to go in without you.

6. Don't permit your child to eat candy and other sweets all day long. Substitute raisins, dried prunes, apricots and fresh fruit. Sugarless gum is good, too.

7. Begin early to teach your child the importance of caring for his teeth and gums. Habits established early will stay with him the rest of his life. I am not looking for publicity, so I'll sign — No Signature

Dear No Sig: Thank you for taking your valuable time to write. The teeth you saved might be my grandchildren's.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 14 years old (a girl) and I have a gripe rather than a

Bundt Pan Adds Dimension of Shape

What "new" can you do to improve the look of your family's favorite gelatin salad?

Do your molded desserts have that humdrum, always the same look?

A pan called "Bundt" is the answer. It can add a new dimension of shape to all sorts of dishes.

The adaptable pan is ideal for budget recipes such as meatloaf, served in royal shape. When frosted with a zippy cheese sauce, the result is a tantalizing meat dish.

The Bundt pan is designed for pound cakes, specialty cakes, gelatin salads, frozen desserts and many more ideas. The pans themselves even may be used to decorate the kitchen, they are that pretty.

Here are a few recipes to prove their worth, a mint cake for summer, a bright fruit salad and a favorite meatloaf.

MINT MARVEL CAKE

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup creme de menthe
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
1 pkg. white cake mix
1 pkg. whipped topping mix
4 eggs
Confectioners sugar
Mint leaves

Set oven for 350 degrees.

Mix together creme de menthe and water. Combine cake mix, whipped topping mix, eggs and creme de menthe mixture. Pour batter into well greased and floured Bundt pan. Bake at 350 degrees for about 40 minutes. Cool in pan 15 minutes before unmolding. Dust with confectioners sugar. Dip mint leaves in confectioners sugar and use as garnish for cake.

MELON COOLER

12 ounces (2 pkgs.) lemon flavored gelatin
 $\frac{3}{2}$ cups boiling water
 $\frac{3}{2}$ cups cold water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup orange juice
 $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon salt
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups halved strawberries
 $\frac{1}{2}$ medium cantaloupe
1 cup melon balls, any choice
Whole berries for garnish

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in cold water, orange juice and salt; blend thoroughly.

Arrange eight strawberry halves, rounded and uncut sides down, in bottom of large Bundt pan. Pour half gelatin mixture carefully over berries so as not to disturb them. Chill this mixture until just set.

Chill remaining gelatin mixture to consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Peel cantaloupe half; cut into eight wedges. When gelatin in Bundt pan set, cut through gelatin at pan ridges and stand cantaloupe wedge in each ridge.

EASY ETIQUETTE

BY JEANNE HARRIS

A good listener can gain the reputation of being a great conversationalist.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It shocks me the way you hand out life and death advice — right off the top of your head. Don't you realize some people live by what you say? How do you know you're always right? — No Mavin

Dear N.M.: Nobody is right all the time, and I do make mistakes. But the advice you describe as "off the top of my head" sometimes represents hours of research. People who write to me need a definite answer. More people suffer from the inability to make a decision than from making the wrong one. (Copyright 1971)

'Bright' Younger Child Has Trouble Adjusting

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON —Parents enrolling young children in school this fall for the first time should be cautious about the decision if the child will be substantially younger than most of his classmates.

That is the view of a professor of education at Superior State University.

In a system that typically provides for the enrollment of children according to age, the younger children in each group can be expected "to have more than their share of academic and adjustment difficulties," according to a review of research on the subject reported by Prof. Donavon E. Coleman in the periodical of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards.

He said it is common in Wisconsin schools to find a difference in age of nine to twelve months among children in the same classroom. He said it is often argued that the child who is exceptionally apt should begin school early and that he will be able to compete with older classmates.

But the chances are that he will compete successfully only with average children in the class, and probably would achieve more if enrollment had been deferred for a year.

Coleman said there appears to be a movement supported by some school authorities to induce parents to enroll their children in school at the earliest possible age.

But he said evidence indicated that the older child has an advantage over the younger and that the advantage is maintained through the elementary school years. The older child does better than his younger classmate as measured by achievement tests and grades.

Coleman asked for wider use of psychological evaluation as a guide for school entrance, noting that such testing could identify children with special learning difficulties as well as those who would benefit from early or delayed admission.

Former Stockbridge Man Remains Jailed on Milwaukee Murder Try

MILWAUKEE — Francis P. Hemauer, 48, a former resident of Stockbridge, remains in the county jail here on $30,000 bond on charges of rape, abduction and attempted murder.

Hemauer, who lives here, formerly operated a tavern and did carpentry work in Stockbridge. He was arraigned last week in Circuit Court for the alleged offenses involving a Milwaukee girl on Oct. 12, 1968.

Milwaukee police have attempted to link the man to other offenses, but no other charges have been brought.

Supper Clubs' President Dies

Harvey Reetz, 59, Was Co-Founder of Family Corporation

The co-founder and president of Reetz's Supper Club, Inc., Harvey F. Reetz, 59, of 107 E. Harding Drive, died Thursday after an extended illness.

Reetz and a brother, Carl Reetz who died four years ago, founded the business ten years ago. The organization, which is a closed family corporation, operates Reetz's Supper Club in Appleton and Reetz's Silver Dome Club in Greenville.

Reetz had been in the bar business for 27 years. An Appleton native, he graduated in 1935 from Lawrence College with a major in music.

He was a member of the Zion Lutheran Church, the United Commercial Travelers of America, Waverly Lodge Number 51, F & AM, Appleton Chamber of Commerce and formerly the Appleton Conservatory student will give an organ recital in a Norway church Sept. 5.

Thomas Froehlich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Froehlich, 1406 N. Union St., left Tuesday for the month-long trip.

Froehlich will visit a former Appleton East High School AFS student, Torbjorn Skjelaen in Bergen. The recital will be at the newly constructed Lutheran church, where Skjelaen is a member.

Froehlich, who will be a sophomore in fall, will play selections from various composers, including Buxtehude, Clerembault, Kenneth Leighton, Hindemith and Alain.

He plans to return Sept. 14 to Appleton.

COG Studying Price Range Of New Apartments in Area

A survey to determine whether there is a balance in the rental price range of apartments being built in the mid-Fox Valley is being conducted by the Fox Valley Council of Governments.

A progress report was slated to be made today at the monthly meeting of COG at Oshkosh. The one-month study was started about two weeks ago.

Kenneth Theine, COG housing planner, said today that area savings and loan associations had requested the survey and provided some funding for it. They study is an inventory of the number of apartment buildings with four or more units, the price of rent, occupancy status and other characteristics.

A spokesman for one savings and loan firm said that the State Nursing Home Licensing To be Reviewed

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Licensing and regulating of Wisconsin nursing homes will be reviewed by state and federal officials at a Sept. 9 meeting in Madison, a government spokesman said Wednesday.

Donald F. Simpson of Chicago, regional commissioner for social services for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said the review is being prompted by a question over Milwaukee County Infirmary's approval by the state for Title 19 Medicaid funds.

"We are interested not only in the infirmary, but in the whole state certification and licensing system," Simpson said.

State inspections and approvals are handled by the Wisconsin Department of Health and Social Services, whose chief is Wilbur Schmidt.

Marion Man Found Guilty in Drug Case

A 12-member Circuit Court jury found a 20-year-old Marion man guilty Wednesday of giving a dangerous drug to a minor.

Karl May, route 2, Marion, is being held in Outagamie County Jail awaiting sentencing while a presence investigation is held.

May was accused of giving marijuana to an 18-year-old girl, while she was at an Appleton apartment Sept. 11. The girl, 19, was the state's key witness in the trial.

A lengthy portion of the trial was spent by the May's attorney questioning a chemist from the State Crime Laboratory on testing techniques and the structure of marijuana. Most of the balance of the defense testimony balanced on trying to discredit the state's witness.

There was no effort made to disclaim the fact that marijuana was present at the apartment or that anyone had smoked it. May's attorney stated that the question was whether or not

Bill Backed to Aid Kidney Patient Costs

WAUPUN, Wis. (AP) — A state panel agreed Wednesday to support legislation under which aid would be available to persons facing the costly expenses involving kidney dialysis.

Treatment of the kidney disorder in recent years has been described as a major medical breakthrough. But Wilbur J. Schmidt, state secretary of health, said expenses can soar to $25,000 annually.

The State Health and Social Services Board agreed to back a bill to help persons facing the expenses, and directed Schmidt to advise legislators that the board endorses steps to assist sufferers of expensive disease in general.

On other topics, the board endorsed a bill which would require a jury trial before a person could be committed to a mental institution.

It endorsed a bill which would allow taxpayers to deduct costs of child adoption from income taxes.

Archie Bunker Evokes Either Like, Dislike

There's No Middle Ground for TV's
Controversial Program of Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Reaction to 1971's most controversial television program continues with no middle ground. Viewers either love it or hate it. But any resemblance between the character of Archie Bunker of CBS' "All in the Family" and the veteran actor who plays him, Carroll O'Connor, is purely physical.

Archie is the embodiment of all the prejudices that have come to mean bigotry and racism. His appearance in a television series has been hailed on one side as healthy exposure while others suggest that he reinforces the narrow minded. O'Connor won his bachelor's degree from the National University of Ireland, and his master's from the University of Montana. While his politics are private, his outlook generally is liberal and cosmopolitan.

No Politics
"I'm not a member of any political party," O'Connor said, almost reluctantly. "I really don't care much for politics, and I just don't know what words like 'conservative' and 'liberal' mean anymore."

When Roosevelt was president, a lot of people thought that a liberal was pro-labor, pro-welfare and wanted to take care of people and a 'conservative' was probig business and antiwelfare. Now it is all mixed up."

O'Connor, rehearsing for one of next season's "All in the Family" episodes added:
Bigots' Hero

"I grew up in New York, but I never heard Archie's kind of talk in my own family. Mine was a family of teachers—my mother, an aunt and an uncle. My father was a lawyer and was in partnership with two Jews, who with their families were close to us. There were two black families in our circle of friends. My father disliked talk like Archie's—he called it the hallmark of ignorance."

O'Connor's interest is in building Archie's character— "bigots have dimensions," he said with a grin.

"I've been told that Archie is a sort of hero to racists," he said. "What the hell! Let them have a hero, and if a foolish fellow like Archie is their hero in spite of this changed world, more's the pity."

Constant viewers of the series, including those who deplore Archie's attitudes, find themselves warming to the blustery character. O'Connor seems to be fond of him—and one suspects that although Archie will keep right on making cracks about pollocks and hebes—he is going to be more lovable and—hopefully—funny when the series starts its first full season next month.

Comedian Bill Cosby Buys Home Near School

SHELburne, Mass. (AP) — Comedian Bill Cosby has bought a 15-room home on an 18-acre estate for $65,000.

The home is approximately 20 miles from Amherst where Cosby plans to enter the University of Massachusetts School of Education this fall.

Cosby, 34, originally said he planned to give up show business for a teaching career, but later said he will do some television specials and other projects.

He and his family are expected to move into the home about Sept. 1.

Blacks of Detroit in ABC Special

BY TV SCOUT

9:30-10 Channels 11-9 — The second of ABC's three half-hour specials on minorities is scheduled for tonight. It's Strangers In Their Own Land — The Blacks. The first, in July, was on the Puerto Ricans, and one on the Chicanos is set for September. Tonight's program was filmed in Detroit, with Frank Reynolds the on-screen correspondent. It looks at Detroit's black population from several viewpoints — economic, cultural, sociological. You'll see the groups' problems, hopes and minor triumphs.

6:30-7 Channels 2-7 — What makes tonight's Family Affair interesting is the presence of David Ladd in the cast. He's the son of the late Alan Ladd and plays Russ, an old high school beau of Cissy who comes through en route to a Peace Corps assignment in Chile. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Alias Smith and Jones has the boys in Mexico, trying to lure a murderous lady north of the border. As a cover, they're rounding up stray cattle, but a Mexican bandit wants the cattle, too. Their saga involves the bandit, a stranded singer and the nasty lady. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — Diane Baker and Peter Falk star in "Perilous Times" on NBC Action Playhouse. Falk plays a famous war photographer and Diane Baker is the woman who loves him. Their romance is interrupted when Falk has to go to London to cover the blitz, but Miss Baker plans a way to go with him. (R)

7-8 Channels 2-7 — Lancer has guest star Stephanie Powers in the role of an Irish girl who lies to Scott about her thieving father. (R)

7:30-8:30 Channel 5 — Ironside's case tonight starts out as a routine affair — an old lady is mugged — but it mushrooms. The old lady (Jessie Royce Landis) has $200,000 worth of jewelry in the purse the muggers took, and this windfall leads to murder as other thieves cut themselves in. (R)

8-10 Channels 2-7 — It's Jerry Lewis time on The Thursday Night Movies, with one of his usual kooky films. This one, from '63, is "Who's Minding the Store?" and Jill St. John, Agnes Moorehead, John McGiver and Ray Walston around to help. (R)

8:30-9 Channel 5 — Adam-12 has a grab bag of crimes — robbery, kidnapping, child-beating — and it's the latter that gets the most attention. Ronne Troup plays a girl who is kidnapped and Beatrice Kay, the once-famous singer, is the landlady at the place where the child-beating occurs. (R)

8:30-9:30 Channels 11-9 — Dan August is involved with an old judge who may be going insane. He thinks people are trying to kill him, so he kills back. His relatives tsk-tsk but Dan takes him seriously — especially after he commits suicide. (R)

Darryl Zanuck's Wife Files Financial Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Darryl F. Zanuck, the 68-year-old founder of the 20th Century-Fox movie studio, has been sued by his long-estranged wife over a 1957 financial settlement. Virginia Zanuck's complaint, filed Tuesday in Superior Court, says Zanuck should reimburse her $75,000 from the proceeds of a life insurance annuity policy in which she has half interest. She also asks half of a $5,469 cost-of-living raise Zanuck received from Fox last April.

Teammates Urged Peay To Return

Packer Tackle Will be Treated For Bothersome Nasal Condition

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Francis Peay's return to the Packers was a team project, it appears. On this there can be little doubt, based upon details of Wednesday's announcement the six-year offensive tackle will rejoin the squad, probably by Friday.

Indications the players took a substantial hand in the matter are to be found in the statements released by both Coach Dan Devine and Peay in connection with the official report that he would return.

Peay, who walked off the field Monday in reaction to criticisms by an assistant coach, said, "I particularly want to thank the coaches and people like Gary Lane, Dave Hampton and Bart Starr, who made a personal effort in my behalf."

Squad Concern

Devine, meanwhile, noted in a companion statement, "His leaving as well as his return is a matter of squad concern and, as far as I'm concerned, the matter is closed."

"Squad concern" is the key phrase here. The matter of Peay's return presumably was put to the team and the vote apparently was unanimously in favor of welcoming the former University of Missouri All-American back to the squad.

The convalescing Starr, who attempted to persuade Peay to reconsider before he left the city, said, "I'm sure that it was a team thing. I know everybody wanted him back."

Entire Staff

The players' response prompted Peay, in turn, to say "I'm overwhelmed by the understanding of my teammates and the entire coaching staff toward me as an individual."

"Their depth of understanding is appreciated and I am appreciative of the opportunity to return."

"I feel at home in Green Bay and I'm also deeply appreciative of the efforts of everyone concerned. I particularly want to thank the coaches and people like Gary Lane, Dave Hampton and Bart, who made a personal effort in my behalf."

Lane, a teammate of the Packer tackle during their college days at the University of Missouri, contacted Peay by telephone Tuesday night and urged him to return.

Before Departure

Starr, who has been visiting the practice field although recovering from shoulder surgery, said he had located Peay at the Packers' St. Norbert College dormitory shortly before Peay's departure for his St. Louis home and attempted to persuade him to stay.

"I think a great deal of Francis," Starr said. "I think he's a fine man, and a very fine performer."

"I always remember Francis as he came here (in 1968) as an established performer, a starter with the Giants. He didn't start with us."

"Francis began his role here on the specialty teams and the pace he set for those other fellows on the specialty teams was incredible. He was in on everything."

"I respected him a great deal for it because I've seen people who were relegated to that kind of duty who thought it was beneath their dignity. But not Francis, and because of this, we had fine play by our specialty teams. He set a pace they all tried to equal."

Nasal Condition

Peay reportedly will undergo treatment for a nasal condition before rejoining the team. Troubled by an allergy, he twice has had sinus surgery within the last year.

In announcing the five-year veteran's return, Devine said, "I want to clarify the misunderstanding that there was an argument. At no time did Francis engage in an argument with anyone."

The day of Peay's walkout, Devine had said he considered the veteran tackle's departure "permanent." But, though a strong disciplinarian, he is above all human and he subsequently modified his stand Tuesday upon learning Peay's explanation of his explosive reaction and other related circumstances.

The 27-year-old veteran, who had played under Devine at Missouri, attributed his eruption to a "misunderstanding" about his physical condition.

Reaction to Shot

"I felt a reaction to a shot I got after the Bear game Saturday night," he said. "I think the needle hit a nerve in my seat, actually. I couldn't sit or stand comfortably on the bus back to Green Bay after the game, and

Foxes Lose Ground Bees Explode in 8th Inning to Top Appleton, 6 to 3

BY DAN VANDERPAS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Three walks, a double off of the left field wall, and a smash single that was mishandled by Appleton's left fielder, broke an eighth inning 2-2 deadlock and enabled the Burlington Bees to post an eventual 6-3 win over the skidding Foxes Wednesday night at Goodland Field.

Eugene Koon, who had come on in relief for the Foxes, retired the Bees in order in the sixth and seventh, but lost his charm and control in the disastrous eighth.

After issuing free transportation to Phil Garner to open the inning, Koon fanned Keith Leppman on a curve ball and got Charlie Chant to hit a harmless grounder to short.

Ticker Doubles

With a pair of Bees already in the dugout, catcher Tom Tikker, who had whiffed the only other time he faced Koon, blasted a two-bagger allowing Garner to touch home and give Burlington a 3-2 advantage.

Dave Murphy was then walked intentionally to put visitors runners on first and second. P pinch-hitter Alex Schmacher followed with a free pass to load the sacks for left fielder Joe Robinson. Robinson responded with a hot grounder that shot to the outfield and got past Larry Linville in left allowing three more runs to score boosting the Bees' margin to 6-2.

Appleton had an opportunity to bounce back in the bottom of the eighth, but the sacks remained full when the third out was made with only one run scoring.

Sam Ewing, who had gone hitless in his last six appearances at the plate, greeted the Burlington reliever Ed Bacak with a single to left, but the big righthander fanned Linville and forced Lamar Johnson to ground into a force play at second.

Alex Barret worked Bacak for a walk, and Edito Arteaga followed with a bad-hop single over the first sacker's glove driving in Johnson with the Foxes third run.

Pinch-hitter Marty Morrison then looked at ball four to fill the bases, but Hairston stared at a third strike to end the threat.

Appleton's starting pitcher, lefty Hal McClain, retired the opponents with little trouble in the first two frames, but a single by Burlington's starting

Braves Whip Cards, 9-3 Hebner's Hit Beats Cubs

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Richie Hebner came back to the Pittsburgh Pirates after a stint in the army. It was just what the doctor ordered... and just what Dock Ellis needed.

Hebner, playing in his first game after two weeks of military duty, delivered the game-winning hit in the ninth inning to power the Pirates and their stumbling star pitcher over the Chicago Cubs 3-2 Wednesday night.

"Sometimes you're the goat and sometimes you're the hero," said Hebner, whose bases-loaded single with two out gave Ellis only his second victory since the All-Star break a month ago and helped the Pirates keep the charging Cubs at bay in the National League East.

Detroit on Surge, 2-1 Northrup Leads Tigers Past Brews

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jim Northrup wouldn't come right out and say it, with Detroit still eight games out, but things are starting to look like 1968—the Tigers' world championship year.

The Tigers, American League home-run leaders with 132, including nine in their previous two games, had their power defused to six singles Wednesday night. But two seeing-eye hits preceded a bases-loaded single by Northrup in the seventh inning, and it was enough for a 2-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

It was Detroit's 12th win in its last 16 games, with Joe Niekro earning his fifth victory in 10 decisions. Niekro retired after seven innings following a line shot off his right leg by Dave May, and Fred Schermerman—waging a head-to-head battle with the Brewers' Ken Sanders for "Fireman of the Year" honors—earned his 16th save.

Downfall Starts

Milwaukee starter Skip Lockwood, backed by three double plays, had allowed just two hits and faced 19 batters through six innings. But his downfall started when the ponderous Gates Brown opened the seventh by legging out a little chopper down the third base line.

"It was just one of those things — Ellic Rodriguez couldn't get to it. Tommy Matchick couldn't get to it, and I couldn't either," said Lockwood, who saw his record drop to 8-8 after three straight victories.

Willie Horton followed with a line drive that grazed the glove of shortstop Bob Heise. Norm Cash struck out, but Bill Freehan walked to fill the bases, and Northrup singled sharply to right center to score Brown and Horton and erase a 1-0 Milwaukee lead.

"If we keep playing like this, we'll make it real interesting," Northrup said. "Baltimore's been awfully lucky, but their pitching may be starting to fade."

Lockwood was the best I've ever seen him tonight—he threw real hard and kept the ball low," he said. "But it's been this way for us for two weeks—a different guy picks up every night. That's the only way you can put a streak together."

"Look, we've got some pitching now. At the start of the season we didn't have Joe Coleman, we didn't have Ron Peranoski, or Les Cain, or Dean Chance or Bill Denehy. We started with Mickey Lolich and Niekro and nobody. If we'd had that staff to begin with we'd be right up there now."

Manager Billy Martin had a similar analysis of the Tigers' recent spurt.

Team Balance

"We're getting the big hits, with different guys getting them," Martin said. "Tonight it was Northrup's turn."

"Niekro's leg stiffened up quite a bit after he was hit and I figured it was better to bring in Scherman and not take a chance," he said. "Scherman has been super. He didn't have the confidence he needed before, but he has it now."

Lockwood accounted for the set, moved their lead over Chicago back to seven games. "Had they beaten us tonight, it would have been only five games back," said a jovial Ellis who notched his 16th triumph. "Now, it's just like they never came."

The Pirates, who led the Cubs by 1 1/2 games in the middle of July before hitting a brief slump, also boosted their lead to eight games over third place St. Louis which lost 9-3 to Atlanta Wednesday night.

In the other National League games, the Montreal Expos bumped the skidding San Francisco Giants 5-0; the Cincinnati Reds hammered the Houston Astros 5-1; the San Diego Padres nipped the New York Mets 1-0 in 12 innings and the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1.

Ellis was happy to gain a victory after several weeks of frustration, but felt he "didn't deserve to win" after losing a 2-1 lead in the ninth.

The big right-hander was working on a three-hitter when

Bob Dandridge Signs Buck Contract

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bob Dandridge, now well removed from the "average salary bracket" after signing a three-year contract estimated to be worth nearly $200,000, said Wednesday reports of a pay tiff with the Milwaukee Bucks had been misinterpreted.

"There never was any animosity between the players and the Bucks—just some slight disagreement over how much we should make," a smiling Dandridge told a news conference at the National Basketball Association headquarters office.

The Bucks disclosed no terms. But it was believed the 6-foot-8 forward, who averaged 18.4 points and eight rebounds per game last year, will get $60,000 to $65,000 a year. It was estimated he received $40,000 to $45,000 under his old one-year contract.

Starting Third Season
Dandridge, starting his third season with Milwaukee, said remarks attributed to him in an interview several weeks ago had been misconstrued.

According to the article, Dandridge felt superstars Lew Alcindor and Oscar Robertson dominated the Bucks' payroll.

Bob Dandridge

so much the other players—notably himself—weren't getting what they should.

"I think every player wants to be paid what he's worth. But I think everyone realizes Lew and Oscar are our best players and should be paid the most," he said Wednesday.

"I feel players should be paid according to how they perform," he said. "If two guys can rise out of the average salary bracket, why not three or four?"

"I may not be in the super-star bracket. But I think I should be paid somewhere in between that and the average bracket," he continued.

Dandridge said the earlier report had quoted him as referring to a $17,000 figure and indicating that was his base salary. In fact, he said, that was closer to the Bucks' playoff take alone.

Wayne Embry, Milwaukee administrative assistant, said Dandridge's contract was "a good indication of the Bucks' philosophy of rewarding members of our team."

"Our salary scale is competitive with that of former champions New York and Boston and with Los Angeles, the perennial runnerup," Embry said.

Dandridge said he has raised his weight from 196 to 209 "by doing nothing" this summer, and hopes to play this season at 204, with the idea added weight might improve his rebounding.

"I'd like to average around 20 points a game, and I think I'll rebound better because I'm learning more about it—how to use my quickness for rebounds," he said.

Dandridge refused to single out a team he thinks the Bucks will have to beat this year because, as defending champions, they will be targets all season.

But he admitted he is glad the Bucks played Baltimore in the 1971 playoff finals instead of the New York Knicks, who had beaten Milwaukee four times during the regular season. He feels the Knicks should be as tough as ever.

Dandridge said he didn't think the Bucks' championship would blunt their incentive because the players have too much pride not to give their best efforts.

"With the guys we have, I think they'll want to do an even better job," he said. "We know every team is dangerous. Portland proved that last year when they knocked off all the top teams at least once. Most of us are still young and I think we can improve. The Knicks have improved by playing together for several years."

Dandridge professed to know nothing of a rumored NBA merger with the American Basketball Association.

when I woke up Sunday I couldn't get out of bed.

"I was feeling pretty bad Monday and the doctors told me to do what I felt I could. I thought that would be communicated to the trainer, but maybe it wasn't."

"I did my calisthenics, my cadence work, my agility work, and when I got to the grass drills I had a problem getting up and down."

"An assistant coach said something to me one time and I overlooked it. When he said something a second time, I erupted."

Peay's mother, Mrs. Amy Peay, also had suggested from her Pittsburgh home that another factor might have figured in his abrupt departure.

She said her son a sensitive top teams at least once. Most of us are still young and I think we can improve. The Knicks have improved by playing together for several years."

him, driving in Davillo with the game-winner.

Gil Garrido's three-run double capped a five-run eighth that carried Atlanta over St. Louis. The Braves had battled back from a 3-1 deficit after six innings and pinned the loss on Chris Zachary.

Hank Aaron's single scored the first run of the big inning and broke a 3-3 tie. Then Zoilo Versalles walked with the bases loaded for another run before Garrido laced Mo Drabowsky's pitch into the left-center field alley, clearing the bases.

Giants Falter
Rusty Staub's two-run triple and the seven-hit pitching of Steve Renko carried Montreal over San Francisco, which lost its eighth game in 10 and had its lead shaved to 3½ games over Los Angeles in the Western Division.

Staub's triple keyed a three-run rally in the third inning and gave him 600 career runs batted in. Renko survived several jams and handed the Giants only their fourth shutout of the year.

Gary Nolan fashioned a three-hitter and retired 16 batters in one stretch as Cincinnati beat sloppy-fielding Houston, which committed four errors. The Reds scored three runs on two Astro errors in their decisive sixth inning.

Larry Stahl doubled in the 12th, stole third and came home on catcher Jerry Grote's wild peg into left field as San Diego stopped New York.

Dave Roberts bested Tom Seaver in a duel of National League earned run average leaders. Roberts scattered seven hits over the 12 innings and Seaver struck out 14 before leaving after pitching 10 shut-out innings.

Rookie Doyle Alexander fired a four-hitter and knocked in a run for streaking Los Angeles, which won its 10th game in 12.

Tarkenton, Thomas Still Not Signed

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fran Tarkenton says he wants "to be reasonable."

Duane Thomas said he wants "to be treated like a man."

But in the meantime, both remain on the sidelines as pro football's preseason training continues.

Tarkenton, the New York Giants' exhibition opener against Houston Monday night in a contract dispute with owner Wellington T. Mara, made gestures towards a reconciliation Wednesday, but Mara responded with what appears to be a hard line.

"I'd be very happy to receive a call saying they want to talk," Tarkenton said. "I'm open, I want to be reasonable."

Mara: "Not in Camp. I've said all I have to say on the matter," the Giants' owner declared. "I will not negotiate with a man who's not in a camp." Since Tarkenton has already said he will not return to the Giants without a new contract, that situation is at something of an impasse.

Thomas, the star running back who refused to report to the Cowboys, was traded to New England, left the Patriots because he felt he was not wanted there, and finally saw the trade nullified, now says he will play for any National Football League club which will treat him "like a man."

One possible home for Thomas is Washington, where George Allen expressed an interest in the talented runner from West Texas State. "If you guys can arrange a trade," Allen told reporters, "we will go after Thomas."

Johnson Leaves
Meanwhile, the Giants' head coach, Tom Johnson, was another walkout on their hands. Punter Bill Johnson, disappointed with his performance in the team's 35-6 exhibition loss to Houston Monday night, left camp Wednesday.

Johnson averaged 39.5 yards per kick as the Giants' regular punter last season, but punted four times for a 31-yard average against the Oilers.

Jerry LeVias, the mini-receiver who failed to come to terms with San Diego after being dealt by Houston to the Chargers two weeks ago, reported and signed with the NFL club.

In a trade of fourth-round draft choices, Houston sent offensive tackle Laron Jackson to Denver for cornerback Cleophus Johnson. Denver will also get an undisclosed future draft choice.

Vikings Get Pair
The Minnesota Vikings obtained two guards in a pair of deals. They got Doug Sutherland from New Orleans in exchange for running back Bill Harris, then obtained Mike LaHood from St. Louis for line-backer Jim Hargrove.

The Philadelphia Eagles cut quarterback Jimmy Corcoran, a former Atlantic Coast Football League star, and the Washington Redskins dropped veteran defensive back Mike Gaechter, a former Dallas Cowboy. The Redskins signed defensive tackle Dick Arnold, recently waived by Pittsburgh.

Police, Northside Will Clash in LL Finals Sunday
Police Department and Northside Advancement Association will meet in the finals of the Appleton City Little League Tournament Sunday. Although the site has yet to be determined, the game will start at 2 p.m.

Police Department edged S. A. C. on John Pettigrew's RBI double in the sixth. Sheldon Anderson picked up the win, while Karl Huiting was charged with the loss.

Northside whipped Fox River Paper, 19-10, in a slugfest. Rick Prosek was the winner. Curt Ellison had four hits for the winners. Bob Rasmussen paced Fox River Paper with three hits, including a homer.

Bucks Abandon Muskies, Minor League Team
The Milwaukee Bucks said Wednesday they are abandoning their Milwaukee Muskies farm team which has operated in the semi-pro Continental Basketball Association.

The NBA champions said the minor league club was too costly.

With no NBA expansion this year, they said, roster vacancies are scarce and a player who is to be farmed out may get assigned to another minor league squad.

Visit From Fuentes Cheered Lukemia Victim Before Death
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "My son turned around and told me, 'Mommy, I am very happy today.'"

"That made me cry."

"I said 'Why Otto?'"

"He said, 'Because Tito came.'"

"Otto died the next morning at about 7 o'clock."

Tito Fuentes is the second baseman for the San Francisco Giants.

Otto Christo was a victim of leukemia at 13.

A passionate baseball fan to the end, Otto had a locker in his room filled with baseball cards.

His mother, Lily Christo, said in an interview Wednesday that the family's pastor, the Rev. James Hagan, thought a visit from Tito Fuentes would cheer Otto.

Played Atlanta
The Giants played Atlanta that afternoon, July 28, but Fuentes managed a lengthy morning visit at San Francisco General Hospital.

"Otto looked up from his bed and smiled," said Mrs. Christo. "I said, 'Who is that Otto?'"

"Tito gave him a baseball signed by all the Giants."

Officials Vote To Repeal Rule On Rose Bowl

Door Also May be Opened to OK Other Post-Season Bids

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Ten faculty representatives have repealed the "no-repeat" rule, which has prohibited conference teams from appearing in the Rose Bowl game two years in succession.

The repeal vote came Wednesday at the representatives' summer meetings in Boyne Highlands, Mich.

The rule has barred five teams since 1947, who otherwise qualified, from appearing in the game two years in a row.

The schools have 60 days after classes convene in the fall to challenge the vote.

If it is upheld, the 1972 Big Ten representative in the bowl game will be able to appear in the January 1973 game, if the team is otherwise eligible.

Major Promise
In its original agreement with the old Pacific Coast Conference, the Big Ten promised it would send "a representative team" to the game each year.

Since the 1946 agreement, though, the conference winner or co-winner was barred from the game by the no-repeat rule five times.

It also was reported that pressure is being brought on the representatives to abolish a long-standing rule which prohibits Big Ten teams from accepting bids to other bowl games.

Cops Feature Crowd of 1,963 Sees Dennis Teschke Cop Semi, 2nd Heat

SEYMOUR — A crowd of 1,963 looked on as J.J. Smith of Appleton won the time trial competitions in 26:06 seconds and captured the feature race at the Fairgrounds here Wednesday night.

Dennis Teschke, who was victorious in the second heat and the semi, was the only driver to capture more than one race.

Jerry Schultz grabbed a second in the feature while Jerry Smith finished third. Tom Erdman won second to Teschke in the semi and Steve Johnson took third.

Pete Sandavoll was victorious in the initial race and Al Prestine was second. Leroy Raedent trailed Teschke in the second run, while Jerry Smith set the pace in the third heat and J.J. Smith was runnerup.

Jim Jahnke and Tom Erdman finished first and second, respectively, in the fourth contest. Thirty cars competed at the races.

LaCrosse Tips Eau Claire in Legion Tourney
WAUSAU, Wis. (AP) — Mike Coady doubled, then scored on an error Wednesday to give LaCrosse a 5-4 victory over Eau Claire in the state American Legion baseball tournament.

The 10th-inning decision marked the opening of the double-elimination meet of clubs of high school age. Finals are Sunday.

Jerry Seifert pitched a two-hit, 4-0 shutout for Shawano in his team's opener against Beaver Dam.

Janeville, helped by 11 errors by Sturgeon Bay, took a 20-2 victory.

Menasha, all of whose runs were unearned, defeated Sturgeon Bay 4-1.

Cub Relief Fails
Ellis Figures Pirate Slump Has Now Ended

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dock Ellis figures the slump is over—his slump and the Pittsburgh Pirates' slump.

"Everybody on this club busted to get that 11-game lead," said the Pirate right-hander who picked up his 16th victory of the season as the Pirates beat Chicago 3-2 Wednesday night.

"We have no intentions of losing all that. I think everybody felt we had to have an off-period sooner or later. They just didn't want it to come at the end of the season."

"If it had to come, I'm glad it came now," he said.

The Pirates had lost nine of their previous 12 games.

The Pirates defeated the Cubs when Richie Hebner singled in the winning run with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth.

The Cubs took the first game of the two-game series and chipped the Pirate lead in the double-elimination meet of clubs of high school age. Finals are Sunday.

Jerry Seifert pitched a two-hit, 4-0 shutout for Shawano in his team's opener against Beaver Dam.

Vida Blue Grabs 21st Win, Defeats Bosox in 10, 5-3

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Label Oakland's Vida Blue never dull when he's working. A crowd of more than 30,000 waited out a two-hour rain delay in Boston Wednesday night to see him pitch and they weren't disappointed.

Blue gave them a good show that included his 21st victory of the season. Exciting, it was. Easy, it wasn't.

Blue's roommate, Tommy Davis, provided the early muscle, and Reggie Jackson supplied the late offense for the 5-3 victory that took 10 innings.

Chisox Lose
Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, Baltimore belted Minnesota 9-6. Detroit shaded Milwaukee 2-1. Cleveland nipped Chicago 3-2 in 12 innings and Kansas City shut out Washington 1-0 in a game halted by rain after five innings.

The second game of the KC-Washington doubleheader and California's game at New York were rained out.

Davis ripped a two-run homer in the first inning and singled home Blue, who had beat out a bunt, in the third as Oakland built an early 3-0 lead against the Red Sox.

Blue was coasting on a three-hitter and had retired 17 consecutive batters when he walked pinch hitter Phil Gagliano with one out in the eighth inning. Doug Griffin followed with his third major league homer, cutting Boston's deficit to a single run.

In the ninth, Rico Petrocelli hammered his 21st home run of the year, tying the score. Billy Conigliaro ripped a two-out double but Blue escaped the jam.

Campaneris Singles
Bert Campaneris singled with one-out in Oakland's 10th and moved up on a wild pitch. After Joe Rudi walked, Jackson doubled for one run. A fielder's choice and a wild pitch produced another and that seemed to seal it. But Griffin and Luis Aparicio opened the bottom of the 10th with consecutive singles, knocking Blue, who was trying for his 20th complete game. Darold Knowles relieved and shut the door, saving the victory that made Blue's season's log 21-4.

Blue struck out nine, increasing his major league leading total to 240.

Baltimore's Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks, destroyed Minnesota, keying an eighth inning rally that moved the Orioles past the Twins.

Burford Steals
Don Burford, who had three hits including a homer, started the winning rally with a walk and stole second. Two outs later, Frank Robinson doubled and then Brooks Robinson dropped a bloop single, chasing home Frank with the winner.

Merv Rettenmund doubled in the ninth and Boog Powell slugged his 16th homer of the year—a three-run shot.

Ray Fosse's 12th inning homer moved Cleveland past Chicago after the White Sox had rallied to tie the score on Rick Reichard's two-run single in the ninth.

Ted Uhlender accounted for Cleveland's first two runs with a leadoff homer in the first and a double in the sixth.

One Hitter
Paul Splittorff allowed just one hit in five innings and Cookie Rojas' first inning sacrifice fly accounted for the game's only run as Kansas City topped Washington in their rain-abbreviated game.

Jeff Burroughs' leadoff double in the fifth—the first ball hit out of the infield against Splittorff—was the only Washington hit.

The Royals scored the game's only run when Joe Keough singled, raced to third on a double by Amos Otis and scored on Rojas' fly ball.

Bill Close, who took over for Talon in the fifth, pitched two and one-third innings in picking up the win for Burlington, while Koon who was responsible for a pair of earned runs, took the loss. He is now 2-5 on the season.

Numbers and Names Create Party Fun

BY CAPPY DICK
Here's a stunt that will produce fun when several friends have gathered.
Print the alphabet on a piece of paper as in figure one. Opposite each of the 26 letters print its number. "A" is number one, "B" is number example. The name is "Mary."

"M" has a value of 13. "A" is worth one. "R" is valued at 18 and "Y" at 25. When these values are added together, they total 57, which is the score of the person named Mary. Do this with the other names; the player whose score is the highest is the winner.

You can work this stunt with other things than first names. For example, use the names of the streets on which the players live.
SEND FOR CAPPY DICK'S HELPFUL BOOKLET!
Mothers! If you need new ideas to entertain your children's scout meetings and birthday parties, you'll find 45 of them in Cappy Dick's "Birthday Party Stunts" booklet. To get a copy, send 50 cents in coin, plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope to CAPPY DICK BOOKLETS, P. O. Box 42877, Evergreen Park, Illinois 60642.

two, "C" is number 3 and so on, continuing to "Z" which is number 26. By doing this you have established the numerical value of each letter for the purposes of this stunt.
The next step is to print the first name of each guest and from this determine which person scores the highest total on the basis of the letters in his name.
You accomplish this by adding together the numerical value of all the letters in the name.

Election-Year Showdown on Inflation

That a settlement could be reached in the nation's basic steel industry without still another strike to disrupt the economy provides basis for cautious optimism in the struggle to do something at the same time both in overtaking inflation and in reducing unemployment. But the test of the agreement is yet to come as big steel performs its normal role of affecting most prices and as being a guide for other wage settlements in basic industries.

The wage and fringe benefit settlement works out to an increase of about 30 per cent over a three-year term. Big Steel's chief negotiator, Vice Chairman R. Heath Larry of United States Steel Corp., frankly called the agreement inflationary but said industry leaders had no choice other than accepting a nationwide strike. Big steel also is faced with a sales slippage from the effect of imported steel, and the new contract proposes to do something about this in the form of new work productivity rules.

The three-year wage agreement in the nation's basic steel industry came only a few days after the announcement that the federal budget for fiscal year 1971, which once was supposed to have a modest $1.3 billion surplus, has ended the year with a jarring and near-record deficit of $23.2 billion. And the way things look now, that deficit will be least matched for fiscal year 1972.

The Nixon administration, a recent convert to neo-Keynesian economics, has explained that all this isn't as bad as it sounds. Federal budgets now are full employment budgets — that is, federal revenues are calculated on the basis of an unemployment rate of four per cent instead of the current rate of about six per cent. Had the national economy been going full blast, there would have been a full employment budget surplus of $2.5 billion for fiscal year 1971. Measuring a budget this way, the test is that expenditures did not exceed revenues had there been full employment.

The average housewife or small businessman will have some difficulty in going along with this concept. It seems a little bit like a homemaker saying she could have paid the month's grocery bill if her husband had earned more money. At the very least, the full employment budgeting concept when there really is not full employment can only be a policy over the short-haul.

The nation's challenge, thus, must be to find means to cut into unemployment and to get a handle on federal expenditures. The so-called peace dividend from United States disengagement in Vietnam will help some in the latter regard. But not as much as once anticipated.

The only other approach will be for increased taxation both to raise the needed money and to remove money from an inflated economy, which would be a reversal of the conclusion that it was safe to remove money from an inflated economy, which would be a reversal of the conclusion that it was safe to remove 10 per cent income surtax. This would be a hard bullet indeed to bite for both the Nixon administration and the Democratic Congress with voters waiting to state their own cures of the pocketbook issues in the 1972 election.

Ky Can't Seek Presidency

The decision by South Vietnam's Supreme Court that Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky is not eligible to be a candidate for president in the fall elections comes as no surprise. But it is embarrassing for the United States nevertheless.

Last spring the National Assembly, at the urging and what is also said to have been some unethical pressure from President Nguyen Van Thieu, passed a regulation restricting candidates only to those who could gain a certain number of signatures from assemblymen or village leaders on nomination papers. It was conceded that this virtually eliminated Ky from competition. His final papers lacked at least 20 of the required number of backers.

The only other candidate who gained the required number of signatures was General Duong Van Minh who has since announced that he may not run after all since he insists that Assembly regulations make a farce out of any attempts at a democratic proceeding. This can obviously be considered as merely a political ploy to encourage more votes for Minh. Whatever may be American ideas about fair elections, we have no business telling the Vietnamese what regulations they can or cannot have. Our own nomination proceedings haven't always seemed so lily pure or consistent.

But a major argument for our continued military presence in South Vietnam has been to guarantee what we like to call the existence of a democratic regime. It has been the mistake of at least three of our Presidents so to label the different Saigon governments. It has been obvious all along that no South Vietnamese government has been truly representative. President Diem had dungeons full of political prisoners. His various successors maintained their temporary controls through bargains and strong arms. President Thieu was elected but there have been widespread charges of corruption and payoffs, those suspected of Viet Cong sympathies couldn't vote, and he even then didn't receive a majority of the votes cast.

None of this should be considered surprising in a nation with no tradition or history of representative government. But the American authorities, by maintaining the pretense that democracy is rampant in Vietnam, have called into question practically all our official statements about why we are there, our relations with Saigon and the prospects for a reasonably fair election. Reportedly many American officials would like to see Thieu lose if only to demonstrate that the election is fair. But after he has been described by President Nixon as one of the major and outstanding leaders in the free world, President Thieu can hardly be criticized by Americans, much less have our support pulled from him.

Real Settlement Needed for Cyprus

As we noted before, the only time when a United Nations peace keeping force actually can keep the peace is when both sides in a dispute really want an excuse to stop fighting. This has been happening on Cyprus in varying degrees for the last ten years.

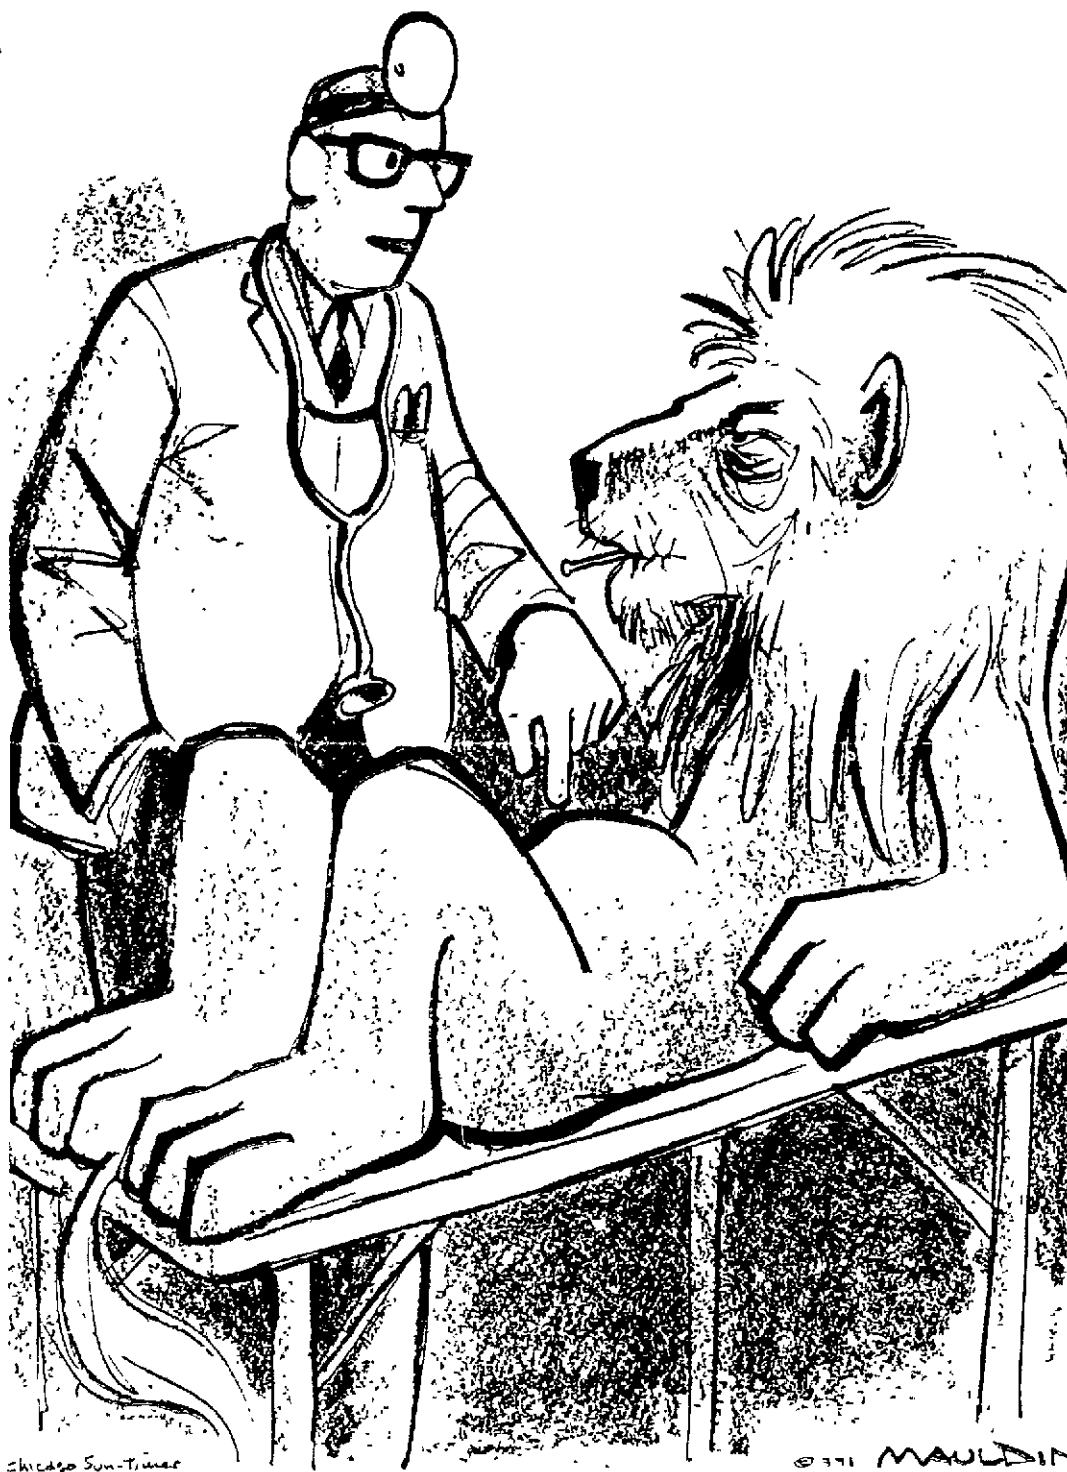

The population of Cyprus is about 640,000 with the majority of Greek background. But the number of Turkish citizens is close enough to mean that the Greeks cannot really control in spite of their political leadership or domination. The island is not really partitioned the way Germany, Korea and Vietnam are, but most Greeks live in one area and most Turks in another although often within the borders of the five principal cities. During more open hostilities a few years ago it was not difficult to set up street barricades dividing Turkish and Greek sections of the cities and rural areas.

Much of the trouble on Cyprus derives from the two homelands and it may be that the current right wing Greek regime has served to lower tensions since it has not pushed enosis, or union with Greece, for Greek Cypriotes. The Greek colonels have enough problems at home and are aware of the antagonism toward them from some parts of the Western European world and the doubts in the United States about continuing military aid to what is obviously a regime kept in power through force. Turkey also has been going through some domestic pressures that make a real conflict over Cyprus something less than alluring.

The presence of the United Nations military force on Cyprus has given both Turkish and Greek Cypriotes an opportunity to try to find a middle ground, an agreement about their respective governmental roles and even the chance for the loudmouths to sound off without disturbing the peace. But this sort of situation exists when both sides really want an end to hostilities and are only handicapped in saving face in finding a way. Actually in the long run this is probably the major problem that afflicts warring groups in many parts of the world once the desire for complete military victory has been cast aside.

Nevertheless a real settlement on Cyprus is the only answer to the differences. A U.N. peace-keeping force was stationed in the Gaza Strip for years but when Egypt decided it was time to move, the international group was withdrawn in a hurry. The same thing could happen on Cyprus unless Greece and Turkey arrange an agreement that will be acceptable to the majority of Cypriotes, Greek and Turkish alike.

Washington Insight—

American Diplomacy Credited With Keeping Middle East Quiet

BY JOSEPH KRAFT
WASHINGTON — The second year of all quiet on the Suez front begins this week, and it represents a considerable triumph for American diplomacy.

Indeed, the cease-fire between Israel and Egypt is probably the most significant foreign policy achievement of the Nixon administration to date. And a full measure of credit has to go to two figures not always lauded in this space — Secretary of State William Rogers and Assistant Secretary Joseph Sisco.

Exactly what has been gained by the cease-fire is not easy to assess. The talk of the Near East as crucible for a third World War has always been heavy with rhetoric — not infrequently set in motion by Vietnam war-lovers to draw attention away from their special eyesore.

Neither has the year of grace been obtained without cost. The Russians have deepened their penetration of the Near East in two ways. Militarily, they have increased their role in the air defense of Egypt. Politically, they have assured a continuing role by virtue of the 15-year treaty of cooperation and consultation signed in Cairo on May 27.

Lives Have Been Saved
The United States is also more heavily involved. American military support for Israel has been stepped up. This country has also been exposed diplomatically as the sole mover for peace in the area.

But the area itself is far more safe. Thousands of lives which would otherwise have been consumed in fighting along the canal have been saved. And the saving of life has had a political impact both in Israel and the Arab world.

In Israel the anxiety that caused people in the streets to turn on portable radios every hour for casualty reports has died down. While there is still strong reaction against any pressures that would force a disgorging of occupied territories without political safeguards, peace has become popular.

In Egypt the climate of war emergency sustained by President Nasser until his death last fall has been virtually eliminated by President Anwar Sadat. The internal emphasis now is on improving the welfare of ordinary men — Egypt for the Egyptians. Though still determined to regain the territories occupied by Israel, and by force if necessary, President Sadat keeps pushing the date ahead.

Moreover, a relatively passive Egypt role has made it much easier for King Hussein of Jordan to squash the Palestine commandos who threatened to set the Near East afire. In the sudan, Egyptian support has helped President Gaafar al-Nimeiry crush the pro-Communist faction which would have pushed the whole Arab world a step further toward confrontation with Israel had its plot to take power in Khartoum succeeded.

Rogers Persistent
Secretary Rogers' contribution to all this has been unflagging persistence in the face of difficult circumstance and not a little personal criticism. He persevered despite the cheating by Russians and Egyptians which led to a massive violation of the cease-fire in its first days.

He withstood the skepticism of his own Arabists who opposed his trip to the Near East in May. He braved the personal jibes summarized in Sen. Stuart Symington's unfortunate remark that the secretary had become a "laughing-stock."

Assistant Secretary Sisco has contributed a fertile inventiveness rare in the annals of diplomacy. He has repeatedly come up with new suggestions, proposals, interpretations, missions and conferences to overcome what seemed to be insuperable difficulties. When the United Nations mediation efforts for a package settlement ran aground, he moved nimbly to a proposal for an interim settlement based on opening the Suez Canal.

Only the other day the Egyptian foreign ministry seemed to put a stopper on further negotiations for the interim settlement by leaking to this columnist a memorandum submitted by the chief American representative in Cairo without the formal backing of the State Department or advance consultation with the Israelis. Mr. Sisco, unshaken, used that "phantom memorandum" as a way of surfacing a plan for Israeli withdrawal that he could have raised by himself only with great difficulty.

How far the present bargaining can reach remains open to question. But at the very least there is a realistic chance for extending the stillness at Suez through next year. And it is in this way — by growing slowly accustomed to the fact of no war — that the Near East can be eventually prepared for settlement and peace.

Looking Backward

Violent Thunderstorm Thursday

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 15, 1871.

On Thursday night, occurred the severest thunderstorm witnessed in this city and vicinity for years past.

For some time the lightning and crashing thunder were incessant, accompanied by a flood of rain.

During the storm, John Lappen's house, just west of the county buildings, Third Ward, was struck by lightning and a widow woman was killed instantly. She was recently from Holland, aged about 28, and had lost her husband at sea.

She was in a room by herself, preparing to write a letter, when killed.

John Lappen, standing outside the House, was prostrated by the shock but soon recovered. None of the other members of the family were injured. The house took fire but was quickly extinguished.

During the night, fires could be seen from several points — two in a westerly and one in an easterly direction — all caused by the lightning, which struck all around.

One of the fires was at Greenville. A Hollander known by the name of Peeters, living on the north town line road, had his barn burned, losing his winter wheat and hay. Another fire was said to have been seen somewhere near Little Chute, but we have been unable to gain particulars.

Public Appears to Be Uninterested in Universities Merger

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — As troubles mount for the Democratic state administration on the universities merger issue, the question presses:

Why did Gov. Lucey insist upon incorporating this historically volatile issue into the budget bill and insist with such persistence that its inclusion there was "non-negotiable?"

Considered academically, under the principles of public administration, the idea was plausible enough. The budget document is not merely a tabulation of expenditure and revenue laws. In less difficult circumstances it is frequently, even typically, used to rearrange bureaucratic housekeeping according to the tastes of its author, who is the governor.

Other Changes Offered

It is useful to remember that Lucey offered a number of other organization changes in his budget, as did other governors. Few of them attracted much notice. The reasons why the merger issue attracted so much attention probably offer a clue to his anxiety to have it as a part of the budget legislation and why he so frequently repeated the "non-negotiable" warning.

In a hindsight view, he sensed as an expert politician that merger standing alone would be extremely difficult to win if the full resources of the higher education establishment, formidable as they have proved to be in other situations, were brought to bear on the clear-cut and sole issue of a combined system of higher education under central command.

But if those forces could somehow be immobilized as by preoccupation with new spending levels, prospects might be approved.

But that has been exploded with the firm decision of the Republican state senate leadership to pare the budget down to fiscal provisions, and to consider both merger and the equally difficult issue of a reform of state tax sharing arrangements as separate propositions important and controversial enough to warrant consideration on their own merits and with ample time for full deliberation.

The governor is now in the position of a military officer who made a daring strategic maneuver that failed. It is time for retreat, while retreat is possible. By his own concessions in the timetable of the last merger version, there is no emergency. There is plenty of time to work out the arrangements if the bill is passed later, even after the fall recess. Better late than never, as the rule book has said since the first politician practiced his trade.

Sen. Keppler of Sheboygan, the Republican senate leader, avoided a direct answer when he was asked at the Republican rebuttal news conference about prospects for adoption of the merger bill, without regard to its separation from the budget issue and the time of voting.

Keppler did not say, Lucey as a pragmatist will note, that the bill will be killed. Keppler and other key Republicans, indeed, have offered merger proposals under their own names that do not differ in spirit from that of Lucey. If the governor is as concerned about this question as he has seemed to be in his months of ardent work, he may yet win the day.

Public Clue Needed

What the administration and the Republican senate leadership need now is some clue to public opinion on the question that has thus far aroused only the immediate parties. Here again it may be that the governor miscalculated. He expected that there would be some evidence of response to his repeated criticisms of inefficiencies in the existing structure. He remembered that on an earlier occasion a Republican governor sponsored essentially the identical idea and could plausibly have concluded that such a record would earn Republican votes this year.

But there is no true sign of public interest — in the sense of average citizen understanding or concern. That was the reason why in his widely heralded state government reorganization program of four years ago, former Gov. Knowles, Republican, carefully skirted the educational establishment.

A telling footnote about the state of public opinion, finally, was the deliberate statement of Sen. Chilsen, GOP caucus chairman, that in the months of publicity and statehouse argument about a single university system, he has not had a single communication from a constituent favoring it.

Word 'Rare' Has Lost Its Original Meaning

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
Thoughts at Large:

The word "rare" has almost entirely lost its original meaning of "fine" or "marvelous" in our time, and now means only "coming infrequently" or "unusual" (Lowell's famous line, "What is so rare as a day in June?" is invariably misinterpreted as meaning "uncommon.")

We tend to judge every group by its least worthy members; of the twelve disciples, by far the best known is Judas.

What we call "reality" is just common fiction that most of us have agreed to accept; a reality of consensus, not of conception.

Cities — 4.8 inches was recorded at Neenah — the previous night, causing thousands of dollars of damage. Barns were damaged by lightning, rising river water and the downpour flooded basements of several business establishments, Ross Plainse, U. S. Corps of Engineers, said the storm sent the Fox River 2½ feet above normal in little more than two hours. A lake was created at Little Chute; five people kept pumping at Theda Clark Hospital, Neenah, all night to keep water at a minimum in the basement, although records and x-rays were damaged by 4 inches of water.

generate an elite will parish of its own mediocrity; while an elite society that does not broaden the democratic base will suffocate in its own intellectual stagnation.

One of the most prescient paragraphs in Gibran's "The Prophet" (published in 1923) is worth pondering in this lawless era: "As a single leaf turns not yellow but with the silent knowledge of the whole tree, so the wrong-doer cannot do wrong without the hidden will of you all."

Youth doesn't need "ideals"; it needs a hitching-post to hang them on, that only the older generation can provide.

The most intense fear is negative, not positive: we fear not so much being repulsed from what we desire, but losing what we have attained. (Thus, the reason radicals overthrow conservatives, and not the other way around, is that the radicals can afford to be much bolder, having little or nothing to lose.)

Little Nuisances Can Make Big Headache

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could all do without:

The high price of steak. Hippiess who keep scratching themselves while explaining why they're in favor of antipollution measures.

The sound of compressor machines at building sites.

Getting in the same mail four appeals for contributions from charities you never heard of and your account is overdrawn.

Cocktail party hosts who bring down old hula hoops from the attic and insist that their guests see if they can still make them go round and around.

Listening to two women on a bus discuss why a third one is being forced to decide on vacation or undergo a hernia repair which the doctor says is overdue.

Public Transportation Trying to figure out why the more people in a city pay for public transportation the less they get.

Having to take a long telephone message for your teen-age son or daughter when the desk next to you in the office has just won a $100,000 lottery to a nub and the piece of paper orize.

The smell of a dime cigar left in an ashtray overnight.

Asking for a loan at the bank from a fellow who took your best girl away from you in high school.

Learning after the honeymoon that you can't buy a new car because your bride has to have her teeth capped or she may lose them all.

Sitting down on a dish of ice cream your wife left on the sofa for just a second while she went to the kitchen to get a napkin.

The clanking grinding to a halt of the living room air conditioner during the sixth straight day of the hottest heat wave of the year.

The look on the face of your boss when it dawns on him that you're not just telling him a funny story—you're asking him for a merit raise.

Scratch Glass

The problem of explaining to the girl you're engaged to why the diamond in the ring you gave her won't scratch glass.

Reading a letter from your mother in which she thanks you for the nice card you sent her on Mothers Day but also tells how much pleasure she is getting from the color television set your younger brother gave her.

Guys whom you can beat at matching quarters but who always beat you when it comes to seeing who'll pick up a big luncheon check.

Anything in a casserole dish that looks exactly like what was in the casserole dish at the last party you were invited to.

The way some of your clothing seems to shrink as you get older—shirts at the neck, pants and belts at the waist—and the way shoes get farther away when you try to tie them.

From these and other nuisances of a naughty world, deliver us, Amen.

Red Chinese Caused Deaths Of Millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study published today by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee estimates Chinese Communism has cost at least 34 million lives and possibly as many as 63 million in the past 50 years.

The author of the study, Richard L. Walker, director of the Institute of International Studies at the University of South Carolina, said: "A reasonable estimate would be that the figure approaches 50 million Chinese."

The study, titled "The Human Cost of Communism in China," was ordered printed by the subcommittee July 27, after announcement of President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Peking in what Nixon has called a journey for peace.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., subcommittee chairman, said in an introduction to the study its publication "comes at a particularly opportune moment."

Alliance of Convenience
He said "there is nothing new historically about accommodations or alliances of convenience between basically hostile powers," adding that in certain situations "such arrangements are not only desirable but well-nigh unavoidable."

"But if we are to have relations with Red China," Eastland said, "let us do so with our eyes open."

He described Walker as "widely recognized as one of this country's foremost China scholars" and said he was requested by the subcommittee last fall, on the initiative of the late Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., to prepare the study.

Eastland said the great merit of the study was that "while it does not deny the Communists credit for certain important economic and social accomplishments, it paints the picture whole by assessing and bringing to life the terrible human cost at which these accomplishments were achieved."

Mainland Rule
Walker's study begins with the founding of the Chinese Communist Party in 1921 and traces its rise to rule mainland China under Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai.

Walker said the Communists have made remarkable progress in some areas, but said this has been accompanied by mass executions, purges, slave labor and terror.

"The cost of progress achieved under Communist rule is too high for the conscience of the world to absolve its perpetrators," he said. "In terms of human life and human suffering and in terms of destruction of moral and cultural values this cost cannot be considered by any rationalization."

"The high Chinese Communist Party leaders who sit down at convivial banquets with visiting Americans may be guilty of as great crimes against humanity and their own people as were Hitler and Stalin and their followers," he said.

Any Act
"In the case of Chou and Mao," Walker said, "their commitment to their Communist faith has been one of more than a half century, and in its name they have not hesitated to commit any act."

"For some strange reason," Eastland said, "most of the newspapermen who have traveled to China for the American press in the wake of Peking's invitation to the American Ping Pong team felt called upon to paint Communist China in the most positive hues and to ignore the massive evidence of inhumanity and aggression that has characterized Communist rule in China."

Walker said "the direct cost in human lives" of the Chinese Communist movement is difficult to measure but he drew on various sources in and out of China in offering estimates of the possible toll.

Times Estimate
For example, he cited a New York Times editorial of June 2, 1959 in reporting "estimates that the first decade of the People's Republic of China had brought the extermination of 30 million people."

Moscow Radio, which he at one point calls "obviously not the most reliable of sources," nevertheless is quoted as charging that "in the course of 10 years, more than 25 million people in China were exterminated."

Walker said in the study "it is probable that the Chinese forced labor camps have exacted a higher toll in human life than the mass executions."

Walker said the Communists have made remarkable progress in some areas, but said this has been accompanied by mass executions, purges, slave labor and terror.

"The cost of progress achieved under Communist rule is too high for the conscience of the world to absolve its perpetrators," he said. "In terms of human life and human suffering and in terms of destruction of moral and cultural values this cost cannot be considered by any rationalization."

"The high Chinese Communist Party leaders who sit down at convivial banquets with visiting Americans may be guilty of as great crimes against humanity and their own people as were Hitler and Stalin and their followers," he said.

Londonderry Center Of New Irish Rioting

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Religious rioting raged through Londonderry early today as Protestants celebrated a victory over Roman Catholics three centuries ago, but Belfast had its quietest night since Catholic republicans turned the city into a battleground on Monday.

Five more persons were killed in Belfast Wednesday before British soldiers restored an uneasy peace, shattered only by a 90-minute gun battle between troops and snipers at dawn today. The killings Wednesday raised the toll to 24 in Northern Ireland this week.

Hundreds of others have been injured, an estimated 7,000 persons have fled from their homes, and hundreds of buildings have been destroyed by fire in the violence triggered by the internment of more than 300 persons suspected of belonging to the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The commander of the 12,500 British troops in the province, Lt. Gen. Sir Harry Tuzo, said the situation appeared to be "going in our favor now and in the proper direction."

He predicted that the violence would continue until the weekend and possibly longer, "but things will begin to improve soon, of that I am certain." The IRA, spearhead of the republican fight, was reported running short of arms and ammunition.

In Londonderry, the province's second city, Catholic fury exploded during the night as Protestants lit bonfires to commemorate the Aug. 12 anniversary of the breaking of the Catholic siege of Londonderry in 1689. The date also marks the arrival of British troops to combat communal warfare in the province two years ago.

More than 400 Catholic women and children marched out of the Bogside enclave to protest the internment of suspected terrorists, chanting: "If you shoot a British soldier clap your hands."

When they dispersed, Catholic men took to the streets with bombs, bottles and a scattering of automatic rifles. The army estimated 500 gasoline bombs were thrown, and at least 12 shots cracked from sniper posts in the Bogside in less than five minutes.

One casualty was reported. A British newsmen was seized by a mob and smashed against a car. He got a gash over an eye and had to have several stitches.

The undeclared armistice in Belfast was broken just before dawn when British troops moved into the Falls Road area, a republican enclave, to remove barricades thrown across the streets by rioters. Snipers opened up, and the soldiers dived for cover and returned the fire.

One woman was wounded in the crossfire. After 90 minutes of continuous shooting, the area fell quiet again and army bulldozers removed the barricades.

Officials in the Irish Republic to the south estimate that 5,000 Catholic refugees have crossed the frontier since the violence began, severely taxing relief facilities.

Women, children and babies are arriving "by the hundreds every hour," said an Irish army officer. One refugee, designed to hold 100 people, held 1,600 Wednesday night.

Black Gls Frustrated In Far East

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's civil-rights chief says he found some black servicemen in the Far East so frustrated they cried and suffered "verbal paralysis" in trying to tell him their troubles.

In a report not yet distributed publicly, Frank Render told Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird: "The frustrations of these men is so great and their pent-up fury so high that many of them have exceeding difficulty expressing themselves."

Render said that during a nearly month-long visit to study racial tensions at Far Eastern bases, "We gathered the impression from the behavior of some of the men that the conditions that affected them were so overwhelming that it was producing a verbal paralysis."

"We encountered Marines who while attempting to tell us what was wrong burst out in tears," said Render, who is deputy assistant secretary of defense and one of the Pentagon's highest-ranking black civilians.

Earlier Report
Render visited U.S. servicemen in Japan, Korea, Okinawa, and the Philippines in March and April. He filed his report in late May but it was made available only this week.

The Pentagon accorded wide publicity to an earlier Render report on military race relations in Europe. Last December, Render was presented at a Pentagon news conference where he discussed his report of "a new high level of black frustration and anger" among troops in Europe.

At that time, Laird issued a get-tough directive, including authority to remove or transfer civilian officials and military officers "who failed to produce satisfactory results" in dealing with racial discrimination.

Render's trip to the Far East came more than three months later and his report sounded as though many of the problems he had found in Europe still had not been cured by the new Pentagon antidiscrimination orders.

Serious Disorders
At one point, Render's report spoke of "situations pregnant with the potential for serious racial disorders."

After his visit, there were several black-white incidents in South Korea, including an alleged grenade murder attempt by three black soldiers.

The Pentagon civil-rights chief listed a number of improvements in the Pacific area, including command leadership in establishing human-relations and race-relations councils, emergence of "affirmative and constructive leadership" from black and white enlisted men, and creation of interracial "brotherhood" organizations.

But Render also said: "We received numerous complaints from black and other minority-group personnel alleging that the promotion system functioned in a discriminatory manner."

Menial Tasks
"Other blacks complained that they were given the menial and dirty tasks and the duty roster oftentimes being rigged in a manner unfavorable to them."

"Many minority-group military personnel spoke of the maltreatment of the system of military justice."

"Many of the affirmative policies and programs developed at the higher echelons were not being transmitted down the chain of command to the lowest trooper..."

"We found that blacks and whites were moving farther and farther away from each other, resegregating through accelerated racial polarization. This occurred on the base and also in the communities off the base. There were black bars and clubs and white bars and clubs."

"All too frequently the American military men in uniform had again succeeded in exporting American racism to foreign soils."

Gastronomic Feats to be Dropped
No Limit to Stupid Things

LONDON (AP) — The Guinness Book of Records may drop screwball gastronomic feats because challengers might harm themselves.

The November edition of the reference book which sells about 1.5 million copies a year may be the last to record such feats as drinking beer upside down, swallowing live goldfish and eating baked beans at a furious pace.

The bean eating record, by the way, is held by eight British boys who consumed 40 pounds in 30 minutes.

Recent editions of the book have included with the gastronomic records the caution: "From a medical point of view record attempts must be regarded as extremely inadvisable."

David Hoy of Guinness Superlatives, which puts out the work said, "Some of the records have got to dangerous extremes and we don't want any of our readers injuring themselves. Someone did injure himself recently trying to break the record for drinking beer while standing on one's head."

He said the pruning of the gastronomic department would probably be accompanied by a trimming in cramming listings. The record for this is held by 46 Australians who squeezed into a minicar, but Hoy said 120 people once tried to cram into a Volkswagen beetle.

World Gastronomic records come under 24 headings in the book. They include a man who drank 3 1/2 pints of beer while upside down and another who swallowed 210 live goldfish at one sitting.

Then there was the Welshman who last month downed 62 pints of beer in one hour. He managed it by a "temporary consumption" method, vomiting at certain intervals.

"There is no limit to the stupid things some people will do," said Hoy.

First to Face Charges

Marine POW Cleared of Enemy Aid

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — "I felt I had always acted the right way; now I'll get my honorable discharge," Marine Sgt. Jon M. Sweeney said after he was found innocent of running away in the presence of the enemy in Vietnam and communicating with his Communist captors after being taken prisoner.

"I feel total relief," the 21-year-old West Babylon, N.Y., Leatherneck told newsmen after military judge Capt. B. Raymond Perkins' decision Wednesday ending Sweeney's week-long court-martial.

"I'm going to try to help others understand the POW situation," said Sweeney who spent 18 months in North Vietnamese prisons. "POWs are being used as a political football."

Sweeney, the first American POW to face such charges, was accused by the government of running away and deserting his unit during Operation Dewey Canyon in Quang Tri Province on Feb. 19, 1969, and with communicating with the enemy during his imprisonment.

Charge Dismissed
The desertion charge was dismissed last Monday. Perkins' decision Wednesday came after Sweeney had spent virtually all day on the witness stand.

Sweeney maintained throughout the proceedings that his unit had left him behind and that he had not run away. He testified that he was found by two Viet Cong scouts and was taken north along the Ho Chi Minh trail on a truck loaded with wounded North Vietnamese soldiers.

Sweeney said he tried to escape but was dragged back into the truck, bound hand and foot and was placed on the floor of the vehicle. The wounded troops sat on him, he said.

Imprisoned in North Vietnam, he said, he was interrogated an average six hours a day. He said he was beaten continually while under questioning.

Sweeney, who will be 22 on Friday, said he was forced to sign antiwar statements and make propaganda tape recordings which were broadcast over Radio Hanoi. He said a North Vietnamese army officer held a pistol at his head at each of these sessions.

Testimony by three psychiatrists and Sweeney, a slight man who stands about 5 feet 7 inches, indicated he was placed in a 6-by-3-foot cell by the North Vietnamese and became "grossly depressed," tried to hang himself and had night

Spacemen Favor More Moon Missions

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 15 astronaut David R. Scott said today he believes permanent science stations should be set up on the moon and he called for restoration of two canceled moon missions.

"I believe we should explore the moon to a far greater extent than we are now," Scott said. "I think we should have a whole base of scientists up there, and I think we should have a rover (moon car) that would carry a half dozen men."

Scott made the comments during the first news conference since he and his crewmates, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden, completed their 12-day expedition to the moon.

Scott said that the canceled Apollo 18 and Apollo 19 moon landings should be restored "right now."

The astronauts said that during their time on the surface and in orbit of the moon they saw scores of places they felt could be of scientific importance.

Scientific Data
"Any place you go there's just a wealth of material, new and unusual scientific data," said Scott.

"I think the moon is indeed a fascinating place," he added. "I hesitate to use the word barren and desolate. To the three of us the moon was dynamic, beautiful and it has character."

Scott and Irwin had high praise for the Rover, the first car on the moon.

"That little system exceeded our expectations," said Irwin, as he narrated a film he took as the little car moved across the lunar surface. "The ride is very bouncy. It's a combination of a small rowboat on a rough sea and a bucking bronco."

Scott and Irwin showed photographs they took of layering in the lunar mountains and hills and in the wall of Hadley Rille, a deep canyon.

Much Organization
"We saw organization which we never expected to see," said Irwin, referring to the layering. The spacemen ended their lunar expedition last Saturday, splashing down in the Pacific Ocean after a voyage of more than 1.2 million miles.

Scott and Irwin spent 19 hours exploring the surface of the moon and collecting 175 pounds of lunar samples, in-are expected to continue for two weeks.

While the astronauts talked, scientists in the Lunar Receiving Laboratory unpacked about half of the moon rocks. The piece of the moon's crust, bag 196, is expected to be unpacked by the astronauts.

They used the first car on the moon to explore more than 17 miles of the lunar surface, visiting the foothills of mountains, scores of craters and driving veiled on Friday.

Along a mile-wide, 1,200-foot-deep canyon called Hadley Rille.

While his crewmates were on the moon, Worden spent three days in orbit alone. He operated a $17 million cluster of science instruments and cameras which mapped the lunar features and gathered data on the chemical composition of about 20 per cent of the moon.

Since their return here Sunday, the astronauts have spent long hours debriefing on their mission. Experts have quizzed the spacemen about every detail of the trip. The debriefings are expected to continue for two weeks.

Oneida Bridge Hearing Delayed

A joint legislative committee has postponed plans for a hearing on Appleton's Oneida Street high level bridge proposal due to the current state budget debate.

A hearing of the Joint Highway Advisory Committee had been expected Aug. 16 in Green Bay to hear the Appleton request to list the Oneida span among 24 top-priority bridge projects throughout the state and to drop the replacement of the Memorial Drive bridge from the list.

But according to Rep. Joseph Jones, D-Milwaukee, chairman of the Assembly Highway Committee, the hearing had to be postponed because of the possibility that a Senate-Assembly compromise committee may have submitted a budget proposal by that time.

Jones' committee and the Senate Transportation Committee chaired by Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, comprise the legislative members of the joint highway body, in addition to citizen members.

Jones said that, besides a desire not to be away from Madison if the budget compromise comes up, there is question whether the joint committee can function at present. It has not been formally reactivated since the last session by the Legislative Council, its parent body, Jones explained.

Anxious to Settle

Jones said he and LaFave are both anxious to settle the Appleton bridge question, and he said he had tentatively agreed to the Green Bay hearing before checking with the Assembly Democratic leadership and running up against the possible budget conflict.

LaFave's office announced this morning that his committee still plans to meet in Green Bay on the set date, but that the Appleton bridge matter won't be on the agenda.

Appleton last year won support from the State Highway Commission for a proposal to substitute the Oneida project for the Memorial Drive replacement on the priority list. The list identifies bridges to be built under bridge construction bonding legislation enacted two years ago.

The substitution requires only the endorsement of the joint advisory committee. No new date for a hearing has been set.

Housing Authority Outlined in Calumet

CHILTON — Representatives not undertake any housing project within the boundaries of any city or village unless a resolution has been adopted by the governing board of the city or village, and by any housing authority which has been created, declaring that there is need for the county housing authority to exercise its powers within that city or village.

Miss Thorpe said no county housing authorities are urged to utilize those provisions of the federal housing rules whereby private developers may acquire land, build housing projects according to federal standards and turn them over to housing authorities for due consideration.

Development of county housing authorities must be done through the county board. The powers and duties conferred and imposed by state statutes on mayors and councils are conferred upon county boards, and the powers and duties of specified city officials under those sections are conferred upon county officials performing duties similar to the duties of specified city officials.

The area of operation of a housing authority created in and for a county is all of the county for which it is created, but a county housing authority may have applied for funds.

Even though cities have applied for funds and still have not received them, they would not lose their place in line if they chose to join a county housing authority. Presently Hilbert, Chilton and Kiel have made applications for housing for the elderly and are waiting their turn on the totem pole which is getting longer and longer as priorities are set.

Miss Thorpe also told the members present that applications for low income families also boosts the priorities for these cities. She said many communities do not approve of this, but they have the wrong misconception of type of families this would include.

These would be families living in the rural areas of the county and not people who can move in from the larger cities to live. However, she felt Calumet County's balance would be 70 per cent for elderly and 30 per cent for low rent housing.

Representatives of the various cities and villages at the meeting Tuesday will take the information back to their councils and village boards. If an authority is developed, final action will have to come from the Calumet County Board of Supervisors.

Traffic Officer To Work Past Retirement Age

County Board Votes To Grant Lieutenant One-Year Extension

After shunning a request for further study, the Outagamie County Board Tuesday allowed veteran police lieutenant Lowell Veitch to work beyond his 60th birthday.

The head of the county police traffic bureau faced compulsory retirement when he turns 60 next month, under state provisions pertaining to protective service employees.

Municipalities have the option of extending the tenure. The county board's personnel committee asked that Veitch's employment be extended to Sept. 30, 1972. The committee acted at the request of Sheriff Calvin L. Spice.

Spice told the county board that Veitch should be rewarded for his "34 years of dedicated service to the county."

He said Veitch could accrue retirement benefits to age 62 and should be permitted to continue working since he is physically able. He also said Veitch should be allowed to "retire at a livable wage."

Supv. Paul Huseby of Appleton, chairman of the board's judiciary and enforcement committee, asked that the matter be referred to his unit for revisions which he did not specify.

Huseby said his committee had not even been contacted on Spice's request. The committee has been studying the position of traffic lieutenant, with an eye to establishing ground rules for Veitch's successor.

Huseby said his committee would report back to the board, with a recommendation, by the September meeting. His request was defeated 33-9.

Veitch's extension then met with unanimous board approval. The certificate of extension must be filed with the Wisconsin Retirement Fund.

In other action, the board: — Granted a September-to-June leave of absence to Garry Blomberg, county farm management agent, so he can work on his master's degree at the University of Wisconsin.

— Approved a $1,500 expenditure for a public address system for Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer's courtroom. The board's public property committee stated that the system was needed now to overcome disturbances created by the construction of a new county jail, adjacent to the courthouse.

— Referred back to the highway committee for further study, a resolution seeking 50 per cent county assistance in financing reconstruction of the Prospect Street bridge over Jackman Street. Total estimated cost of the job is $37,000. The highway committee is to report back at the September board session.

— Returned jurisdiction of a county-owned house on Walnut Street, near Fifth Street, to the board's special building committee. The house had been considered for use as new community guidance center offices, but the public property committee recently ruled that the remodeling costs were too high and recommended that the two-story house be razed for courthouse off-street parking. The county had purchased the home, and several others in the area, last year for parking use.

A Father and Son were recently honored at a Boy Scout Court of Honor for troop 45 at Fremont. Melvin Maierhafer, left, chairman of the scouting committee, presented a plaque to Roy Reichenbach who is retiring after being scoutmaster for seven years. Mrs. Reichenbach smiles at her son Kevin who was presented the Eagle Badge by Evan Redemann, institutional representative for the Boy Scouts.

Waupaca to Present School Budget

WAUPACA — The 1971-72 school district budget will be reviewed by the board of education at 7 p.m. Aug. 26 and at 8 p.m. the budget will be presented at a public hearing in the high school gymnasium lobby.

The board of education sanctioned the date Tuesday night and agreed that a summary of the budget will be published Aug. 19 and 26. Also, that the board would meet following the public hearing to approve or amend the budget.

Supt. Len Brittelli told the board that this year's budget has been prepared without knowing what the teachers salaries will be and without being advised what state aid revenues can be expected. Both factors could be resolved before the public meeting and, if so, both items will be inserted into the proposed budget.

Levy Furnished

He also reminded the board that the law requires that the school tax levy be furnished to clerks in the city and towns of the district by Aug. 31 and that the board has until the third Monday in October to make any necessary budget adjustments.

Opening day of school will be Aug. 30 and teacher orientation and in-service Aug. 26 and 27.

It was announced that officers of the school board were elected at a special luncheon meeting last month. Everett Anderson was re-elected president; Mrs. William W. Spiegler Jr. re-elected vice president; Dr. Jack Brueckner, clerk; and Loy Montgomery, treasurer.

Committee Assignments

Everette Anderson announced his committee assignments. Montgomery will head the finance committee. Serving with him are Brueckner and Laurie Anderson.

Brueckner was named chairman of the buildings and grounds committee and John Gusmer and Laurie Anderson are members of that committee.

The policy committee will be chaired by Gerald Anderson and Mrs. Spiegler. Mrs. Spiegler is chairman of the instructional committee which includes Montgomery and Gerald Anderson.

Chairman of the transportation is Laurie Anderson and Gusmer. Brueckner will serve as chairman of the personnel committee and the following two days by all also moves into the number one spot on the negotiations team. This past year he served in the second slot in negotiations. Mrs. Spiegler and Gerald Anderson are members of the personnel committee and Everett Anderson is the new member of the negotiations team.

A teaching contract was approved for Wayne Visentini to teach seventh grade English and reading. He is a recent graduate of Oshkosh State University.

The resignations of Ralph Dorn, sixth grade, and Carolyn Keenan, seventh grade, were accepted.

William Rady was hired for the custodial staff and Mrs. Vivian Gore was hired for four hours per day as a school custodian. Mrs. Kenneth Halverson was employed as half-time secretary to the Junior High School principal.

Borden's Dairy was awarded the milk contract with a bid price of 5.7 cents per half pint. He was the successful bidder last year at 5.6 cents.

Atlantic-Richfield (ARCO) was the successful bidder on fuel oil with a bid of 13.6 cents per gallon and Standard Oil Co. was awarded the gasoline bid at 12.85 cents per gallon.

Fremont Schedules Special Meeting on Bridge Proposal

FREMONT — The proposed bridge project will be discussed at 4 p.m. today at a special meeting called by the state highway department with the village board and the Northeast Wisconsin Planning Commission.

Village president Frank Smith advocates retention of the present bridge as a necessity to the village for surviving as a prosperous community. Fast moving traffic and greater clearance height for boats which will increase the size of the approaches, he said, are factors that could make a location further downstream, more feasible for the new construction.

The question of maintenance costs for the present bridge and the fact that some people do not recognize any need for more than a 12-foot clearance was also voiced by some of the village board at the monthly meeting.

Publication of the shore and floodplain, comprehensive zoning ordinance for the village is being planned in a form so that copies may be kept for future references.

A building inspector will be required by the ordinance and applications for the position may be filed with the village clerk.

Bench marks of cement base with their brass cappings which indicate elevation will be placed in eight places in the village. The survey firm of Glass and Donaldson will place six markers on the west side of the river and two on the east side at a cost of $400 plus material costs.

Zoning discussion revealed that some village residents have paid a fee to the Waupaca County zoning administration office to register their docks. Such registration was considered unnecessary because the village, as an incorporated area, is not under such county zoning regulations.

A contribution of $50 from the village to the summer recreational program was authorized. Baseball training for Fremont youngsters by Coach James Otte of Weyauwega, concluded after two sessions each week for eight weeks.

The village received a $601 liquor tax apportionment from the state. A $10 appreciation gift was received from the Krenke family which used the driver of a car southbound on Wolf River Crossing Park for freedom sponsored projects in which Wolf River youth have been participating.

A building permit was granted 12:45 a.m. Wednesday. A passer by William Gable and LeVan Toenko for construction of a Van De Yacht, 18, also route 2 service station and a garage costing $20,000.

The Sept. 14 meeting will side begin at 7 p.m. The earlier hour schedule will continue through the winter months

Youth in Serious Condition After Waupaca Crash

WAUPACA — Richard E. Zieball, 17, route 2, remains in serious condition at Theda Clark Hospital. Neenah, with broken neck bones suffered Wednesday in a Chain O' Lakes car accident.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Zieball. The neck injury was treated at Riverside Community Hospital before he was transferred to Theda Clark.

Waupaca County traffic police reported that Zieball was the driver of a car southbound on Wolf River Crossing Park for freedom sponsored projects in which Wolf River youth have been participating.

County Democrats Revise Congressional District Plan

A second plan for redrawing Wisconsin congressional district boundaries has been proposed by Outagamie County Democrats and is expected to be introduced in the Legislature within a few days.

The plan, which has the backing of the 3rd District Democratic Party executive committee, keeps most present congressional districts intact except for the elimination of the 10th District, while achieving "almost perfect population equality," according to its supporters.

Lawrence Longley, county party chairman, said he believes Republican Rep. John Byrnes of Green Bay would also approve the new plan, based on objections Byrnes voiced un-

The ideal congressional district size, based on nine districts having exactly equal population, would be 490,881 persons. The revised Outagamie plan varies from the ideal by a maximum of seven-tenths of one per cent above ideal population and a minimum of one-tenth of one per cent under the ideal.

The 8th District would cover 8 counties with total population of 492,974. The 6th District would expand from 7 counties to 12 and have a population of 492,678. It would lose Sheboygan, Ozaukee and Washington counties while gaining eight more western counties.

Major alterations would come in the 7th District, which would become the state's largest with 492,678 population.

All Manawa Teachers Now Hired

MANAWA — Melvin Martin, Muscoda was hired this week by the Little Wolf School Board to complete the faculty for the 1971-72 school year.

Martin, a summer school graduate of Platteville State university will teach vocational agriculture, replacing James Heuer who is entering private business.

Approval also was given James Sexton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sexton, New London, to attend the Little Wolf High School, tuition free. S. W. Krostue, legal counsel for the school district, informed the school board that any student who has attained twelfth grade status according to Wisconsin Statutes and proper documentation is obtained stating that the student has resided in the school district for other than school purposes, may complete 12th grade at the high school without payment of tuition, even though his parents move out of the school district.

Transportation

Dr. Robert G. Ames, superintendent of the school district, has a letter on file from Lawrence Groher who documented that Sexton worked with him up to July 4 and had attained 12th grade status.

Ames also was advised to conduct a study identifying all children of the school district who are under the two-mile transportation limit and who reside outside or at the edge of the city limits to determine the exact number and estimated costs for transporting them to the district schools. This report will be presented at the Oct. 12 board meeting.

Mrs. Alan Heitman, representing the Manawa Jaycettes, presented a request for the Patch the Pony Program for students in grades kindergarten through third. Approval was given by the school board for CLINTONVILLE — Teachers living in the school district who have not registered are asked to call 823-2174 before opening day. The teaching staff totals 108 full or part-time instructors, one and a half less than 1970-71. There are nine new teachers.

New high school teachers are Jerry McGinley, English; Lee Halverson, math and physics; Samuel Carey, industrial arts; Nicholas Wohlt, biology; John VanMeter, math; and Robert Mayer, business education.

Elementary totals are 970, compared to 987; junior high, 500 compared to 512; and senior high, 630 compared to 612.

Weyauwega Falls To New London In BABA League

MARION — New London whipped Weyauwega, 13-5, in recent south-central division Badger Amateur Baseball Association action.

Bille Carlsen went seven innings for the win and was relieved by Terry Wing. John Anderson was the loser.

In other action Waupaca downed Buena Vista, 10-5, and Scandinavia whipped Lanark, 10-3.

Scandinavia had 13 hits and Lanark had seven. Lanark scored all three runs in the first and then winning pitcher Keith Winters blanked them the rest of the way. Ray Swetella was the starter and loser for Lanark.

Makeup games will be played Sunday with New London (6-6) at Waupaca (8-3), Buena Vista (2-9) at Lanark (5-6), and Scandinavia (4-7) at Symco (9-3). Wega is (4-8).

School Events

Waupaca Eyes Supervision

WAUPACA — The supervisors of the high school's athletic events and musical programs would like to get out of the "baby-sitting" business.

The matter—which involves young children being dropped off at football, basketball and baseball games or musical events, and left there unsupervised until they are called for hours later—was brought to the attention of the board of education this week by Clarence O. Riddle, principal of Waupaca High School.

"I have reached the point where I just don't know what to do about the growing number of youngsters who are dropped off at the games or programs, allowed to wander about unsupervised, and often left standing outside the school building when the events are over, waiting for their parents to pick them up," Riddle said.

He said the children were seven and older.

"From Other Areas"

"What we are providing is four hours of babysitting for 25 cents," he said. "There have been instances where small children have been dropped off from other areas, too. They know which tavern their parents are in but they have been ordered to wait until 11 p.m. when they are called for."

He said one possible solution might be more supervision by elementary and junior high school teachers who know the children and can help work with them.

"I hate to wish the job on anyone. The youngsters carry on all kinds of monkeyshines," Riddle said.

"It has grown intolerable in the last two years. We have to have more man power to control them, or not permit them to attend functions without their parents. Sending them with an older brother or sister doesn't work either, because the older ones want to with their own gang."

Two Proposals

"Something has to be done," he added.

He has presented two written proposals: That students in grades kindergarten through eight be allowed to attend high school activities with supervision from the teachers from both junior high school and the elementary schools; or that students in grades kindergarten through six not be allowed to attend high school activities unless they are under the supervision of one or both parents. Riddle said he prefers the latter proposal.

Commissioner John Gusmer suggested that other solutions be sought before penalizing the many for the few. He proposed that one plan might be to have parents, through the P.T.A., volunteer to supervise at school events. He suggested that student activity cards be issued and that youngsters caught acting up would have their cards pulled and be barred from other activities.

It also was suggested that parents might have ideas for solving the problems or that notice to the parents outlining what is expected of their children when they attend such functions alone could help.

The board will study the suggestions.

Marion Bake Sale Set

MARION — The Women's Society of Christian Services at the First Methodist Church will have a bake sale at 1 p.m. Friday at the Nolan Real Estate office.

Clintonville Challenge Knights vs. Masons In Bloodmobile Visit

CLINTONVILLE — Local members of the Knights of Columbus will challenge members of the Masonic Lodge to donate blood when the American Red Cross Bloodmobile visits the city on Aug. 30.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Veterans Memorial Building from noon until 5 p.m. Quota for this visit for the Clintonville Chapter of the American Red Cross is 115 pints of blood.

Donors wishing to take advantage of the noon hour may make appointments in advance by telephoning either Everett Pierre, blood chairman, or Mrs. Gerald Erdman, recruitment chairman. Appointments also may be made for any other time during the afternoon. Walk-in donors are welcome.

According to Pierre, donors are asked to designate blood as replacement for that used for 6-year-old Karen Ziereis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ziereis, Embarrass, who underwent open heart surgery at University Hospital, Madison, on July 26.

The acute shortage of blood was felt here in July when supplies were depleted at Clintonville Community Hospital before the Fourth of July weekend.

When none could be obtained immediately from the Badger Regional Center at Madison, the local blood program unit went into action to assure a supply of blood for emergencies over the holiday weekend.

Responding to the request for blood were Tim Nordwig, Mrs. Reuben Nelson, Mrs. Ervin Peters and Mrs. Merton Pevonka. This blood will be credited to the quota when the Bloodmobile comes to Clintonville on Aug. 30.

250 Laid Off Jobs at Large Calumet Firm

NEW HOLSTEIN — Tecumseh Products Co., Calumet County's largest employer, has laid off for an indefinite period about 250 production employees—over 13 per cent of its work force.

James Schmidt, personnel manager, attributed the layoff to effects of the extended economic slump but predicted that the workers should be back on the job by October or November when business is expected to pick up.

The layoff came Friday evening and was the first major one for the four-cycle-engine manufacturing firm in four years. There have been layoffs in past summers when production shifts from lawnmower motors to snowblower motors—and some were larger than this, Schmidt said.

However, he blamed the economic slowdown for the size of this layoff. He said he expected no more layoffs this fall.

Tecumseh normally employs about 1,900 persons.

Schmidt said the layoffs were from a cross-section of production personnel. He said it reduced production about 15 per cent.

3 Men to Interview For Welfare Post

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The new director of the Outagamie County Department of Social Services probably will be one of three candidates to be interviewed Friday afternoon.

Supv. L. O. Woodard, chairman of the seven-member board of social services, Wednesday declined to identify the three candidates for the county's top welfare post left vacant early in this year by the resignation of Alfred R. Eggert. Eggert resigned because of ill health.

It was learned, however, that one of the three applicants screened first by the State Department of Health and Social Services once was an agency supervisor under Eggert. The other two candidates reportedly are in welfare work in other parts of the state.

Woodard said the applicants were referred to his board from a number of candidates reviewed by the state agency which determined their qualifications.

Woodard said that while his board could name the new director Friday afternoon, it is more likely the decision will be made the following week.

Woodard, some members of his welfare board, several concerned Outagamie Mothers and two state welfare officials met today with County Executive Alvin E. Woehler and County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt for a briefing on the 200-page administrative review report of the Outagamie agency.

The review, requested by the county board and several concerned welfare agencies, was conducted by the division of Family Services of the Green Bay Regional office, State Department of Health and Social Services.

The review was sought as an attempt to learn and resolve problems that have plagued the Outagamie welfare agency.

"The study," according to Woehler, "summarizes recommendations into two groups. Group one carries a higher priority of importance and is related more to agency operations. It is important to note that some operational changes have been made or are in the process of being made, though they are minor compared with the operational goals set forth in the review."

Both Woehler and DeLaHunt emphasized that attitude changes will go a long way in correcting some of the situations in the welfare agency. They said they have noticed considerable change in recent months.

County officials did not delve into specific problem areas contained in the lengthy report, in part because they have not yet had time to fully examine the contents.

Joseph A. Kexel, regional director of family services for the state agency, has informed county officials that "... as a result of the administrative review, we are not considering any financial disallowances for any of the programs."

DeLaHunt observed that the first half of the report is concerned with the "don'ts" in relation to the county agency, and the second half "is a recipe for doing something else."

He said the review points to "individual negligence" in some areas of past operation in the Outagamie County Department of Social Services. Much of the report criticism was aimed at Eggert.

DeLaHunt said he doesn't agree and he explained that the officials on whom the blame was laid were merely carrying out the directives and trying to stay within the financial limits set by a "conservative (county) board."

DeLaHunt asked that people directly and indirectly connected with county welfare "not refer to any of the old hurts."

"We will not resolve all the problems in just a short time. It will take time and patience," DeLaHunt remarked. "But we must put history to bed," in Outagamie County.

Woehler said two immediate correctional objectives, as recommended by reviewers, will be to establish a better social services informational system and "total clarification of organization and job description" in the county agency.

Woehler told representatives of Concerned Outagamie Mothers that they will find a responsive welfare board, but he also cautioned them that the needed changes will take time.

The Post-Crescent is preparing a series of articles examining, in depth, the contents of the administrative review report made public today.

State Agency To Determine Pay Violation

WAUPACA — A state agency will attempt at a hearing Tuesday to determine whether there has been a violation of the Wisconsin minimum wage law involving about 110 migrant workers in Waupaca County. Also at issue is whether the grower or the processor is their legal employer.

The Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, division of labor standards, is conducting the hearing. The agency has called the growers, William and Roland Huebner, and the processor, Pikel-Rite, Inc., of Pulaski, to testify, it was reported Wednesday.

The migrants are harvesting cucumbers for the Huebner brothers, who only recently completed correcting a majority of several migrant housing law violations at a camp where the workers are housed. The housing violations had been ordered corrected by another branch of the department.

Wisconsin law sets a minimum wage of $1.45 an hour for women and minors 18 to 21 years old, and $1.60 an hour for minors under 18. No minimum applies to adult males under state law, though they become subject to the $1.60 an hour federal minimum if their employer meets certain criteria.

Employers must keep proper records to show whether wage laws are being met. They may pay a piece rate rather than an hourly wage, but still must meet minimum wage regulations.

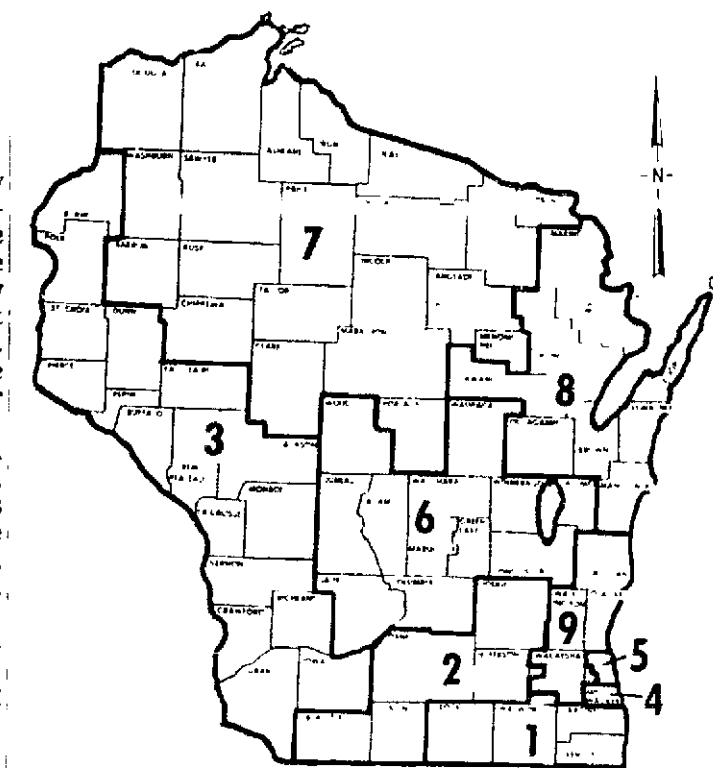

90 Children Are Participating in Special Program

CLINTONVILLE — Ninety children are participating this week in the program for the retarded at the Waupaca County Park at Keller's Lake. Two buses pick the children up and return them to their homes daily.

Activities during the day include swimming, handicrafts, games, singing, and cooking the noon meal.

Today is "Circus Day" and Friday will be visitors day. Mrs. Clifford Rafter, Clintonville, is director of the camp and is being assisted by a number of volunteers.

The program is under the new Waupaca County Day Care program, which is sponsored by the Waupaca County Association for Retarded Children.

Democrats Propose Redistricting Plan

21 counties, compared with a present 15, and a new population of 494,334.

Other districts and their populations would include, 1st, 490,461; 2nd, 490,367; 3rd, 489,722; 4th, 489,031; 5th, 489,031; and 9th, 489,131.

Longley said three goals were sought in drawing the new boundaries: population equality, preservation of existing districts, and avoidance of major shifts of political balance within districts.

Party Strengths
Districts that have been Republican would remain Republican. Democratic districts would retain strength with that party.

In redrawing the 6th District, for instance, predominantly Democratic Sheboygan County is proposed to be shifted with predominantly Republican Ozaukee and Washington counties into a new 9th District.

Longley said reaction to the earlier Outagamie plan, introduced July 26 in the Assembly by Rep. William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, and a desire to "perfect the original plan," were factors prompting the decision to revise the proposal.

One flaw found in the earlier plan after its introduction was that it placed Dodge and Jefferson counties in separate districts. This split Watertown, which straddles the line between the two counties and is the home of Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, a Democrat. The revised plan places both counties in Kastenmeier's 2nd District, as they are at present, reuniting his home town.

Longley said the new plan can be expected to be introduced in the legislature, where already there are several plans either pending or previously rejected, as soon as efforts have been made to line up bipartisan support.

John H. Yunker of Appleton and Longley worked out the two plans.

"We believe that this plan eliminates many of the shortcomings of other proposed reapportionment plans," Longley said of the revision, "because it achieves numerical equality together with a recognition of political realities."

U.S. Allows Censoring Of 'Voice of America'

Aim Is to Not Offend Greek Dictatorship; Employees Not Happy With Decision

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The delicacy with which the Nixon Administration treats the Greek military dictatorship has now gone to the extreme length of eliminating material from Voice of America (VOA) broadcasts which might offend the colonels in Athens.

Evans Novak

Within a two-week span, the highest level at VOA, the nation's overseas propaganda arm, totally eliminated U.S. editorial comment on congressional action to end military aid to the Greek dictatorship. The real reason is freely admitted at VOA: fear that the offended Greek junta might close down the vital VOA transmitter in Greece.

The irony here is tragic. The VOA's transmitter in Greece beams programs behind the iron curtain so that those living in Communist dictatorships may get the full, uncensored truth. Yet, to maintain that transmitter, the U.S. denies the full, uncensored truth for Greek listeners to avoid hurting the feelings of the dictators in Athens.

The result is deeper morale problems at the Voice of America than at any time since the Joe McCarthy era. Career employees have become increasingly uneasy that USIA Director Frank Shakespeare and his lieutenant, VOA Director Kenneth R. Giddens, are allowing their hard-line foreign policy views to interfere with objective reporting of the news. But until the Greek incident, any material killed or censored was justified on security grounds.

Not Soon Enough

Not so the top-level reaction when VOA writers prepared a routine roundup of U.S. editorial opinion on the July 15 House Foreign Affairs Committee vote against aid to Greece and Pakistan. That roundup was killed on the pretext that it was not prepared soon enough after the committee vote.

There was no such pretext, however, when two roundups on U.S. editorial opinion were quickly prepared after the House itself voted against Greek-Pakistani aid on Aug. 3. The roundups — one in English, the other in foreign languages — were carefully balanced to contain several viewpoints: Walter Cronkite of CBS, Paul Duke of NBC, the Christian Science Monitor, and the Chicago Tribune (the Tribune was quoted as criticizing Congress for saying that "this (nation) is to be accepted and approved and that is to be treated as a pariah").

Despite this effort at balance, both roundups were killed by order of VOA Director Giddens, a 62-year-old radio-TV owner-executive from Mobile, Ala. Brought to Washington by Shakespeare in 1969. No explanation was made to the flabberasted VOA writers, but Giddens was surprisingly candid in explaining his motives to us.

Policy Reasons

The editorial roundups on both the committee and the House votes were killed for policy reasons, Giddens told us, adding: "I just thought they might not be understood by everybody concerned." That possible misunderstanding, he continued, could persuade foreigners that the U.S. government approved of the action of the House of Representatives.

Such a misunderstanding by the Greek dictatorship, Giddens implied, could result in cancelling U.S. rights to use the 728.7 million radio transmitter at

On March 18, the VOA account of a public television debate on military aid to Greece was weighted 5-to-1 in favor of the pro-aid position.

Not Offensive

Indeed, months before Giddens came to Washington, VOA began sanitizing its broadcasts to remove anything that might offend the Greek dictatorship. In 1969, the State Department ordered two anti-junta sentences deleted from a VOA broadcast reporting congressional protests about internal conditions in Greece.

But until the past month, the VOA had not experienced the

2 Charges of Embezzling Are Dropped

Charges of embezzlement were dropped Wednesday against two Fox Cities men. Rodney Manty, 32, 1463 Manitowoc Road, Menasha, and Lawrence J. Juneau, 36, route 3, Kaukauna, had been charged with embezzling funds from the Weather-Tite Corp. The charges were brought by new management of the company when it was learned that the men owned a separate company which did the the installation of the Weather-Tite products. The attorney for Juneau pointed out that the former management of Weather-Tite had encouraged such action. At that time, the company was not interested in installation of its products and in effect sold them to the salesmen who then took over the installation responsibilities. "I feel that we should in no way try this case," Asst. Dist. Atty. R. Thomas Cane stated. He added that the new management had agreed that the charges should be dropped. The management in the Weather-Tite company changed hands in 1968. The men had been working for the corporation prior to that.

Angela Davis Receives Permission to Survey Background of Jurors

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Black activist Angela Y. Davis has received permission to survey some 240 nominees to the Marin County grand jury to try to support her claim that the age, income and special activities of the young and blacks are systematically excluded. Superior Court Judge Richard Arnason refused Tuesday, however, to allow the subpoena of grand jury nominees to testify at a pretrial hearing for the former UCLA philosophy instructor, indicted by the grand jury on charges of murder, kidnap and conspiracy in connection with an Aug. 7, 1970, shootout where four men died. The defense is seeking dismissal of the indictment. Arnason said he would permit the defense to mail questionnaires to nominees since 1962 seeking information on race, age, income and special activities. But the judge said he would not require the nominees to answer the questions.

Winner of Madison, a charges ranged from $8 to $15 spokesman for the National Association of Optometrists and Opticians, challenged Franke's assertions.

Commercial and private optometrists are subject to the same five-year training requirements and the same licensing procedures as independents.

Efforts to enact the proposed legislation date back to 1955 without being successful, Winner remarked.

Outlaw Competition

"I've never seen anyone who's in favor of this bill except the Wisconsin Optometric Association," Winner told the panel.

"I can't see," he continued, "how we can consider letting the state board decide whether or not they're going to outlaw part of their competition. That would be ignoring due process of law."

Proponents and opponents

Proponents and opponents of the bill are engaged in a heated battle. Dr. Donald L. Heyden, a proponent, said: "Although less than two per cent—12 out of 580—of the licensed optometrists in the state are engaged in commercial practice, they account for 17 per cent of the complaints filed against the professions." Petition Seeks Limitation of Student Voting

Stiffen Eligibility Rules to Prevent College Takeovers

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A petition campaign to persuade the legislature to stiffen rules about voting eligibility of college students apparently has begun.

Rep. Jon Guiles, R-Oshkosh, is one of the leaders in the Republican legislative fight to amend the laws to require most college students to cast their votes in their home towns. He has recently introduced a petition containing 6,644 names of people, mostly in state college communities, who are concerned about the possibility of student domination of municipal elections.

The issue has attained statewide discussion and concern since the enfranchisement of persons between the ages of 18 and 21 years under the newly adopted 26th amendment to the federal constitution.

The voluminous catalog of names supporting the Republican version of a college student registration bill originated in Madison through the work of Mrs. Ernest Hopper, according to Guiles. But it was obviously also circulated in other college communities and legislators report that further petition appeals are expected.

As matters now stand, municipal officials are required to accept the voting registrations of students who desire to vote in the communities where they are enrolled in college. The directive came in an opinion of former state Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette, three years ago, who said that municipal clerks could not deny registration to students, even if they had not been emancipated and were economic dependents of their parents.

The issue at that time related primarily to Madison, with its huge population of University of Wisconsin students and especially graduate students over the age of 21 years who were entitled to vote under the old law.

The voting qualification of all persons over the age of 18 has brought alarm to some of the smaller college towns where residents and officials worry about a student political "takeover."

But the Republicans and Democrats have fought to a stalemate which has lasted for months, Republications arguing for some safeguards in the law, Democrats refusing to accept them. The Republican vote total for a bill requiring some proof of intent to become permanent residents when students apply for registration has been gaining slightly, but is yet substantially short of a majority. Even if the measure is passed, the capitol believes that Gov. Patrick Lucey will support the view of his Democratic associates in the legislature.

The voluminous stack of petitions sent to the assembly demanded that the legislature protect "the dignity of the ballot," and protested that failure to control nonresident votes would violate "an age-old right." Without safeguards, students, if they desired, would be able to vote in their college communities, and again in the towns of their normal residence, the legislators were told.

Conferees to Draft Modified Tax Plan

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A state budget conference committee made a move Wednesday toward compromise on shared tax distribution by ordering a draft of a bill modifying Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's fiscal proposal.

Republicans James Swan of Elkhorn and Arthur Cirilli of Superior made it clear they weren't endorsing the plan.

The compromise plan by Rep. Norman Anderson of Madison from the Democratic side of the six-man committee calls for distributing $714 mil-

Judge Wants Jury Trial Rules Eased

Justice Says Juries Not Necessary in Small Claims Cases

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A Dane County Circuit Court judge has called three proposals to modify the present jury trial regulations "forward looking legislation that hasn't gone quite far enough."

Judge Richard Bardwell testified at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing on bills that would eliminate juries in some small claims court cases and provide for a maximum of six jurors in others, and provide for six, rather than 12, jurors in criminal cases with penalties of less than six months imprisonment or $500 fines.

The judge told the committee he does not believe juries of any size are necessary in small claims cases because they are too expensive. But, advised of the state constitutional provisions for the option to request a jury, he said a six-man jury is adequate. "Six men can come to as fair a result as 12," he said, and at the same time save considerable time and money.

Bardwell said all the juries for a week's court work in Dane County are selected on Mondays. In order to select five or six 12-man juries, a panel of about 100 persons is brought in at a cost of about $2,000 for expenses and mileage, he said. If six-man juries were permitted, he said, 10 to 12 juries could be selected from the same panel, cutting the cost and time per case considerably.

In conjunction with another bill that already has won Senate approval, the jury revisions would cut down considerably on lion in state rebates to local governments at $35 per capita over the next two years, with the remainder distributed to communities with equalized property tax levies of more than 17 mills.

Tarr Proposed

General property tax relief credits would be distributed above the same level, rather than above 14 mills as at present. Tax money that is currently distributed on a per capita basis would also flow into the formula under the proposal.

Lucey had proposed a 20-mill minimum levy to qualify for the state aid.

Anderson said the compromise proposal more closely represents a Tarr task force plan rejected by the legislature last session.

Some legislators expressed fear the proposal would alienate backers of tax redistribution.

A $7-million sum for transitional aid to localities which would lose money was proposed by Anderson to eliminate much of the staggering losses which would be suffered by "tax island" communities.

Whatever the mill rate figures, a redistribution formula along the proposal's lines would help rural areas that suffer from low property values and urban areas that bear the brunt of high cost municipal services.

Suburban areas which enjoy relatively high valuations but low costs, however, would receive less state money.

The most glaring "tax islands" are communities which receive utility tax rebates to the tune of 83 cents on the utility tax dollar.

They would receive nine mills on the value of utility property in their community, plus two mills to the local school district. But those two payments couldn't exceed three mills on all the property in the community.

The compromise allows communities in which new utility plants are built to reap benefits of the present law for the first five years to offset the cost of new roads or other improvements.

the time and cost of litigation in traffic cases. The companion bill provides that most traffic offenses be treated as civil forfeiture procedures similar to small claims cases and the few serious traffic offenses be considered criminal cases.

Bingo 'Approved,' but Now Who Can Play?

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—A drive to modify the state's absolute prohibition of gambling to the extent of legalizing bingo under the auspices of nonprofit organizations has been threatened by an unexpected road block.

The two houses of the legislature have agreed, in effect, that limited and supervised bingo ought to be permitted, but they have been unable to agree on the definition of the groups that should be permitted to sponsor such money-raising games.

The result has been the invocation of a conference committee to mediate the differences between the senate and assembly views and draft a compromise measure.

Principal author of the bingo legalization plan, a perennial in the legislature since the prohibition of all lotteries in the state by a stiff statute 26 years ago, is Sen. Myron Lotto, R-Green Bay.

Lotto pushed his resolution for an amendment of the state constitution through the upper house months ago.

Under the Lotto version, the state would permit bingo sponsorship by nonprofit organizations as certified by the State Department of Revenue.

But the assembly was more cautious, and specified that only religious, political and fraternal organizations should be licensed for such activity.

Both houses refused to change their positions, whereupon conference committee rule became applicable.

Assembly members of the compromise group are Reps. Gaulke of Lac Du Flambeau, Thompson of Poynette, and Froehlich of Appleton. The senate is in recess and has not named its representatives.

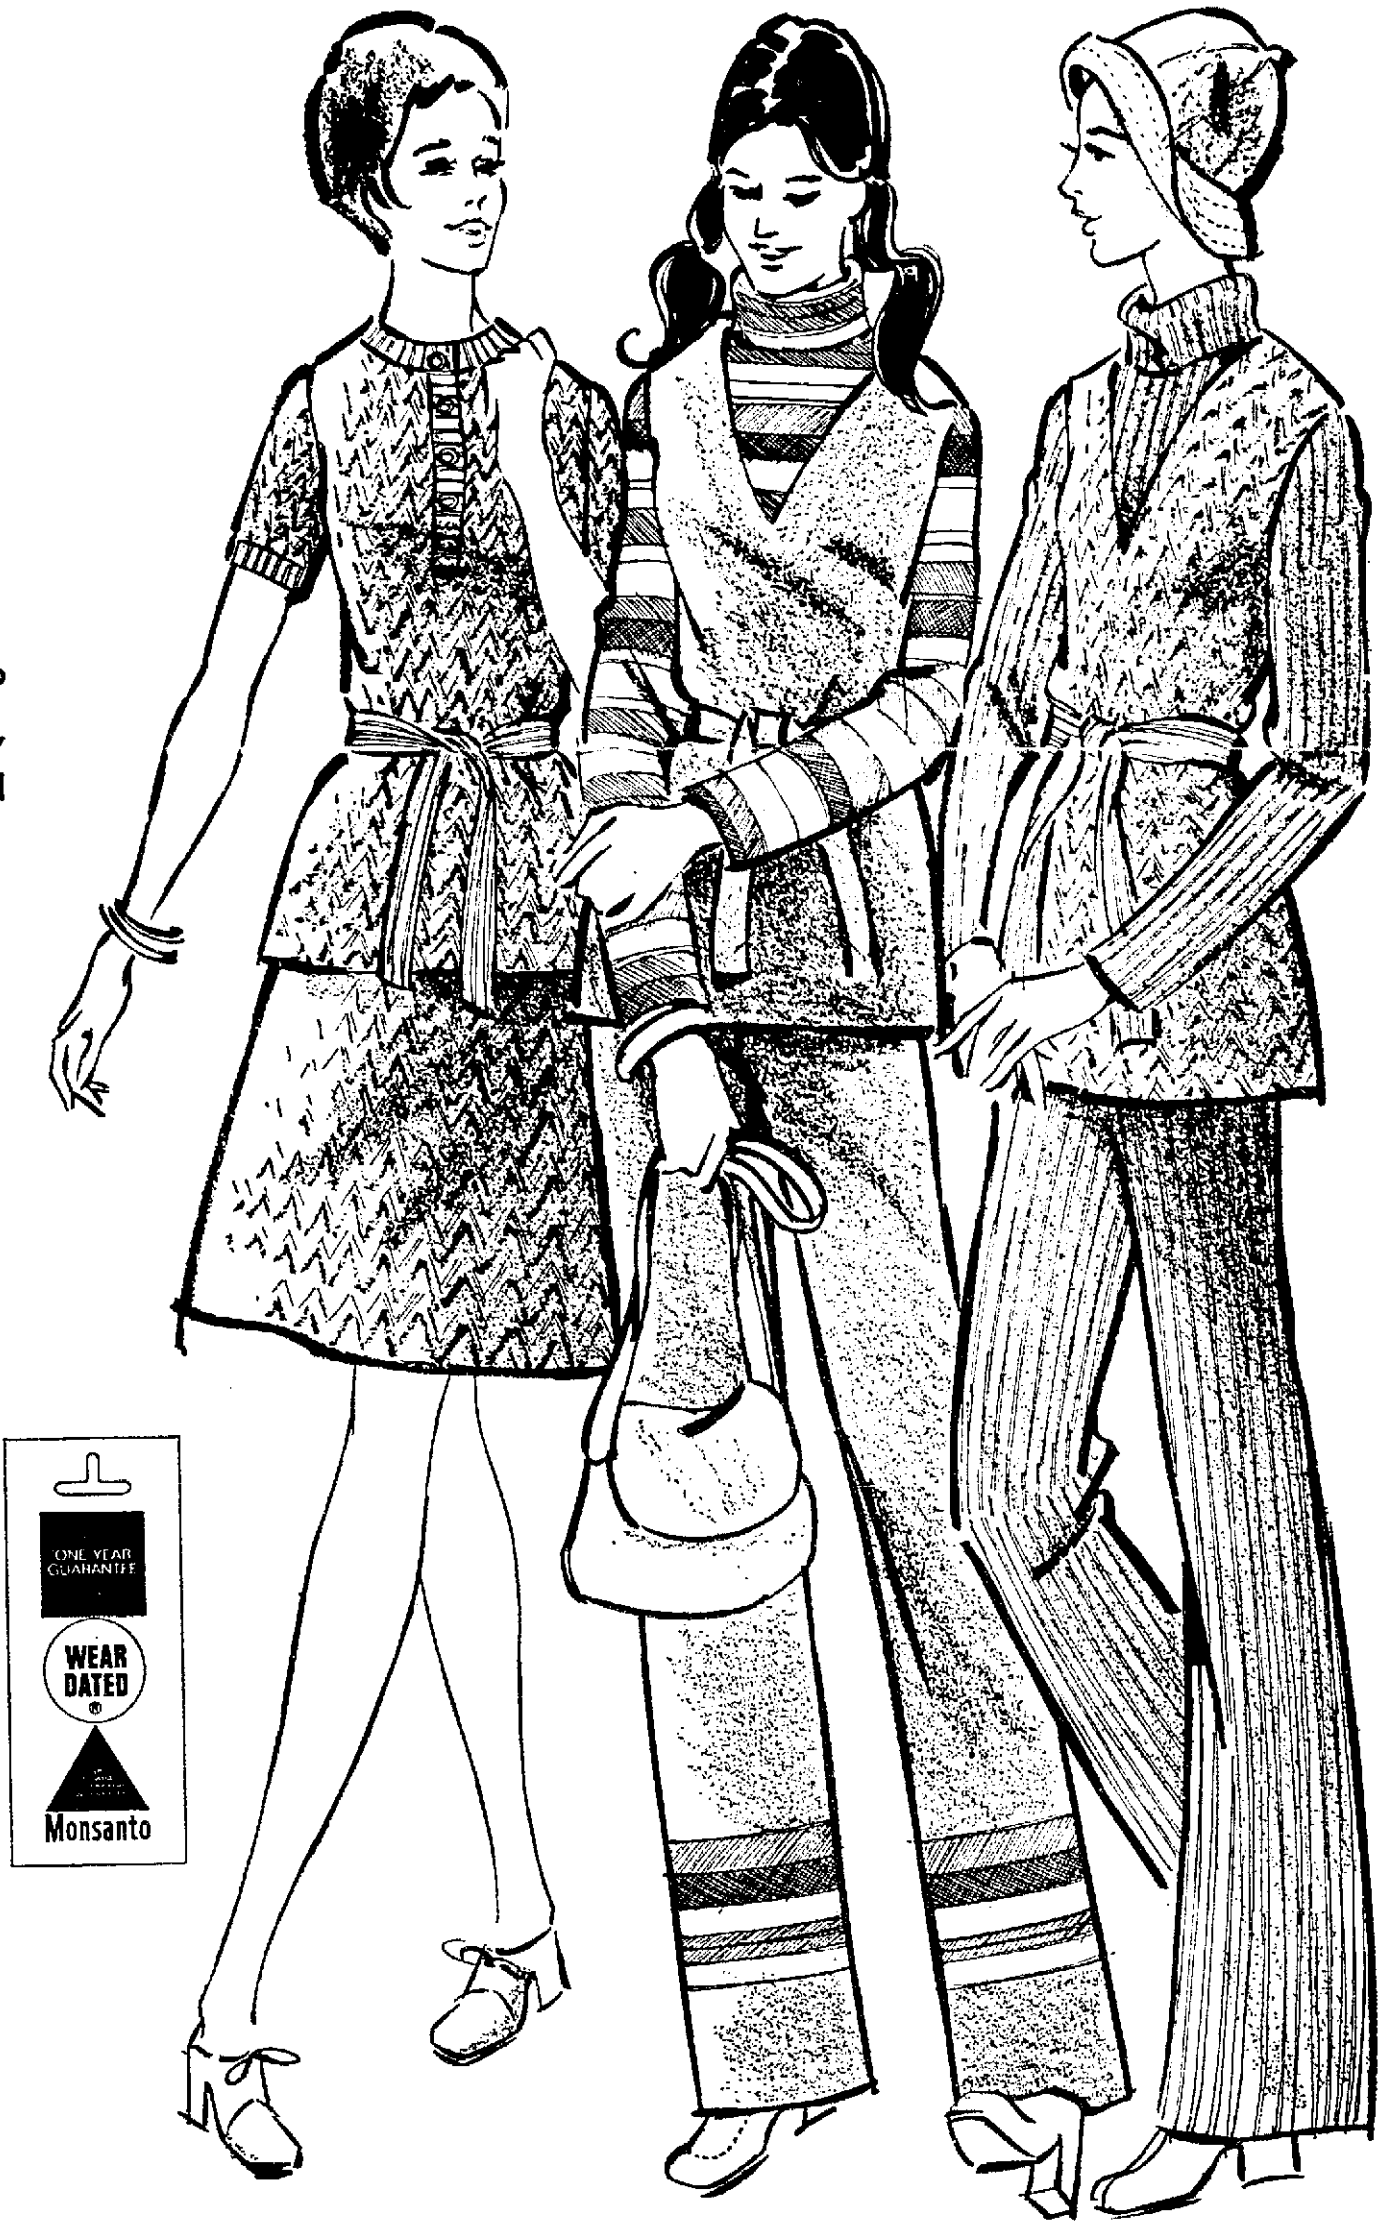

If the conference report is acceptable to both houses, considerable time will elapse before legal bingo is established. A constitutional amendment requires approval by two successive legislatures and an approving popular vote.

HOW TO BUY A BRA

1. Spend 5 minutes in our fitting room with several bras.
2. Try each one on. It's the only way to tell if a bra fits.
3. Bring this test. It may mean a better figure for you.

- Yes No
- ☐ 1. Can you feel the shoulder straps?
 - ☐ 2. Does the bra gap out in the cleavage?
 - ☐ 3. Does the back hike up?
 - ☐ 4. Do you shorten straps to get proper uplift?
 - ☐ 5. Does the bra feel tight? Or loose?
 - ☐ 6. Do you overflow or not quite fill the cups?
- If you had any Yes's — you have the wrong bra.
- ☐ 1. Does the lift come from under the cups?
 - ☐ 2. Does the back lie low?
 - ☐ 3. Do the straps lie easily on your shoulders?
 - ☐ 4. Do the straps move as freely as you move?
 - ☐ 5. Does the bra cling at the cleavage — leaving no gaps?
- If the bra does these things, it's the right bra. Buy it. Chances are the bra you'll choose is a Bali.

Top Democrats Greet Lindsay

NEW YORK (AP) — Leading Democrats have generally welcomed New York Mayor John V. Lindsay to their party but there was little upper echelon enthusiasm over his potential as a possible presidential candidate in 1972.

Republican reaction to the long-anticipated Lindsay switch Wednesday ranged from the view that it was overdue to expressions of loss by some liberal members. The White House had no comment.

In his announcement, Lindsay scored the Nixon administration and said his shift "represents a renewed decision to fight for new national leadership. . . . Whether this means I will run for president I do not know."

"I welcome John Lindsay to the Democratic party," said Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien in an eight-word statement.

Sen. Jackson said a welcome was also extended by Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, one of a number of Democrats already eyeing the presidency. Of the mayor's presidential possibilities, Jackson has said, "If you joined the church one Sunday, you cannot expect to be chairman of the board of deacons the next Sunday."

Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination, commented, "The only thing I can say about the conversion is 'Amen.'"

"But I did not come to New York to convince another candidate to run for president," he continued, and suggested that Lindsay might want to nominate "George McGovern for president."

Humphrey Echo Lindsay's criticism of the Nixon administration was echoed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1968 and a possible contender in 1972.

He said the switch "undoubtedly reflects the views of many hundreds of thousands of voters who supported the Nixon-Agnew ticket in 1968 and have not come to realize they made a mistake."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, considered the front runner for the Democratic nomination, welcomed Lindsay and said his shift was a sign "he can no longer accept Republican politics especially as they affect our urban areas."

Asked if Lindsay might make a strong Democratic candidate for the presidency, Muskie said he had "no firm judgment" on the matter.

In Indiana, home state of Sen. Birch Bayh, another Democrat weighing a bid for the nomination, Gordon St. Angelo, state Democratic chairman said, "The addition of people like Mayor Lindsay in the ranks of the Democratic party only substantiates and strengthens this move away from the destructive and unimaginative policies of the Nixon administration."

Republican National Chairman, Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, said the shift came as no surprise adding, "I assume that he will soon be joining the ranks of Democratic presidential hopefuls."

"I'm not so certain the switch is bad news for Republicans because I think for some time John Lindsay has been backed by the Democrats," Dole said.

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr. of California, who plans to challenge Nixon's renomination in several primaries, said, "I regret that another good Republican has been driven out of the party."

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon commented, "I feel the Republican party can ill afford to lose anyone at a time when registrations are running so badly against us. John Lindsay's switch is a major loss to our party."

Some of the most enthusiastic responses came from some of his fellow mayors. In Chicago, Mayor Richard Daley said, "I'm delighted to see the mayor of the great city of New York has finally seen the light."

Former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who himself made a try for the Democratic nomination in 1968, said:

"I know no special reason why he should not seek the presidency as a Democrat if he so wishes. In the American tradition there is no prescribed waiting period."

Wallace Administration Corruption Probe Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has junked its investigation into alleged corruption in Gov. George C. Wallace's state administration in Alabama.

Sources said a confidential report inside the Justice Department decided the investigation failed to find enough evidence to warrant prosecution.

A federal grand jury is scheduled to reconvene Sept. 7 in Montgomery, Ala., to close out the probe.

A source inside the Justice Department said tax indictments might be returned at this grand jury session or a future one, even though the major thrust of the investigation has ended.

The tax probe has touched on a $5,000 swimming pool built for Wallace's former top aide, Seymour Trammell, and $25,000 in campaign donations listed as expenses by a textbook firm that supplies public schools in Alabama, government sources said.

A broader probe that began 1½ years ago failed to uncover sufficient evidence of asphalt and highway kickbacks, state dock payoffs and bank favors for state officials, the source said.

In Montgomery, Gov. Wallace declined any comment on the investigation.

Wallace, who carried five states in his third-party White House race in 1968, has never been directly involved in the grand jury investigation, which has subpoenaed a number of officials from his state administration.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Will R. Wilson, head of the Criminal Division, met here Tuesday with government tax lawyers, campaign investigator and a federal prosecutor from Montgomery in connection with the long investigation.

Possible Payoff Government sources said the Justice Department probe had touched on a $110,000 loan by a Birmingham bank for Wallace's 1968 presidential race, false advertising invoices issued to disguise political donations to a 1966 state campaign, and possible payoffs for state contracts.

However, sources say the confidential report found in each case either insufficient evidence or lack of any federal law violation.

The pending tax case centers on Trammell, a former state finance director who was Wallace's top campaign aide until a split during the 1968 presidential race.

Bethlehem Defers Steel Price Increase

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — In a surprise announcement, Bethlehem Steel Co. says it will defer for two months an 8 per cent price hike on cold-rolled sheet steel which is used in many consumer products.

The increase on cold-rolled sheet, the nation's No. 2 steel producer said Wednesday, will go into effect next Feb. 1, instead of Dec. 1 as previously announced.

Cold-rolled sheet is used for the exteriors of such consumer items as automobiles and appliances. It makes up about 18 per cent of steel industry production.

In its announcement, made late in the day, Bethlehem said previously announced 8. per cent price increases on a wide range of other steel products would be imposed as scheduled.

No reason for the delay in the price boost for cold-rolled sheet was offered by Bethlehem and there was no immediate comment from other major steel producers.

Bethlehem announced a general price hike Aug. 2, matching an increase posted earlier the same day by the industry leader, U.S. Steel Corp.

An industrywide contract with the United Steelworkers union had been signed the night before, calling for wage increases of 31 per cent over three years.

The last previous round of steel price boosts was in May, when cold and hot rolled products and coated sheets went up 6¼ per cent. Last January Bethlehem announced a 12½ per cent price increase on most steel, but cut that back to match a 6.8 per cent increase announced by U. S. Steel and other companies.

Philip Berrigan Moved During Prison Hunger Strike

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Antiwar priest Philip Berrigan and 10 other federal prisoners, ordered removed from the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn., because of a hunger strike, arrived early today.

Berrigan and the other convicts, transferred to the medical center for federal prisoners here under tight security, reached Springfield aboard two chartered aircraft. All were dressed in prison fatigues and handcuffed.

Federal prison officials said the transfer was carried out for the good of the 11 men, but the attorney for the Roman Catholic priest termed the action punitive. The families and lawyers of the prisoners were not informed of the move beforehand.

Paul O'Dwyer, Berrigan's attorney, said the transfer was carried out on the orders of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and "is reminiscent of the cattle car transportation of another era."

Facilities Inadequate "The Springfield (Mo.) prison has even a worse reputation than Danbury, and hospital facilities there are grossly inadequate. Transferring prisoners there is punitive . . .

"It is part of the campaign of oppression, of snooping, of admitted wiretapping and eavesdropping which has marked this case since FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover proclaimed his sensational charges to the press last November," O'Dwyer said.

Berrigan is one of nine persons accused in Harrisburg, Pa., of conspiring to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and blow up heating systems in Washington, D.C., federal buildings.

At Danbury one time climbed to 26 of the 770 prisoners, with all of the Daniel, also a Roman Catholic priest, have been serving prison sentences at the Federal Correctional Institution in Danbury on charges of destroying draft records in Catonsville, Md. Danbury Warden John J. gation" until their transfer.

Norton said Daniel Berrigan would remain there. He said of the transfer of the 11 on the hunger strike: "In accordance with the Bureau of Prison policy they were placed under medical care, and because of the limited hospital space available at the Danbury institution the decision was made to move them."

He said he withheld announcement of the move for security reasons.

Launched Friday Five inmates, including Ted Gluck, who is also accused in the Harrisburg case, launched the hunger strike last Friday. They said it would continue until a number of demands were met, including a "speedy release" for Daniel Berrigan, who has been ill, and the scheduling of an early parole hearing for Philip.

Both brothers were refused parole last month.

The prison demonstration at one time climbed to 26 of the 770 prisoners, with all of the strikers placed in an isolation cell block. By Tuesday, 15 strikers had started eating again and had resumed prison duties. Philip Berrigan and the others were in 'administrative segregation' until their transfer.

Electric Energy Defended As Opposer of Pollution

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Electric energy may be the answer to that without electricity?" He said ecologists believe a defender of power utilities zero population growth and elimination of electrical home appliances, such as air conditioners and electric toothbrushes, could reduce electrical plant demands for coal, water and petroleum fuels.

Joseph F. Miller of New York, president of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association, said ecologists and conservationists are unfairly accusing power plants of abusing natural resources.

"The idea seems to be no growth instead of growth," he told a men's club during his national tour to reply to power critics.

"How are we going to recycle 10 years, and are going to cans and cars and treat sewage to increase.

Muskie Has Most to Lose In State by Lindsay Move

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer MADISON — Professional Republican and Democratic politicians responded in predictable fashion Wednesday to the announcement of New York Mayor John Lindsay, formerly a Republican, that he has switched his allegiance to the Democratic party.

Democrats responded with orchestrated enthusiasm best expressed by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, who evidently had expected the announcement and was prepared to make the most of it.

"I welcome a man of the stature of Lindsay into the important effort to insure that Richard Nixon is a one-term president," he said in a statement issued by his press officer.

Assumed in the responses of the statehouse politicians was the prospect that Lindsay's abandonment of his nominal Republican label foreshadowed his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

On that point, Democrats were more cautious and Republicans were generally scornful.

Most of them acknowledged that Lindsay could get some votes in the Wisconsin presidential primary because of its "openness," a reference to the fact that the law permits partisan cross-overs almost to the extent of encouraging them.

Politicians who re-emphasized that Wisconsin has had a long history of cross-over voting — in both directions — because party registration has never been required. The precedents were noted by Rep. Harold Froehlich of Appleton, leader of the Republican state assembly minority. Others suggested also that disaffected Republicans might be inclined to vote in the Democratic primary if the Lindsay name is listed there, and if President Nixon is the only name offered on the presidential primary ballot here next spring.

But Rep. John Shabaz of New Berlin, assistant Republican leader in the assembly, scoffed that "the Republicans have been holding him up," and predicted that with the enlarging field of available Democratic presidential aspirants, Lindsay will find it difficult to present a credible candidacy in the democratic competition for the presidential nomination.

Lucey is known to feel privately that the prospect of a crowded ballot in the state presidential primary could be a strategic advantage to Lindsay if he competes here in the spring of 1972. Earlier listed as probable filers for the right to compete for Wisconsin convention delegates were Sens. George McGovern, Birch Bayh, Henry Jackson, Edmund Muskie and possibly William Proxmire. In such a situation Lindsay could conceivably score with a relatively small vote.

The more typical reaction among Democrats was that Lindsay, if he put his name into the Wisconsin trial heat, would draw some votes from all other contenders, but not enough to win. The generally assumed favorite is Muskie of Maine, who is gradually, methodically drawing the crucially important party regulars into his camp, the men and women who count in primary elections with relatively light votes.

In an early view, Muskie as the front-runner in most accounts probably would have most to lose if Lindsay tests his presidential aspirations in Wisconsin.

A powerful figure in the spring primary will be Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee, if he chooses to become involved. There have been reliable indications lately that he wanted to be involved, as a backer of Muskie. Maier will be on the ballot as a candidate for re-election on the same day that the Wisconsin presidential primary will be held next spring. Muskie's Polish antecedents would presumably be attractive to the huge Polish ethnic voting bloc in the state's largest city.

But Maier is also proud of his friendship with Lindsay, who was his generously publicized guest at a national mayoral conference in Milwaukee recently. The possibility that Lindsay and Muskie may be rivals here may persuade Maier to reconsider the early endorsement of Muskie he had planned.

Urge Gasoline, Exhaust Standards

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Rigid standards for automotive engine performance should be adopted by the state, a study committee has advised Wisconsin's Bureau of Consumer Protection.

Daniel Milan, director of the bureau, said Tuesday the committee suggests adoption in a matter of weeks of standards involving gasoline and exhaust emission, but ratings for all-weather fuel performance and motor cleanliness could take a year or more to outline.

The bureau is a division of the state Agriculture Department, whose study committee's members include representatives of the American Petroleum Institute, the Society of Automotive Engineers and the American Society for Testing Materials.

After the department accepts fuel performance guidelines, standards governing gasoline advertising could be adopted "within six months," Milan said.

The committee, he said, is considering three types of rating for low-lead gasoline, ranging from unleaded fuel to gasoline with conventional lead properties.

"Consumers will have to learn the symbols we'll use to designate gasoline performance," Milan said.

The study was initiated in January after gasoline salesmen complained price wars and deceptive advertising were hurting business.

Standards for rating antiknock abilities. Octane ratings traditionally are geared to whether a fuel can prevent pistons from "knocking" when gasoline is exploded.

Standards for compatibility of exhaust emission controls. Milan said this rating would be vital to motorists whose cars are being equipped with catalytic mufflers, whose performance is reduced by leaded gasoline.

Ratings of the fuel additives which manufacturers claim can reduce engine deposits.
